IMPROVED TRANSPORTATION

The report made by the directors and managers of the Eastern railroads, after a conference with Mr. McAdoo, is the most encouraging piece of transportation news that this country has had for years.

They announce that the labor shortage has been met, that the railroad employees are now working contentedly and with unprecedented efficiency, that motive power and rolling stock have increased to a gratifying degree that including the army traffic the roads are hauling 25 per cent more passengers than the year before.

Before that they were hampered with the restrictions that have been imposed by the government. They have made adequate preparations for the winter and are not afraid of a repetition of last winter's traffic blockade.

So far as the railroads are concerned, they say, there is no danger of a fuel shortage. That depends on the mines. The roads are in position to take care of any business they may be called upon to handle.

This report, it should be noted, is made not by political officials or propagandists interested in winning praise for government operation. It is made by practical and responsible railroad men, upon whom devolves the fulfillment of the promises they make. The situation they reveal is a triumph, just the same, for federal control, and no less a triumph for the railroad organizations through whose loyalty and ability these fine results have been attained.

IMPLACABLY

Marshal Foch, like all really great men, is a man of few words. Because he says so little, his words carry all the more weight. There is a volume of meaning in his message to the Paris municipal council, in reply to its congratulations for the allied victories:

"The German rush which menaced Paris and Amiens has been broken. We will continue to pursue the enemy implacably."

That is all. The Hun invasion has been stopped. The Huns are being driven back at last. They will be pursued "implacably."

That is precisely the right word. It means inexorably, relentlessly, but is stronger than either of those terms. It might well be accepted as the motto of the allies henceforth, indicating the stern duty they owe to themselves and mankind.

SALTS IF KIDNEYS OR BLADDER BOTHER

Harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids—Splendid for system.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it. Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome.

Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then set normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

MISFITS

By F. P. N.

Visiting Newport for the first time in about 25 years I have been impressed with the changes made by time. It is a new Newport, a typical summer resort town.

The sand hill was here 25 years ago, and it is in the same place now; all the small boys who dug holes there are now digging holes in Huns over the sea.

The Hotel Abbey was here then, and a better one, with modern arrangements, is now here.

Some Albany people who formerly spent their vacation here, are seen no more, others taking their places.

This year the big war spruce camp is probably responsible for more life than any other thing. It has put pep into all the activities of the city.

Here on business, late in the season, I have seen things at a glance only. The crowd was at the wharf to see the boat come in, and is always there with its wide-open stare.

The Heres

Judge C. E. Wolverton, of the U. S. court, who got his start in Albany, has been here, a prominent figure.

Billy Eagles and family are here yet.

Met Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fortmiller.

who are stopping at Mrs. Damon's, Nye Brook.

Mrs. Dick Rodgers is also in that section.

Prof. Madeline Rawlings and grandfather, John Clelen, were seen.

Prof. and Mrs. Sam Dolan and blackeyed youngsters, are on the hill somewhere.

Mrs. Will Riley Scott and son are among those who have remained.

Rev. Geo. Pratt, Albany college grad., is pastor of the Presbyterian church and helps in Y. M. C. A. work.

Winn Royce and Chas. DeLancey are at the wharf ticking and tackling express.

John Fisher and family have been here awhile.

Mrs. Frank Wood and daughter have been here three weeks.

Fred Dawson, the pill man, is finishing a prosperous season at his drug-store.
