Ask Dad

JUST ask Dad to stay at home one day and do the family wash.

Dad won't do it. He'll say there ought not to be a wash day at all—that the home isn't the place to do the wash.

Dad will say to send all the wash to the laundry.

And Dad will be right.

All things considered it costs less to have us do the washing than to do it at home.

MAKE US PROVE IT!

IN SHEER CRUELTY

Doches Operated on Prisoners
Without Anesthetics.

Ample Proof That There Was No
Shortage of Medical Supplies in Evidence of Feindishness of Hun Surgeons.

A British prisoner taken near St. Quentin in March said that all amputations in Germany were being done without anesthetics, owing to alleged shortages of them. A correspondent writes:

"On the day that the prince of Wales entered Denain and attended the service of thanksgiving in the church there I lingered behind after all the ceremonies were over and talked with the inhabitants. They had been badly treated. They were full of the stories of their legitimate woes. One old man said to me:

"I should see the English doctor. He knows!"

"I saw him. He was a major in charge of a Canadian field ambulance. When I found him, in the huge building which he had transformed into a hospital, he was busy superintending the treatment of women and pitiful little children who had been gassed by the Boches in defiance of all the laws of humanity. There was one little fellow howling with terror. He did not wish to remain with the military. He had only known the German soldier."

"Well, then take him away, poor little chap," said the major. "Bring him back three times a day to be dressed." "Then the major and I talked of the successful Canadian attack and of the condition of the town when it had been taken. It was not a pretty story. It was, in fact, a terrible indictment against the Boches."

"They starved the civilians. The only meat they gave them in three years was three dead mules. And all the time their own officers were living on the best."

"Then there was shortage?"

"Oh, yes, there was a shortage; but the German officers did not feel it."

"And their other supplies? Your line, for instance—medical supplies?"

"The major laughed."

"Come with me," he said, "and I'll show you a field medical cart that we captured just as they were driving it off. It is one of the most wonderful things I have ever seen."

"We went into the transport yard and here we found something like a Scotch cart with a closed-in top, bearing the Red Cross on its sides. The major let down the back flap and we saw a series of drawers, like an enlarged card-index file cabinet. He pulled one out."

"Look at that," he said. "There you have most of the drugs we have been short of for months—and have them in profusion. Morphine, chloroform—anything you like. It is the most perfect thing of its kind I have ever seen. You could sell that cart's cargo in England for its weight in gold. It contains some of the most valuable and rarest synthetic drugs in the world. It is treasure trove. . . . Like a souve- nir? Here, then—here's a case of a dozen phials of morphine—or chloroform—or antipyrin."

"That was in a field medical cart. If such a supply of rare drugs could be sent up practically to the front line, what must the German have had in his rear hospitals? What, then, can be his excuse for amputating the limbs of our wounded prisoners without anesthetics? Can it have been anything but wanton cruelty?"

"That field medical cart is the evidence!"—Boston Transcript.

Move to Portland—
The Kauffman family expects to move to Portland next week to make their future home. Mr. Kauffman has been engaged in business in Portland for the last year. Mr. and Mrs. Kauffman have been esteemed citizens of Albany for many years.

Visits With Son—
J. S. Robins had a short visit with his son, A. L. Robins, at the depot between trains today. Mr. Robins is a mail clerk under the civil service between Portland and Roseburg. He recently made the best record in California that has been reported within the last seven years.

Clarence Wiles, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Wiles, who recently returned from active service on the western front, this morning enrolled as a student at O. A. C. and will continue his course at that institution. He was a student there when the war started, and left his studies with hundreds of others to fight for his country.

Too Much Arithmetic.

Uncle Mose Lightfoot approached a clerk in the drug store and inquired: "Got any three-cent stamps?"

"No," the clerk replied, "we're all out of threes."

"Dat's too bad," said Uncle Mose, "cause dis letter ought to go out to-night."

"We have plenty of twos."

"But dis letter goes out of town."

"And we have plenty of ones."

"But one won't take it."

"Couldn't you put on a two and a one?"

"Hub?"

"Or three ones?"

"As the old dorky ambled toward the door he scratched his head and answered:

"Maybe I could; maybe I could; but I ain't got no time to be foolin' round trying to add up."—Youngstown Telegram.

Railroading.

Clyde Foster, a south side youngster, has been much impressed recently by warnings about the cure of his health so that he would not "catch" the influenza and die and be taken to the cemetery. His father is a railroad man, and when Santa Claus came around Clyde received a fine choo-choo train. He was proudly exhibiting it to some neighbors, who asked how much it cost to ride on his train.

"Three dollars," he said.

"Where can you go for $3?" one asked.

"Crown Hill," Clyde promptly answered.—Indianapolis News.

What Johnny Needed.

"Johnny! Crying on Christmas day!" reproved the visitor.

"Well," blubbered Johnny, "we all asked our family this year to give us what we needed most."

"There's nothing to cry about, then, is there?"

"It's honest!" roared Johnny. "Pa gave me a kicking."—London Answers.

STOPS MEDICINE HEALTH RECOVERED BY INTERNAL BATH

Mr. A. Czarnecki, 657 Montgomery st., San Francisco, Cal., writes Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute of New York as follows:

"I must admit that the use of the 'J. H. L. Cascade' has cured my chronic constipation which which I suffered. Since May 12, 1913, I have never tasted any kind of patent medicine or purgative. My health is excellent in every respect."

Over half a million bright, keen, intelligent Americans have found that internal bathing is more essential to their health than external baths. Have found that used occasionally at night they feel like different people the next morning. No more of that bilious, tired, nervous feeling, but having by Nature's own cleanser—antiseptic warm water—removed all the poisonous waste from the lower intestine, they awake thoroughly refreshed by normal sleep, with all their functions acting properly, clear headed, happy and confident, eager and capable for the duties of the day.

Why not learn more about this rapidly growing and natural practice? The "J. H. L. Cascade" is the invention of Chas. A. Tyrrell, M. D., of New York, a specialist on internal baths for 25 years, and is now being shown and explained by Foshay & Mason, of Albany, Oregon, who will give you—free on request—an interesting booklet on the subject called "Why Man of To-Day Is Only 50 per cent Efficient."
