Common Heather Dying Out.

In the case of such a plant as the common heather of England and Scotland, found growing wild in Nova Scotia, it is a matter of curious interest to determine whether it is native to the soil or has been introduced from Europe. Lawson decided that the plant had its home here. There was a time, it is thought, when the plant was abundant in our northern lands, and its present rare occurrence marks a dying out of the species on this side of the ocean. Its vigorous growth in Europe is due to the circumstance that there it is a young plant on virgin soil.

FALL FOOTWEAR

In Complete and Interesting Displays Favored Styles for Men Women and Children

Though good shoes at a moderate cost are difficult to obtain, there is no evidence of such a condition in our Fall stocks, which are now here and attractively displayed for your examination.

Through careful planning we are able to offer selections that compare very favorably with all past efforts. The newest styles, the approved colors, have splendid representation in these displays which correctly portray the vogue for Fall.

Not only are you assured of style correctness; quality has been given much consideration, for we realize that "quality shoes" are "economy shoes." Our patrons can accept the new Fall footwear with the confidence that this store's high standard of quality is maintained in the face of all obstacles. Whether or not you are ready to purchase, you are cordially invited to view this interesting exhibit of Fashion's Favored Footwear for Fall.
