Hard on the Cow—

Dan Ashton, a well-known Albany bookkeeper, had the misfortune to run into a cow while riding his motorcycle to work. Neither the motorcycle nor Ashton were badly hurt, but no report has been received from the cow.

Arrives at Camp—

According to a letter received today by M. E. Bilyeu, his son Merle has arrived at Camp Lewis and is greatly impressed with the war activities at Uncle Sam's training camp. Merle has been working in the shipyards at Portland for some time but tried when the Albany company left to enlist, without success.

Home Guard on Active Duty Last Night

The Home Guards had another successful outdoor drill and the effects of the preceding sessions showed up in the improved form displayed by the company. After the drill a detachment of the guards assisted in the policing of the streets near the armory.

The new uniforms for the guard are to be distributed next Wednesday night at the armory. Enough have been ordered to go around, it is believed, although the company has been somewhat increased since the uniforms were ordered.

"THE SHELL GAME"

AT THE ROLFE

"The Shell Game" will be the feature at the Rolfe this evening with Emmy Wehlen in the leading role.

This play is a five-act Metro screen romance from the Saturday Evening Post story by Kenneth Roberts, and has been playing to big houses in the East and Middle West.

In addition to the third episode of "The Fighting Trail," "The Blindness of Divorce" will be the feature on Wednesday and Thursday.

BEN F. WEST

Candidate for State Treasurer

He has been a resident of Salem for over 27 years, having come from Des Moines, Iowa, in 1890. He is serving his second term as County Assessor of Marion county, where he was elected by a five to one majority over his opponent. That is what the people think of West in his own county. Has been in touch with business men, farmers and laborers for years, and he is familiar with the needs of the common people, and as a member of the State Board of Control, the State Tax Commission and other Boards and Commissions he will see that the taxpayers' interests are protected, as that has been his stand in his own county. The taxpayers can depend on West—and if nominated and elected, they will have no cause to regret. He is not a banker and he is therefore under no obligation to any financial interests for their support. He has made no promises and will make none. He therefore asks your support and vote in the coming primary election, if the people desire a man that is fearless and is looking out for the best interests of the whole people.

Some of the Reasons Why Ben West

Should Be Elected State Treasurer:

In the first place he is a 100 per cent American, is an American citizen and loyal to the core and is entirely competent for the position.

His character is beyond reproach and he has shown by his past record of 27 years' residence at the Capital of Oregon, that he is capable of filling any position the people might entrust to him.

He is honest, enthusiastic and alert if he is selected to the office of State Treasurer, he will serve the people in such a manner that they will have no cause to regret having voted for him.

One very important reason why he should have this office is the fact that he has had six years' experience in assessment work and, according to his record, has made good as an assessor and equalizer.

The State Treasurer is always a member of the State Tax Commission and I believe that a very essential qualification for a member of this Commission is that of experience in assessment work, thus giving them a better knowledge of values and a broader acquaintance with the needs of the people.

GEO. D. BRIERLY,
Assessor of Grant County, Oregon.

When to Shut Your Eyes.

In an article about Thomas Edison in the American Magazine, William Maxwell, the vice president of the Edison company, said:

"One bit of executive strategy that I learned from Edison has stood me in good stead a dozen times. He had the wise habit of knowing when to shut his eyes. There are times in every organization when controversies arise between even the most loyal and best intentioned subordinates. Sometimes it is the wisest thing for the man at the top to know nothing whatever about them, to let them work themselves out. I learned a great many years ago, said Lincoln, 'that in a fight between man and wife, a third party should never get between the woman's skillet and the man's ax-helve.'"

Tact and Charm.

Dinner conversation offers the opportunity to eliminate all disagreeable topics. To lay aside one's worries and keep one's troubles from obtruding. The same should be said of all occasions and good form particularly denotes that dinners, and formal dinners at that, should be freed of personal burdens related.

At all times give interest as well as try to inspire it and one of the emphatic ways is to let the person who happens to be speaking have your undivided attention. Attention and concentration amount to about the same thing and should apply to what one is oneself saying as well as hearing.
