

Maxwell —a car having every luxury except one

THAT luxury is brutish bigness, which means weight, which means a large gasoline tank and filled often, and large tires, and several sets a year.

Maxwell is neither a big car nor a small car. The biggest car made is less than 4 feet longer, and costs around $10,000 to buy and $5,000 a year to run.

Most cars are just a foot or a few inches longer.

And others are some smaller—shorter, lighter, less roomy, and hence lack the luxury of a Maxwell.

Nor do they cost, on the average, less to run.

Gas mileage is very nearly the same. Tire mileage is very nearly the same.

But where Maxwell earned its crowning reputation has been in its ability to run and run and never quit.

That means repair bills are amazingly low.

You therefore never get mad at a Maxwell—it's the best friend your pocketbook has. And when you stop to think of all those little points of stop in a Maxwell you're almost sure to whip out your check book and write a check for one.

The 300,000-all-alike idea behind the Maxwell thus, you see, is sound.

Destined to Play Many Roles

A simple but rich-looking toilette is among the new displays of suits and dresses for spring, but with all its simplicity it reveals two original and very effective style features that are noteworthy. The first of these appears in the combination of two very different satins. The plain skirt is made of one of these heavy, lustrous, supple weaves, much used for separate and sport skirts, and the smart and rather elaborate coat is fashioned from a heavy satin such as we have been familiar with for years. There is no rivalry between these two dissimilar satins, but it is unusual to see them used together. Just how successfully they may be associated appears in the suit for spring shown above.

This is a formal suit that will hold its own for afternoon or restaurant-dinner wear, and prove useful for other very different occasions. The skirt and coat may part company—the skirt serving with various blouses for any smart, informal dress, and the coat doing its efficient part with a light skirt or one-piece dress in lighter fabrics, merely as a coat. It proves to be an interesting garment with details of cut and decoration that bespeak considerable effort on the part of its designer. The body of the coat is merely a blouse opening at the front to the waistline and closed there in the manner of a surplice. It has a rolled collar, faced with or having an over-collar of white satin. The sleeves are gathered into a very deep and eccentric cuff of satin, with three satin-covered buttons as a finish. The picture describes it better than words can. The skirt of the coat is rounded at the fronts and laid in two deep inverted plaits at each side. These form pointed panels over the hips that widen from the waistline to the bottom. The panels are decorated with embroidery in two colors, one of them the same as that of the coat and one of them a light, contrasting color. The girdle is shaped with points upstanding at each side, over the underarm seam.

The front and back of the coat are prettily finished with narrow silk braid in parallel rows, starting at the waistline and terminating in little satin-covered buttons at each side.

A Lost Opportunity.

Mrs. O'gar (a typical product of the Kentucky mountains) came to a small Missouri town to live. One of the many new diversions she found was the picture show. Recently she attended a "movie" and during the interval between parts, a picture for the fourth liberty loan was thrown on the screen. It portrayed the Kaiser in dire distress on his knees to Uncle Sam, while Our Uncle wrathfully shook his fist at the despised creature. After the show Mrs. O'gar was heard to say disgustedly to her "better half": "Mike, I can't see why in the world if Uncle Sam got that close to the Kaiser he didn't hit him."—The Fun

DRINK MORE WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat less meat and take Salts for Back-ache or Bladder trouble—Neutralizes acids.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad. Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Oxen Again Beasts of Burden.

The ox as a beast of burden is coming into its own again in the farming communities of the state, according to a dispatch from Lewiston, Me., and the oxing and apparatus used by blacksmiths in shoeing the animals, long ago thrown into the discard, is in use again. The sling consists of a rude frame of timber into which the animal is fastened by a pillory. Straps are then drawn under the body, the ends being made fast to upper timbers of the frame. In blacksmith shops 20 years ago the slings were common. Oxen are less expensive to feed than horses and are equally as useful on small farms, and the rising value of feed is having much to do with the comeback of the ox as a work animal.

Experienced in Munition Making.

Llanelli, Wales, did its bit in the matter of munitions long before the great war. At the beginning of the nineteenth century Mr. Raby, the great local ironworker, cast a large quantity of shot for the government. Earlier still, when Cromwell was besieging Pembroke castle, much of the shot were supplied from the Llanelli district.
