

"STOP, LOOK and LISTEN"

JUDGE WILL R. KING
Candidate for U. S. Senate

Will R. King, candidate for the United States senate, came to Oregon in 1872 from the state of Washington. He and one other party went from Walla Walla, Washington, to Jordan Valley, Oregon, in 1878, with only one horse between them. It was a case of ride and tie. He had a shotgun and only one barrel capable of being placed in action and the other party owned the horse. At that time they had to go, after they passed Baker, Oregon, from 60 to 70 miles without seeing anyone. They swam across the Malheur and Owyhee rivers, landed at Jordan Valley some time in April, and Will R. was only 13 years old. The other party swam across the river first and sent the horse back after him. It was a rainy day on the banks of Jordan River. He said: "On Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wishful eye. I wish I was on the other side." Somehow he got across.

Later spent three years in the state agricultural college, took a law course, graduated as a lawyer and spent 25 years in practice. During this time he was representative from Malheur county two years, later state senator four years, candidate for governor, got licked but notwithstanding, Roosevelt carried the state by 45,000 majority that year Judge King only lost the state by about 10,000. Later he was made supreme judge by appointment of Governor Chamberlain and all judges and lawyers say that his record was enviable because of his dissenting opinions. Later he was elected delegate to the Baltimore convention where it is well known that his influence had much to do with the nomination of President Wilson, one of the great presidents of the United States, and became his principal manager for the Western States. Five years ago he was appointed chief counsel of the United States Reclamation service. He was a candidate for delegate to the St. Louis convention. His principal object was to get the woman suffrage plank in the democratic platform. After election and before he went to St. Louis, he had a personal interview with the President in which he pointed out that New York could not be counted on nor could Illinois and that Indiana was doubtful, and that in order to insure his election he told the President that he should in the first speech he made say something in favor of woman suffrage. The President did not indicate what he would do but it is a notable fact that in the first speech he made afterwards he came out in favor of woman suffrage. Judge King was on the resolution committee and made the fight of his life in favor of woman suffrage for which he had stood and been in favor of for 30 years.

He was the first in the United States to introduce in any legislative body a resolution in favor of the initiative and referendum. In 1892 he made his maiden speech in the legislature in favor of election of senators by direct vote. In 1897 he cast the deciding vote in favor of the woman suffrage amendment in the state senate and is in favor of an amendment to the National constitution giving the ballot to women. —Paid Adv.

FIRET APPEARANCE OF G. A. R. SONG TO BE HERE TODAY

At the Forest Grove convention of last year, the G. A. R. endorsed a song which will make its first appearance in public at the convention here in Albany. The words are by Bettina St. Clair Harvey, and the music is by Z. M. Parvin, musical director of Co. 4, 64th Ill. infantry, now a member of George Wright Post No. 1, G. A. R., Department of Oregon. Following is the song:

Hats Off to the Boys of '61
They are marching along to the roll of the drum,
As they marched many years ago,
But they're fewer in number, and slower they come,
And their hair's turning white like the snow.

Surely while we've a flag
This great nation shall live—
Be remembered for what they have done.

As they march down the street
To the drum's measured beat—
Hats off, to the Boys of '61.
Chorus
All honor and love for the boys of '61
As they march down the street
To the drum's measured beat—
Hats off, to the boys of '61.
