

BOYS' SHOES

They Wear Well Because They're Built Well

We have boys of our own, so we know how hard it is to keep them shod with the ordinary play or school shoe.

But this particular brand of boys' shoes is made just to stand that hard usage that only a boy, the red-blooded kind of youngster, can give footwear.

Only the very toughest cuts of the toughest leathers are used, and the findings, the linings, counters, threads, etc., are selected with this "hard wear" in mind.

We say these are "Boys' Shoes that Wear," and we ask that you let your boy put them to the test.

LARGEST CATTLE RANCH IN WEST IN TRIANGLE PICTURE

During the filming of "The Learning of Jim Benton" at the Rolfe Theater today, Director Cliff Smith and his cowboy star, Roy Stewart, together with more than a score of punchers, visited the O'Neil ranch near Ocean Side, California.

Many of the shots shown in the Triangle's latest western picture were taken on this ranch where more than 60,000 head of cattle wear the O'Neil brand. This ranch is declared to be the largest cow ranch in the southwest. Some of the O'Neil punchers assisted in the pictures "for the fun of seeing themselves in the movies."

Miss Lora Bailey left Monday for her home at Vulcan, Alberta, Canada, after a visit here with relatives. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Geo. Newman, who will visit her parents and other relatives a few weeks before returning to Albany.
