PLAYING BEAR, BOY

RECEIVES BAD INJURY

Clarence, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Potts, received a bad gash on the top of his head this afternoon when a board fell upon him while he was playing at bear with other children near the Potts Second street home.

One child was upon the roof of a small building, and a loose board accidentally slipped from the roof. It struck young Potts on the head, cutting him badly. He was taken to Dr. Bridgewater. The seriousness of the injury has not yet been determined.

INVEST IN HUMANITY

By JOHN OLIVER LA GORCE

Associate Editor, National Geographic Magazine.

"SUFFER Little Children to come unto me," declared the compassionate Christ.

But never since He dwelt in flesh upon the earth have there been so many "Little Children" in need of compassion as now.

There are the "Little Children" who have gone to France for you and me and for Christendom and by going have given their all. Can you do less? Shall you keep from your boy or your neighbor's boy that which is symbolic of the Compassionate One by neglecting the call of the Red Cross Mother?

Then there are the uncounted "Little Children" of our allies who have fallen wounded and ill in defense of their home fires. Who but the Red Cross Mother can know the suffering, the anguish, of the shell-torn, thirst-stricken soldier who lies upon the ghostly bed of No Man's Land? Will you deny him the life-giving cup?

Think also of the "Little Children" of devastated lands. Some are "Little Children" in size and tender years. Others, alas, are mature in stature and age, but none the less "Little Children" in their helplessness—their abject need. Can we in our plenty withhold from them the bare bread of existence? Can we still our inner voice with the thought that others will bear our burden, when in our heart we must know that there are no others?

The Red Cross helps no one who does not need help a hundred times more than we need the money. Therefore, let us give, give until we feel it, give until it pinches. Then and only then we shall know that we have indeed offered the "Little Children" of the war the tender compassion of a nation.

When the Austrians last October routed the Italian Army by trickery and drove before them half a million refugees, the part which the American Red Cross played in this stupendous tragedy will go down in the history of Italy and the world as one of the most magnificent dashes of relief work that has ever come to light.

Listen to what the Italian Premier said of this work in his address at the opening of Parliament early last December:

"Our soul is stirred again with appreciation and with admiration for the magnificent dash with which the American Red Cross has brought us powerful aid in our recent misfortune. We attribute great value to the co-operation which will be given us against the common enemy by the prodigious activity and by the exuberant and consistent force which are peculiar to the American people."

And this, mind you, was only a little over a month after the American Red Cross made its triumphant dash into Italy!

and circuit judge.

Brown held the paper until the following year, 1875, when he sold a half interest to Claib H. Stewart, who had begun his newspaper career as a devil in the Democrat office in 1869. Stewart is now serving his second term as postmaster at Albany. Brown died in 1878 and Stewart sold the half interest to another young Albany attorney, George E. Chamberlain, who is now serving as one of Oregon's United Khaki Clad Boy With a Lump in Throat Welcomes Home Cooking.

Imagine your boy on a troop train bound for some United States seaport where a transport lies ready to take him and his regiment "over there." He never felt healthier in his life—in body. In mind? If he finds moments when his thoughts begin to race back toward you, wondering what you are doing, can you blame him if occasionally something lumps in his throat about as comfortable as a billiard ball? And then the train grinds to a standstill. Some one yells "Big cuts; oh, boy!" as several Red Cross uniforms flash out in the crowd on the station platform. For here is a Red Cross emergency canteen. Here he can get coffee—good, hot coffee—sandwiches, candy, tobacco, fruit, postal cards and almost anything that he may have forgotten.

Does it help his spirits? Does it cheer him to get these snacks of good home tasting food served by women like those in his own family? Probably the most valuable part of the Red Cross canteen service work is the effect of the smile and cheer from the women who are in charge. Soldiers write frequently such messages as the following, indicating their appreciation of this branch of Red Cross work:

"The Red Cross of Chicago met us with coffee, sandwiches and post cards. I hope the Montana women are all doing the same. Chicago sure is a big city and plenty of pep. Join the Red Cross and help the boys who have volunteered their lives."

There are now more than 500 of these Red Cross canteens or refreshment units located at the important railroad centers in the United States. Every commander of a troop train has a list of these canteens, so that he can call upon the Red Cross for this service at these stations en route.

Women Give $36,000,000.

Thousands of patriotic women in all parts of the United States are freely giving their time to make surgical dressings, knit goods, hospital garments, comfort kits, socks and sweaters. The value of this labor given by American women is estimated at $36,000,000 a year.

The Red Cross operates in France a motor truck transportation service with 250 motor trucks.

coming Stites & Nutting. Stites must have been quite a politician, for he also was elected county clerk, school superintendent, and for several terms a member of the legislature. About 1890 Stites sold his interest to Nutting, who was sole owner until 1912. But it should be noted that in 1895 Nutting changed the name from the States Rights Democrat to the Albany Democrat. Mr. Nutting, by the way, is holding an important federal position in the Portland custom-house.

"In February, 1912, Nutting sold the paper outright to W. H. Hornbrook, from Twin Falls, Idaho, a man who had had large newspaper experience. He ran the paper until February, 1915, when he was appointed minister to Siam, and turned the management over to Mr. Nutting. Then, in February, 1917, Mr. Hornbrook did an unexpected and almost unexplained able thing—he resigned. The idea of a democrat resigning an honorable and lucrative position is almost beyond belief, but Mr. Hornbrook says "a day in Albany is worth a cycle in Siam," and as his wife agrees with him, and some other good Democrat fell into a fat job, all is well. So Mr. Hornbrook came home, relieved Mr. Nutting, and The Albany Daily Democrat will probably go on as an incubator for democratic officeholders."
