GLOBE Theatre

WILL CLOSE INDEFINITELY AFTER TONIGHT'S SHOW

To the Theatre-Going Public: In order to cooperate to the fullest extent with the Board of Health, and all other institutions where public gatherings may be eliminated during the present epidemic, we are going to voluntarily close the theatres until such a time when this dreaded scourge is completely stamped out, and the public of Albany and vicinity are again assured that it is absolutely safe to shop and attend amusements.

During the meantime we shall make such improvements as needed to safeguard the health of all our patrons in the future. Thanking you for your patronage in the past and assuring you of our appreciation for a continuance of the same upon reopening, we remain,
Yours for cooperation,

SO STRIKE at the RITE THING at the RITE TIME.

Listen, Father-in-law: There is a nice little Ranch 3 miles out on the Lebanon Road rite at the Schoolhouse, in a splendid neighborhood full of Social Atmosphere and a very Welcome Temptur.

Can be had on very liberal terms. A team, good well broke horses, everybody's team, v. gentle.

5 well bred heifers, all coming fresh, some soon. A nice lot of fine Cow Hay and Wheat and Chickens.

Farm Tools, Wagons, Harness, Buggy, good House and barn and out-buildings.

No. 2—This place is in a good state of cultivation, has been very carefully farmed for the last 5 years. There is 1 field of red clover, a good stand. A good woven wire fence all around the place. Nice family orchard. This tract contains nearly 45 acres.

EX-KAISER CAN'T

BE EXTRADITED, SAYS
SIR WILLOUGHBY MAYCOCK

LONDON, Jan. 10.—Ordinary principles of extradition in no wise apply to William Hohenzollern, in the opinion of Sir Willoughby Maycock, former head of the British foreign office extradition department.

Extradition, he says, depend upon: In what state has the Kaiser himself individually been guilty of an extradition crime?

Does his existing status render him immune from the process of the nation?

open with a preamble," writes Maycock, "to the effect that the high contracting parties engage to deliver up to each other persons who, being accused or convicted of a crime or offense in the territory of the one party shall be found within the territory of the other party. The crimes for which extradition may be granted are then set out in detail.

"It will be tolerably obvious to anyone who takes the trouble to peruse our own treaty of 1818 with the Netherlands that the Kaiser has not individually perpetrated any of the offenses in this country which would warrant our demanding him from the Dutch.

"The same difficulty presumably would be experienced by all the allied countries.

"Whether Germany could demand the Kaiser's extradition, even if she were disposed to do so, is another matter."

If abdication has been accomplished formally, Maycock declares William Hohenzollern then becomes merely a private individual visiting in Holland. However, even if this is the case, there is nothing in Dutch law to prevent the Netherlands from according William all the rights of a sovereign.

"Suppose they do so," says Maycock. "It may then be asked in what do such privileges consist?"

On this point he quotes a recognized work on international law which states that a sovereign "cannot be proceeded against either in ordinary civil or criminal tribunals."
