

GATES NEWS

GATES, Aug. 29.—Special.—W. H. Heesman went to Portland the first of last week on business.

Laura Stewart went to Quartzville Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Gaines motored to Newport and way points and enjoyed a week's outing last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gerrans of the Log Cabin Bakery of Portland returned to their home Sunday accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Reif and son, who spent the past two weeks on the banks of the beautiful Santiam river near Gates, fishing and gathering wild fruits and nuts, for which this place is noted.

Horn, to Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle August 24, an eight-pound girl. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

C. D. Bevier made a business trip to Albany Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bevier came up from Albany Thursday in their five-passenger Chalmers car they recently purchased there.

Minnie Heesman was reported as quite sick this morning.

Hundreds of people are rushing to the mountains the past few days to pick wild huckleberries, which sell readily at $1 a gallon.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brockman and son of Portland were visiting relatives in Gates last week. Mrs. Brockman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gen. Random.

Mr. and Mrs. Elm Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brockman went to the head of Rock Creek and picked 40 gallons of huckleberries last week.

Harry Goodwin, who is working at Redne, spent Sunday with his family near Gates.

The Sarverson & Book mill is laid up for repairs and will not start up again till the first part of September. Mrs. Moore and son Guy of Redne were over-Sunday visitors near Gates.

Mr. Bradshaw who died at Mill City August 21, from injuries received while working in the timber for the Hammond Lumber Co., was laid to rest in Fairview Cemetery Friday.

The sunshine and warm days are welcomed by the farmers who had their grain ready to thresh and have been improving the time by threshing and hauling hay.

The Red Cross auxiliary of Gates is very busy every Friday, making garments for the Belgian children.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Moore of Redne spent the day Monday in Albany on business.

LOVE'S CONQUEST, SUPERB PARAMOUNT. AT GLOBE

"Love's Conquest," a superb new Paramount play starring the famous beauty, diva and screen favorite, Mme. Lina Cavalieri, who scored a prodigious success in "The Eternal Temptress," will be shown at the Globe tomorrow.

In this great production, which is said to be most stupendous, Mme. Cavalieri wears jewels worth a king's ransom and the richest Athenian costumes of the early 10th century.

The photoplay is based upon the celebrated "Giamonda," written by Victorien Sardou, famous French playwright, and the story is absorbing and intense in heart appeal.

Bulldog Run Over—

The bulldog belonging to C. O. Bulldog was injured this afternoon when it was run over by an automobile. It was later killed by Chief of Police Catlin.

POLES DRIVEN TO GERMANY TO WORK

Hun Commander's Brutal Order Issued to Conquered and Helpless People.

Every Able-Bodied Man Forced to Leave His Starving Family and Labor Under Shocking Conditions for the Oppressor.

This I have seen. I could not believe it unless I had seen it through and through. For several weeks I lived with it; I went all about it and back of it; inside and out of it was shown to me—until finally I came to realize that the incredible was true. It is monstrous, it is unthinkable, but it exists. It is the Prussian system.—F. C. Walcott.

F. C. Walcott, a member of the United States food administration, and during the time America was feeding the civilian populations of Belgium, Serbia and northern France an assistant of Mr. Hoover in those invaded countries, has pictured in a graphic way the conditions he found among the people it was his duty to help. After describing the terrible conditions in Poland in 1916, the millions that were dying of starvation, the hundreds of thousands of defenseless people that had been ruthlessly cut down by the sword of the German conqueror, he says:

In that situation, the German commander issued a proclamation. Every able-bodied Pole was hidden to Germany to work. If any refused, let no other Pole give him to eat, not so much as a mouthful, under penalty of German military law.

This is the choice the German government gives to the conquered Pole, to the husband and father of a starving family: Leave your family or die or survive as the case may be. Leave your country which is destroyed, to work in Germany for its further destruction. If you are obstinate, we shall see that you surely starve.

Staying with his folk, he is doomed and they are not saved; the father and husband can do nothing for them, he only adds to their risk and suffering. Leaving them, he will be cut off from his family, they may never hear from him again nor he from them. Germany will set him to work that a German workman may be released to fight against his own land and people. He shall be lodged in barracks, behind barbed wire entanglements, under armed guard. He shall sleep on the bare ground with a single thin blanket. He shall be scantily fed and his earnings shall be taken from him to pay for his food.

That is the choice which the German government offers to a proud, sensitive, high-strung people. Death or slavery.

When a Pole gave me that proclamation, I was boiling. But I had to restrain myself. I was practically the only foreign civilian in the country and I wanted to get food to the people. That was what I was there for and I must not for any cause jeopardize the undertaking. I asked Governor General von Beseler, "Can this be true?"

"Really, I cannot say," he replied. "I have signed so many proclamations; ask General von Kries."

So I asked General von Kries. "General, this is a civilized people. Can this be true?"

"Yes," he said, "it is true"—with an air of adding, Why not? I dared not trust myself to speak; I turned to go. "Wait," he said. And he explained to me how Germany, official Germany, regards the state of subject peoples.

It is hard for us to imagine such a condition in America as Mr. Walcott has described as existing in Hun-riden Poland, and yet that is just what would exist should our boys, and the boys of our allies, now fighting in France fall to defeat the soldiers of this murder empire. This fair country of ours would be made into a German province; our people would be the slaves of the Junkers of Germany, subject to the beastly whims of the officers of the German army. In no war in which America has ever engaged have the stakes been so great as in this present conflict. Should we, by any chance, lose; should the Hun, by any chance, win; our liberties, our happiness, everything Americans hold dear, would be lost.

WILL "USE NOTHING GERMAN" Club Organized for the Purpose of Boycotting Products of Hun Manufacture.

Chicago.—High art and low art, music and literature and dolls that talk and walk are to be taboo forever and forever to members of a new club here, when they bear the "Made in Germany" stamp or flavor.

"Use Nothing German" is the name of the club. And the women who have formed it swear that they mean what they say, and that after the war they intend that the Kaiser does not recuperate from the ill he has brought upon himself through their aid.

The club expects to spread its message countrywide, and thus to induce women throughout the United States to back them up in ignoring everything German.

FIRST AERIAL MAIL IN 1803

To President Jefferson Really Brought the Honor of Inventing, Something New in Message Line.

While all unite in praise of Postmaster General Burleson in inaugurating an aerial mail service between New York and Washington, Americans should not make the mistake of crediting the present administration with the first aerial mail service between the two cities.

As a matter of fact, that honor falls to the administration of Thomas Jefferson more than a hundred years ago. It all attended the transmission of the deeds of the Louisiana purchase to France.

Mr. Jefferson, of course, was very anxious about the matter, and after the deeds had been sent from Washington to Paris, and the time had come when the vessel bearing the signed deeds back to this country was due, Mr. Jefferson, unable to withhold impatience, sent some carrier pigeons to New York to be held until the vessel arrived and then released, bearing word of the fact of their arrival. This was done, and accordingly the first aerial mail service dates back not to this spring but to the year 1803.

Pockets for the Government.

The movement of the government toward a conservation of wool through the curtailment of masculine pockets should not be greatly disturbing. Economy and the trend of times now make many pockets as useless as the verniform appendix.

Why should a man have five pockets in his trousers, six in his vest, and the same number in his coat? Legislation has put the pistol pocket out of business, and from southern states the flask has vanished.

Except for decorative purposes woman rarely has more than one pocket in her gown, and in most cases none. There are religious sects which abhor pockets and even buttons, yet they seem to prosper.

Three outside coat pockets is the number set forth in the new request, which is a very moderate demand. What we should all do is to help fill Uncle Sam's one big pocket so that he can wallop the Kaiser in the quickest possible time.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

ONLY BUSINESS THAT OF WAR

Parisians in Every Walk of Life Have But One Thought, to Defeat the Hated Enemy.

In Paris one realized at last the meaning of the "business of war." It had entered into every phase of life. As our men commute to business, so the Parisians commute to the trenches, each trip of uncertain length; and in place of competition, financial or otherwise, they go to a business of life and death, writes William Beebe in the Atlantic Monthly.

Few men could show the same vigor and enthusiasm as do these Parisians. For years they had faced high adventure that most men know, if at all, only in an annual vacation. To myself and to others whose life work carries them into dangers from the elements and from savage men, war held no absolute novelty. (The writer is a famous, formerly a traveling salesman for women's hosiery, of the stretcher bearer who is a floorwalker in a department store! Did the forist whom I met ever decide that he would be removed from sausage-balloon duty because of unconquerable air sickness?)

Think of the children in Paris old enough to talk and walk, who have never known a world free from universal war, and it will be easier to realize the daily, monthly, yearly labor and worry which have worn for themselves rats deep into the life routine and emotions of this Latin people. As the medical student loses all sensitivity concerning the handling of human fingers and feet and hands, so the participants in the war, without being really callous or insensitive, come to take danger, wounds, disability, as incidents, not fatalities.

One's geography of Paris would read: The city is bounded on the north by supply depots, on the south by hospitals and on the west by air-dromes. Its principal imports and exports are bandages, craps, wooden legs and Colonials; its products are war bread, war literature, faith and hope.

Advertising Momentum Many institutions expect advertising to perform miracles, to rehabilitate a depleted list of customers in a few weeks or harvest a golden crop of dollars. Advertising is not based on wizardry any more than on quackery. Its results are cumulative. There are no miracles in advertising, but money so invested, if invested properly and the opportunities thus created properly followed, will yield handsome returns. An inquiry from a prospect who has never transacted business with your organization is the most vital and the most potent factor in the success of your business. That inquiry represents growth, development new business, —and new inquiries are worth attention, study and care—the full measure of your service. The aggressive and consistent advertiser whose educational publicity attracts, will find that the business has acquired a new momentum, the effect of which will be apparent in succeeding years. —THE FINANCIAL WORLD
