THE KAISER'S JAIL-BIRD FRIEND

The Kaiser is apparently becoming reconciled to the idea of his dear friend and fellow-criminal, Lieut. Franz von Rintelen, serving out his term in a New Jersey penitentiary for fomenting strikes in American munition factories. At any rate, nothing further has been heard from the German government since Secretary Lansing's stinging reply to the German note demanding his liberation.

That note itself remains one of the most curious revelations of Prussian mentality in all the strange diplomatic records of this war. The Berlin statesman solemnly asserted that this flagrant criminal, caught red-handed committing a penal crime against a friendly nation, and convicted for it as any other criminal, native or foreign, would be, was imprisoned "contrary to international law." They added the delightful comment that "the government of the United States was apparently not sufficiently cognizant of its international obligations toward a German subject."

It is beautiful to hear the arch-violator of laws and treaties preaching the sanctity of international law, especially in defense of a criminal whose crimes were committed by order of that government itself.

It may be, as was threatened in that charming communication, the German government still "contemplates some appropriate measures of reprisal," in case the United States does not free Von Rintelen in exchange for some unknown prisoner held by Germany alleged to be an American citizen. But it is not likely. As Secretary Lansing blandly pointed out, there are far more German subjects in America than there are American citizens in Germany, and if it comes to a game of reprisal, Uncle Sam has a fine strategic position.

DANGER ZONES.
It is reported that the German admiralty is now going to declare the western Atlantic a part of her "prohibited" zone. Berlin will issue a formal warning that our coast waters are now dangerous for shipping.

We seem to have had a hint to that effect. We were really beginning to get a sort of impression that the Atlantic wouldn't be so safe hereafter. But it is very gemütlich of the Huns to come right out and admit it.

We will reciprocate in kin, as soon as we can get around to it, and serve due notice that Germany, from the battlefield to Berlin, is unsafe for German soldiers.

NOTICE.
Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Recorder of the City of Albany, will receive sealed bids up until Wednesday, June 26, 1918, at the hour of 7:30 o'clock p. m. of said day for the sale of one team of mules, the property of the City of Albany. Said bids to be accompanied by certified check for ten per cent. of the amount bid. The right being hereby reserved to reject and all bids.

L. G. LEWELLING,
Recorder of the City of Albany.
