LENT

The world has entered upon the season known as Lent. Specifically a religious season, there is much about the customs usual to its observance which people of any creed or religion can follow with benefit.

What Lent calls for from those who keep it as a sacred duty is a refreshing of mind and body by simple living and quiet thinking.

Whether people be of a creed which believes in the observance of Lent or not, a simplified diet will be good for them. Any system needs a rest from the hearty foods of winter, and the replacing of a meat diet with one consisting largely of green vegetables.

One may not want to go to church. That is his own concern. But it must do anybody good to turn from harassing and perhaps bitter thoughts to quieter meditations and to the company of good and restful literature.

Take it all in all, though Lent as a religious fact may mean nothing, Lent as a period of forty days devoted to setting body and mind in order is well worth anybody's while.

House cleaning time. Why not dispose of everything which has been stored away since you cleaned it last spring?

SPEAKING OF HOLES

The United States senate decided that it was necessary to "put the President in a hole" with his league of nations plan, and did so to its own satisfaction. That is now a matter of history, praiseworthy or unpraiseworthy, as events may prove.

Wilson says he won't come back till the peace treaty is signed, with the league of nations in it.

PRINCE ALBERT advertisement featuring a man smoking a pipe and a pack of cigarettes. Text includes 'TALK about smokes, Prince Albert is geared to a joyhandout standard that just lavishes smokehappiness on every man game enough to make a bee line for a tidy red tin and a jimmy pipe—old or new!' and 'R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.'

League of Nations

shell hole, labeled "League of Nations to Prevent War." They are in water up to their necks, and under bombardment. Congress is saying, "This is a 'ole of a 'ole."

Yes, indeed! If anybody knows of a better 'ole, let him go to it.

The peace conference disposed of more great problems in three weeks than congress did in three months. But then, it was a peace conference.

A lot of jewelry was missed by the owners. Search revealed it in a hen's nest, with the hen setting on it. Once more we see the evil of inflammatory literature; that hen had probably been reading about the goose that laid the golden egg.

Wilson says he won't come back till the peace treaty is signed, with the league of nations in it.
