QUEER MYTH ABOUT WILSON

Belief in Austria That President of the United States is Really Crown Prince Rudolph.

According to the Vienna Journal, a serious newspaper, the rural population of large districts of the provinces of Lower Austria and Styria never believed in the death of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria, who was assassinated in the castle of Mayerling, near Baden, together with Countess Vecsera in 1889.

The people refused to accept this official statement, and their suspicion was nourished at the time by the fact that the coffin of the crown prince at the funeral was extremely small, while the crown prince himself was a powerful man.

The story went that the crown prince had really not been murdered at all, but that he had fled across the big pond.

Ever since the war there is a growing belief among the rural population that the crown prince, who, as will be remembered, was addicted to scientific researches, is identical with Prof. Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America.

The remarkable thing is that there is an evident optimism as the future of Austria connected with the legend, for the people say it is plain that Wilson being Crown Prince Rudolph, will not let his beloved Austria perish.

GOT HER SOLDIER HUSBAND

Lonely Widow Made Application and Government Employment Bureau Did the Rest.

There's a job for the returned soldier which few of us thought of, the job of being a husband. At least, we never thought of it as one of those jobs which could be listed among the "help wanted." This is what happened at one of the New York city United States employment bureaus.

Gordon Sawyer, the government employment agent picked a pink, ill-assented letter off the top of his mail. He opened it and read:

"My husband died some time ago. I have a small income, a town home and a country place, but I am lonesome. Having read that so many soldiers are out of work, I have concluded that there would be nothing better for me to do than to take for my husband a man who has fought for his country. Can you send a worthy soldier to me?"

"This may be a joke," said Mr. Sawyer. "It sounds too good to be true. But it is worth a trial."

Ten minutes later a goodlooking young soldier walked into the office. "I am looking for a job," he said. "I'm a carpenter."

"Married?" asked Mr. Sawyer.

"Nope," replied Private J.

"Read this letter, investigate the job and report to me."

Just as Mr. Sawyer was closing his office the telephone rang. "This is Private J.," said the voice. "Thanks for that letter. I got the job."
