"THE THRIFT SIREAD"

Oleomargarine

Makes economy a double pleasure; a table treat; delicious on toast and bread and on meats and vegetables. You'll like it right from the start. Composed of pure, carefully selected ingredients and churned fresh daily with pasteurized milk.

The most noticeable difference between Columbia Brand Oleomargarine and lard is creaminess. Lard is the price — and it's in favor of users of Oleomargarine.

Packed in waxed, odor-proof tins. U. S. Government inspected.

Wilson, in a long black fur coat, prom-enaded on the deck at regular intervals.

Abandon ship drill the second day out gave the passengers their first opportunity to try on lifebelts and get their lifeboat assignments. One passenger, captain U. S. N., an oldtimer, did not feel the need of hurrying his lifebelt out on deck.

"Ah, but you should set the example," exclaimed Ambassador Jusier, and exchanging views with the captain. Thereafter the captain wore his lifebelt.

Italian Ambassador Celleri appeared on deck in a grey soft felt knock-down hat.

Through the efforts of Admiral Grayson, President Wilson's cold rapidly improved. He went to the movies frequently.

Ambassador Jusier is a believer in preparedness. He carried a small French volume in his coatpocket to afford reading material if by any chance he is forced to take to the boats.

During an informal gathering on deck, President Wilson told the following story:

"One time during the Civil War President Lincoln was sending a messenger to Jefferson Davis. Lincoln had very laboriously explained the details of what he wished the messenger to convey to the confederate chief.
At the conclusion, the messenger, ready for departure, asked: 'Are there any instructions?'

"Whereupon Lincoln, somewhat wearily responded:

"None except that I am reminded of a story of a little girl neighbor back in Springfield, Illinois, who played with letter blocks in her bed at night. One night she became very sleepy before she said her prayers so, kneeling down, she said: 'Dear Lord, I am too sleepy tonight to say my prayers, there are my blocks. Spell it out for yourself.'"

Saturday we got the side lines of a real storm. The waves were high and there was a marked falling off in attendance at deck promenades. Neither the President nor Mrs. Wilson, however, failed to appear for their daily constitutional.

Ex-Ambassador White, one of the American peace delegation, knows Arthur Balfour, British statesman, very well. He refers to him as "A. J. B." in conversation.

On Sunday the President conferred for the first time with Secretary Lansing and Mr. White on the peace conference program. Upon leaving the conference White said: "I am in complete accord with the President's views."

Mr. Wilson attended a show given by the crew. The "first night" was reviewed privately for expurgating purposes before the passengers of state got their glimpse of it.

The orchestra aboard was made up of navy men, many of whom enlisted for Uncle Sam from Chicago and Philadelphia symphony orchestras.
Their playing did much to soothe troubled "innards" on stormy days and prevent meals from hoisting anchor.

The same food served the officers and crew was doled out to passengers during the trip but it was prepared by cruik chefs.

TO DARKEN HAIR
APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance, and attractiveness.
By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PARIS, Dec. 14.—By Mail.—The biggest story in the world—in a deer skin coat—stood on the bridge of the George Washington as she steamed out of New York harbor. It was President Wilson. The coat he wore was the gift of a Georgia friend and was made of several fine deer skins.

Hat in hand, he stood beside Mrs. Wilson acknowledging the din of whistles, sirens, bells and cheers that voiced bon voyage.

The water is getting rough early.
George Creel retired to his stateroom shortly after the vessel got under way.
He was not available to visitors for several days.

President Wilson rested for the first three days, retiring early. Mrs.
