MISFITS

By F. P. N.

Attending for the first time one of the celebrated Albany picnics at the Oaks Tuesday evening, I was struck with the splendid fellowship that prevails among former Albany people, also with the loyalty to the city in which they had resided. Undoubtedly some of the finest people on earth now reside and have resided in the Hub city of the Willamette.

The picnic was held in a convenient place, with a long table which was filled from end to end by the good natured crowd. The picnic was entirely social. There were no speeches, experience having taught that those attending prefer to meet each other personally and renew old friendships rather than spend the time hearing long-drawn out talks, as good as they may be.

The different families brought their own baskets of eatables, spread the good things on the tables, and attacked the feast, with tongues flying socially. It was my good fortune, being alone, to have a place at the section of Mr. and Mrs. E. U. Will, with Mrs. N. J. Henton, wife of one of Albany's former city recorders for about 20 years, on the left. Mrs. Will, president, did much to make the event a success, aided by everyone present.

Sure enough, who was there, you'll want to know, in a way you can understand. I have mentioned three. With Mrs. Henton were her two daughters, Mrs. Robert Ashby of Portland and Mrs. Bagnall of Kansas City. Mr. Ashby, two daughters, Mrs. Robert Fowler, a sister of Mr. Ashby, and sons, who have been living in San Francisco; Hon. Geo. U. Piper and Fred Piper, lawyer, of Seattle; S. N. Steele, the real estate man; Miss Abbie Wright, a former Albany teacher, in the Portland schools for about 20 years; Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Dorris and son Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Beam, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Day and their son Carroll, a prominent vocal teacher, and wife; Mrs. Harry Day's mother, Mrs. F. M. Westfall, founder of the society; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Crowder, Mr. Crowder's mother, Mrs. Alice Richards, Mrs. Schell, Dr. and Mrs. Rosister, Madelyn Ward, W. L. McFarland, John McChesney, Dr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Adams, former Albany dentists; John Jones, former nightwatch and policeman for many years; Mr. and Mrs. Tim Wandel, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Collins and son, Mrs. S. A. Huston and daughter, Mrs. Artie Collier and husband, Mrs. Erma Parker Anderson and two daughters, Mrs. C. C.

Parker and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wire, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newton and son, Mrs. Josephine Rickey, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rickey and daughters, Helen and Margaret Rickey, Mrs. Saltmarsh and granddaughter, Margaret McDonald; Dorothy Churchill, Lambert Stevens, Miss Verna Carothers, Frank S. Campbell, wife and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Del Burkhardt, Mrs. Eva Hemmer Crow, Mrs. Maggie Barker Gilchrist and husband, Elizabeth Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crosby, Mrs. W. B. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strand, Mrs. Lulu Clark Ramsey and husband, Mrs. Purdom and son Arthur, Mrs. Homer Phillips, Richard Conn, Mrs. Jack Warner and son Donald, Mrs. Minnie Miller Doffelaach and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Will Humphrey, Mrs. Rader, Mrs. Lora Campbell Morrow and daughter, George Price, and Misfits.

President residents of Albany pres-
