Have you ever tried on a Hart Schaffner & Marx waist seam?

THEN you haven't Any Idea of how becoming they are; almost every man and young man looks good in them. They're not just a fad, either; there's too good a reason for them; they give men the well set-up appearance, erect, full chested; narrow thru the waist.

That's why you'd better let us try one on you; there are variations here for everyone.

STOOD FOR HUMAN LIBERTY

Jean Jacques Rousseau Had Right
Conception of Conditions That Made for Freedom.

Prof. Kenneth Colegrove of Syracuse university declares that world democracy is the sole basis of world peace. Writing in the World's Work he says:

In the year 1713, when the ambassadors of the European powers were engaged at the congress of Utrecht in bringing to a close the War of the Spanish Succession, the Abbe de Saint-Pierre was writing the final pages of his little treatise called the "Project for Perpetual Peace." He proposed confederation of the kings and princes of Europe, with a congress or diet of ambassadors where all disputes between the different states should be settled by arbitration, and where general rules should be adopted from time to time for the purpose of promoting the peace and welfare of each and every realm. Rousseau criticized the abbe's plan, declaring it contained one flaw, a flaw which vitiated the otherwise noble plan. He believed that a confederation of European states could never be formed so long as kings and princes ruled. For the essence of kingship was nothing else than the passion to extend its dominion without and its absolutism within; and no plan of confederation, Rousseau was convinced, would ever be able to quench the old fires of rivalry and despotism. But even if a general alliance of European monarchs were possible, it was manifestly impossible to guarantee princes against the revolt of their people unless at the same time subjects were given a guaranty against the tyranny of their rulers. In launching this latter criticism against the abbe's project the author of the "Social Contract" foresaw the contingency of the Holy Alliance of 1815, when the autocrats of Europe called the indivisible Trinity to witness that, as brothers of the same family, they would defend the doctrine of the divine right of kings against the contradiction of revolution wherever it should appear.

Yet more trenchant was the criticism of Voltaire. "The peace imagined by the Abbe de Saint-Pierre," said the philosopher of Ferney, "is a chimera which could no more subsist between princes than between elephants and rhinoceroses, or between wolves and dogs. Carnivorous animals rush to attack each other on all occasions." The "Project for Perpetual Peace," according to Voltaire, was not absurd in itself, but in the manner of its proposal. There would always be wars of ambition and conquest, until people learned that it was only a small number of generals and ministers who profited thereby.

Name Mountain "Roosevelt."
Impressive ceremonies attended by many soldier and civilian friends of the former president will mark the dedication of Mount Theodore Roosevelt on July 4.

Shortly after the death of Colonel Roosevelt the pioneers of the Black Hills met at Deadwood, S. D., and decided to change the name of Sheep Mountain, near Deadwood, to Mount Theodore Roosevelt. Feeling that the spirit of Independence day justified the ideals of the late president it was decided to postpone the formal ceremony until then.

Invitations have been sent to scores of Colonel Roosevelt's friends by Col. Seth Bullock. Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood will deliver the dedicatory address. Gifford Pinchot, Secretary Lane and many other national figures will be present.

MOORS HAVE NOT LOST HOPE

Despite Long Disposition, They Still Hope to Return to Granada and the Alhambra.

At Granada, I remember, that the guardianship of the Vela (or Watch) tower at the extreme western point of the Alhambra, directly overlooking the city, has been in the hands of one family for several hundred years—practically since the conquest, in 1492. During a stay of several weeks at Granada, I cultivated that family, consisting of an aged crone, a middle-aged daughter and a scapegrace grandson called Escanillo.

Upon the top of that tower hangs the famous "wishing bell" that is believed to insure a husband to any girl who can knock it with her knuckles sufficiently loud to make it ring. The bell is about seven feet above the nearest perch, and that is where Escanillo comes in. He allows the anxious girl to climb upon his back and then stands erect so she can reach the object of her hopes. The gratuity is never less than a peseta (19 cents), and the fees often equal $1,000 a year.

That bell is supposed to be rung hourly throughout the night to apprise the sleeping people in the city below that the Moors have not come back; but across the Strait of Gibraltar, absolutely every night, the coffee houses of Tangier resound with the droning, haunting song of "Yerga," the Arabic word for "We shall return!"—meaning to Granada and to the re-possession of the Alhambra.—Julius Chambers in Brooklyn Eagle.
