MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

WATCH FLIGHT OF DOVE AT EASTER

Florentines Have an Odd Custom Which is Said to Commemorate the Deeds of a Knight in the Days of the Crusades.

A CURIOUS custom prevails in Florence at Easter in the flight of the Dove. Its origin is obscure, but the Rev. S. Baring Gould, who has well described it in his "In Troubadour Land," says that it is alleged by some to commemorate the deeds of a Florentine knight, who, in the crusade led by Godfrey de Bouillon, was the first to climb the walls of Jerusalem and set upon them the banner of the Cross. This knight then sent back the news of the recovery of the Holy Sepulcher to Florence by a carrier pigeon, and so it was the first city in Europe to hear the good tidings.

The carro, a huge black structure on wheels, is garlanded with flowers, and covered with fireworks. It is drawn into the Cathedral square by white oxen, also decked out with flowers. Then the following ceremony takes place. A rope is extended from the carro to a pole which is set up in the choir of the Duomo, before the high altar, right up the whole length of the nave. Upon the rope, close to the pole, is perched a white plaster dove. At the stroke of twelve, while the Easter eve Mass is in progress, a match is applied to a fusee, and instantly the white dove flies along the rope, pouring forth a tall of fire, down the nave, out at the west gate, over the heads of the crowd, reaches the carro, ignites a fusee there, turns, and, still propelled by its fiery tail, whizzes along the cord again till it has reached its perch on the pole in the choir, when the fire goes out and it remains stationary. But in the meantime the match ignited by the dove has communicated with the squibs and crackers attached to the carro, and the whole mass of painted wood and fireworks is enveloped in fire and smoke, from which issue sheets of flame and loud detonations. Meanwhile Mass is being sung composedly within the choir as though nothing were happening without. The fireworks continue to explode for about a quarter of an hour, and then the great garlanded oxen, white, with huge horns, are re-yoked to the carro, and it is drawn away.

The flight of the dove is watched with keen attention and interest by the peasants, for from its style of flight they augur a variety of future happenings. Thus, if the bird sails along easily without jerks they say the summer will be fine; while if it goes sluggishly, and makes frequent halts, they presage storms, late frosts, hail, and, as a consequence, bad crops.
