CHEERS AT FUNERAL

William C. Levere, former judge, legislator and newspaperman, now a Y. M. C. A. secretary in France, writes as follows: "From my window, only an hour ago, I could see a saucy Boche who came flying over our lines and made sport of us. Two American airmen leaped up at him and he never had a chance. He is now being prepared for burial. In the old days I never expected to cheer at a funeral, but I cheered at his."

CHEESE RECIPES

Cottage Cheese Tart

1 1-3 cups of cottage cheese
Whites of 2 eggs beaten stiff
1-3 cup of heavy cream, whipped
1-4 cup sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
Few gratings of lemon rind
2 to 3 tablespoons sweet milk
Soften the cheese with the milk. Add part of the whipped cream and the flavoring, which should be very delicate. Fold in last the beaten egg whites. Heap lightly into ready cooked, delicately browned pastry cases, made by baking piecrust in muffin tins or on the bottom of inverted pie tins. Garnish the top of the tart with the rest of the whipped cream, and with fresh or canned fruit if desired. This makes a large one-crust pie or tart.

The Sixth Sense.

Human beings have a real sixth sense, says Science, in the shape of a sense of equilibrium. This sense is coming in for much intensive study today, because it is probably the most important qualification for the successful aviator. It has been found to reside in three tiny canals in the inner ear. These three canals are located in the bone of the skull and are filled with a liquid in which nerve filaments from the auditory nerve terminate. In some way not yet clearly understood, through these canals and nerves the individual can tell, without being able to see or feel, just how nearly upright his position is. The sense is much more keenly developed in some people than in others.

CHARLES GUNN A NEWSPAPER REPORTER FOR COLOR

Charles Gunn, who stars in the Triangle film play, "Framing Framers," at the Rolfe Theater tonight, has met many reporters but only when they were sent to interview him. Being cast as a reporter in this play, Gunn decided he needed a little color for his part and, without making his plans known, secured a few days' vacation. At a re-view of "Framing Framers," attended by a number of Los Angeles newspapermen before the picture was shipped, the city editor of one of the afternoon papers exclaimed, "so that's one of your stars, Charles Gunn. The last time I saw the gentlemen he said his name was Perkins. I'd like to meet him when the picture is over."

In Gunn's dressing room he was confronted by the city editor. "Just dropped over to tell you that as a reporter you're a blamed sight better actor, young man," were the city editor's words of greeting. And in spite of Gunn's winks and signs, the cat was out of the bag.

Back of the Firing Line

Modern war conditions demand that our armies must have behind them national solidarity, the coordination of all the vast activities and an industrial army many times greater than the Nation's fighting forces.

The Nation's capital is linked with all these varied activities by the toll and long distance lines of the Bell System. Thousands of miles of special wire systems have been turned over to the Government for its exclusive use. Switchboards in the Government departments at Washington have been enlarged and new ones installed. Right of way is given to Government business over all commercial lines, so that the Government chiefs may keep in constant touch with every phase of the Nation's great task and direct its progress intelligently and effectively.

In organizing the military activities of the country, the Government has had the effective cooperation of the Bell Telephone System, which even in peace times reached 70,000 communities and now extends to the headquarters of every Army Department and Naval District in the United States.
