FEEDING THE MULTITUDE

Fighting in this war is over, but there is one thing which is bound to keep on indefinitely, and that is the demand upon the United States for food supplies of all kinds for the hungry folks across the sea.

War has gone, but hunger will remain.

Even with peace restored, it is manifestly impossible for countries devastated by war and suffering from terrific losses of manpower immediately to resume the adequate production of food. The condition of the land itself would prevent, and furthermore, what men remain will be needed for the reconstruction of cities, highways and all sorts of public work. It will be years before conditions can be established in these ravaged countries, insuring them against food shortage.

For four years our hungry allies abroad have cried to us for food and have not cried in vain; for years to come we shall hear the same appeal and must answer with unabated generosity. In addition to this, the United States, with the other nations represented in the supreme war council, has agreed to cooperate with Bulgaria, Turkey, Germany and Austria in feeding their starving civilian populations.

It is true that the cessation of hostilities has released much tonnage and renders accessible large quantities of supplies, but it is still mainly from the United States that the bulk of the food will have to come. This clearly means that we are in no way released from the obligations of economy and care in the administration of our food stocks at home.

Every household and every dealer must continue to maintain those standards of conservation which have not only enabled us to help abroad but have saved us from want ourselves.

The pessimistic people who kept saying that "things are going to be just the same after the war, Kaiser and all," are now maintaining a discreet silence.

"Kaiser" is the same word as "czar." Both are derived from "Caesar," which was the title of the old Roman emperors, taken from the first of them, Julius. Wilhelm is therefore the last of the Caesars.

A lot of troops of various nationalities are soon going to have the time of their young lives—garrisoning Germany.

People who wondered what the American army was doing the last few weeks have now found out. It's always a waste of time to be doubtful or pessimistic about America.

The war-drunk nation has had a fine time smashing things. Now it must pay. And the prospect is very sobering.

SCIO HAS A BIG PEACE DEMONSTRATION

SCIO, Nov. 13.—Special.—The celebration of the end of the war began here at 6:30 today and lasted until 8:30. The early part of the day was spent in ringing of all the bells, including many cow- and sheep-bells, punctuated by an occasional anvil.

The stores closed in the afternoon and the Kaiser was drawn thru the street on a wagon. When the parade was over the children were happy to kick the Kaiser from his place and drag him thru the street. He was then dragged behind a horse and hanged to a telephone pole. After being taken down he was again dragged behind a horse and burned in the street. The evening was spent in the street around a lively bonfire. Miss Wolter presided at the piano and pleased the audience with several solos. The crowd sang many patriotic and old-time songs.

GOVERNOR WITHYCOMBE TO BOYS, GIRLS, AND PARENTS

TO THE BOYS AND GIRLS OF OREGON AND THEIR PARENTS:
May I not call your special attention to the importance of a prompt response to the call of the United War Work Campaign, with particular emphasis upon the "Earn and Give" program?

To the boys and girls, I would say that never has there come to you a better opportunity to show your true colors than in this period of the world war, when you are privileged to volunteer to earn and give money to back up our valiant fighters at the front.

It will be to you a signal honor thus to volunteer in this, the greatest of causes. Do so and let your brothers in the ranks know where you stand.

And may I say to parents that in no better way in which you can help in supplying morale-making material than by encouraging your children eligible to enlist in the Liberty Boys' and Girls' campaign to do so. Help them to find ways of earning money and to realize the importance of giving it to stiffen the resistance of our military units, whether the war continues indefinitely or comes to a more immediate close.

In this manner, children and parents will have a glorious part in putting over the United War Work Campaign in Oregon.

JAMES WITHYCOMBE,
Governor of Oregon.

If in these days of high prices you found a butcher who charged 20 per cent less than the others you'd patronize him, wouldn't you? It would be worth considerable effort to save that much every week on household expenses.

Well, here's a way you can save 20 per cent on your meat bills without trouble, without exertion.

How? By means of electric range cooking—the cleanest, easiest, surest way of cooking food just right.

Electric Ranges are so simple in operation that a 12-year-old child can prepare a superior meal with little instruction.

And that 20 per cent saving on meats—is due to the construction of the oven, which prevents evaporation and retains the juices.

You not only save 20 per cent, but the meat is more delicious, appetizing and wholesome.

We have a special cooking rate—and a time limited proposition which you can't afford to overlook.
