New Terrorists Take Command at Budapest

VIENNA, July 21.—By Associated Press.—Bela Kun, soviet minister of war and foreign affairs and virtual dictator, has been deposed by a triumvirate composed of Ms. Tibor, Smilany and Vago, newspapers here report. Vago is military commander of Budapest. The government triumvirate is convinced the allies are too weak or unwilling to intervene forcibly. Bela Kun's red army is said to be breaking up. Money value is depreciating. Food conditions are unbearable.

BERLIN, July 21.—A new reign of horror exists in Budapest, according to a dispatch from the Hungarian capital to the Tageblatt. Red terror in its worst form is anticipated. OREGON ROADS NOT THE BEST SAY TOURISTS

Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Heuser and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Adams of Los Angeles registered at the Albany last night on a tourist trip north to Portland and Seattle. In answer to a question as to the condition of the roads in Oregon Mr. Heuser stated that the tourist class is thoroughly disgusted with the class of roads in the state. He pointed to the mud on his car that he was still carrying from being stuck in Cow Creek canyon which he claimed could have been fixed at a trifling expense. Mr. Heuser was not in accord with the system used by the Oregon people in making roads but acknowledged that we had the scenery here that would attract the public eye if we had the means of travel necessary to reach places of interest. Thousands of cars will pass through the valley every month during the summer as soon as the roads are even partly up to standard, is the expression made almost daily by some of the best-appearing people passing through the valley every few days.

19 COAST UNIONS VOTE TO CONTINUE TELEPHONE STRIKE; TEN BACK AT WORK

At Portland 800 Operators Return to Switchboards; Some Girls Wearing Badges as First Refusing Work

LOCAL GIRLS ARE BACK

Agreement Reached Said by Operators to Be for Year; Company Says Until August 1; 22 Register for Pay

PORTLAND, July 21.—By Associated Press.—All the 800 striking telephone operators returned to work today in accordance with the vote taken yesterday. They registered at 8 o'clock today and were put to work immediately or pay started at that hour, union leaders announced. Some girls wearing ribbon badges showing union membership were refused the privilege of registering by the phone officials. Some of these girls removed their badges, but others held out and were finally allowed to go to work when trouble seemed imminent. The striking linemen also returned to work. The strikers claim a complete victory, securing a one-year contract with wage increase, and the creation of an adjustment board to act between the company and the union hereafter.

SALEM, July 21.—The strikers went back to work here today.

SEATTLE, July 21.—Nine hundred striking operators and electrical workers returned to work this morning. At Spokane the strikers returned.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A few strikers have returned to work. The local union voted yesterday to stay out. Nineteen unions on the coast have reported they will continue the strike, while ten have voted to return to work. Meetings tomorrow will settle the issue.

At Sacramento the strikers voted to stay out while the Los Angeles strikers voted to resume work.

This morning 22 members of the local operators' union registered for work and immediately began to draw government pay. Both the strikers and the company are claiming a victory.

The girls state that they are returning to work in order that they may deal with the government, which refuses to deal with employees on a strike. The matter of retroactive pay is to be decided at Washington at 5 o'clock. The girls' board at Washington, say the girls. The strikers feel that they can trust the government. Miss Louise Austin, president of the local union, and Miss Elizabeth Reuland and Miss Dena Franke returned Saturday night from Portland where they met with the union officials at that place.

Another Strike Possible

The girls state that they still have the right of referendum and that if the government's decision is not satisfactory another strike can be looked for.

All members of the electrical union in this city went to work this morning.

While the girls have registered and are drawing pay, none have been assigned to work yet. It is understood however, that schedules are being worked out and that all of the strikers and all of the girls who worked during the strike who care to stay will be given positions. Two of the girls who registered this morning were protested by the company.

To Keep Old Force

According to a statement by Local Manager George Sanders this morning the company will keep 12 of the present force of operators and take back the old force. All are on government pay until July 31, after which time the situation looks doubtful.

The local girls returned to work at the pay they were receiving when they left. Beginners get $10 a week for the first three months, increasing $1 each three months for the first year, at which time they will receive $13. The maximum for finished operators in five years is $15.50. Supervisors and other specialized girls get from $80 to $90 a month. All get time and a half for Sundays and holidays.

BRYAN OPPOSED TO PROPOSED ALLIANCE BETWEEN FRANCE & THE UNITED STATES

No Other Country in the World Is in the Same Class with America, Commoner Tells Lebanon Crowd

PRAISES LEAGUE

First Step in Settling War; Oregon Praised for Direct Legislation System; Big Public Questions Reviewed

"I am unalterably opposed to the proposed alliance with France which was signed by the United States peace delegates at Paris," said William Jennings Bryan in his address before a large chautauqua crowd at Lebanon yesterday. The great Commoner made four points which explain his opposition to this alliance with America's ally, declaring that no other nation in the world is in the same class with the United States and one is yet fit to be linked in such an alliance. "I am opposed to the Alliance with France," he said. "The document has not been laid before the Senate and we can only gather the terms from the press. But I have four objections.

Reasons are Stated

"First, it discredits the league of nations. "Second, to form an alliance with France or any other nation would be a discriminating factor that would menace the league of nations. "Third, I am willing that this nation shall step down from its high position by linking itself with one nation in the world is in the same class with the United States. South America needs no armies or navies to protect their borders. No other nation in history has stood before the world and defended weaker nations without charge.

Made Flag Loved

"After driving the Spaniard out of Cuba and establishing a democratic form of government we turned that government over to the people of that island. One of the most impressive sights that I have ever witnessed was when the American flag was drawn down from Moro Castle and the Cuban flag hoisted. When the stars and stripes neared the ground the Cubans rushed by and gathered in their arms and with tears in their eyes kissed the flag and declared that it should not be allowed to touch the ground.

"We have made our flag loved while other nations have tried to make theirs feared. In Paris we asked nothing for our part in this war but President Wilson spent six months fighting the greed and selfishness of other nations, and the wonder is that he got such a favorable treaty as finally came out. France is not for the league of nations. In 1911 she jeopardized world peace over a little colonial question in Africa and had Germany been ready for war at that time it would have been France and not Austria which touched the tinder that set the whole world in war in 1914.

Famous League of Nations

Fourth, I am not willing to surrender the right to other nations to say when we are to go to war. I am not willing to tie ourselves up in that way.

In speaking of the league of nations Mr. Bryan said: "Some minds are confused by the objectives of the league of nations before they knew the principle involved. Do we want to end war or continue it? Some believe that war is desirable. War is not necessary. The league will provide a substitute for war by providing for an investigation of all disputes and look for complete disarmament of the world, leaving just enough forces for protection against internal disorders. The League of Nations is not perfect, but it is better than the alternative of reaction and the return to conditions that are sure to breed more wars in the future. It is simply a matter of a protection against future wars."

Miller Is Chairman

Mr. Bryan was introduced by Hon. Milton A. Miller, who characterized him as the greatest American citizen in private life today. He spoke at Lebanon 22 years ago, to which engagement he has since said that people came further and earlier to hear him than any crowd he ever had in his life. He praised Lebanon and people and expressed the hope that he might return again. The Democrat would like to report

FORMER ALBANYITES CAVORT AT OAKS

F. P. Nutting Presides at Annual Gathering of Loyal Tribe of Oldtimers

The annual gathering of the Albany society, an organization composed of former residents of Albany who now live in Portland, and which numbers several hundred members, was held at the Oaks, park Friday afternoon and evening, says the Oregonian. The gathering was in the form of a picnic, which custom has been adhered to for each of the eight years the organization has been in existence, on each occasion the picnic being held at the Oaks. The table was made up of many smaller tables arranged in the form of a letter A, and handsome decorations of flowers and greenery enhanced its appearance. At 7 o'clock an old-fashioned picnic supper was served, followed by brief speeches by prominent members.

F. P. Nutting, as president of the society, was toastmaster and gave an address of welcome. Other speakers were George W. Caldwell and H. G. Starkweather. Miss Lillian Hackleman read two clever poems of her own composition; little Miss Fredrika Campbell recited delightfully, and Professor Carol Day gave several solos and led the society in singing "America" and "Auld Lang Syne."

PRESIDENT WILSON CONFINED TO BED

Executive Taken Ill on Cruise, Trouble Not Considered Serious

WASHINGTON, July 21.—By Associated Press.—President Wilson returned today from a weekend cruise to Hampton Roads and was immediately ordered to bed by his physician, Rear Admiral Grayson, who announced that the President was suffering with dysentery. Returns From Cascadia—

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hulbert returned yesterday from a week's camping at Cascadia. Mr. Hulbert states that he drove his Liberty Six on high gear all the way, which is going some.

the entire speech, which was interesting and full of information throughout, but space forbids mention of more than the highlights.

Strong for Suffrage

He began his lecture, which was of important topics of the day, with general references to the relation of marriage to society and made the statement that the only foundation upon which a moral code can be built is the right of the individual. He often referred to the engineering phrase, "the angle of repose," in speaking on various topics. The income tax was pointed to. He told of the trials of woman's suffrage, and made a strong indorsement of the measure, saying that the world needs woman's vote and conscience more today than she needs the vote.

Praised Democratic Party

Prohibition is a subject that he has long been interested in and he told of the triumph of the movement. He stated that he expects to live to see the entire civilized world dry.

He lauded the part that the democratic party has had in the great reform movements, saying that it had hrown off the onerous mantle that had covered it for 50 years and had led in many of the great movements. He gave both parties credit, saying that big reforms are the product of cooperation.

Profiteers Are Hit

Profiteering was given a rap and those who participated in robbing the people at home while the boys fought were denounced. Referring to the three great problems before the people today, the telephone, telegraph and railroads, he said that a private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable. He denounced government ownership of the "three and said that a fair trial under government ownership had not been had because those running the telephone and telegraph lines did not want to see the experiment succeed.

Favors Referendum

He expects to see the fifth great constitutional reform of the generation, the adoption of the Oregon system of initiative and referendum. He praised Oregon for leading the world in this respect and believes that it completes democracy and gives the people the power to rule.

TO ASK RAILROAD TO CHANGE COURSE FOR BETTER ROUTE THROUGH CASCADES

Chamber of Commerce Members Meet to Plan for Presenting Case to Engineers and Officers of Company

DICH FIELD OPEN

By Running Line Through Linn County to Hog Pass Competition Would Be Eliminated

A movement to divert the Portland & Southeastern Railroad from its proposed route up the North Santiam river to where it crosses Hog Pass, to the middle of the south fork of the Santiam and through the same pass was begun here this morning when a number of businessmen met and discussed ways and means. It is pointed out that the proposed route takes the road up the Santiam and places it in competition with the P. P. company, which already has a big business there. By diverting the road and running it south through Dayton, Larwood, Lacombe and Berlin to the South fork, a new and rich country would be tapped and provide heavy business without competition.

Would Open New Country It would tap 116,000 acres of timber owned by the Hill interests alone, if ripe timber of excellent quality, it would open up a rich agricultural country. It would open up the Quartzville mining district by passing within four or five miles of it, giving an outlet to vast resources in gold, silver, copper, lead and zinc ore, which a railroad can develop. In addition, a better grade would be secured and more favorable conditions would be found in general.

Committee Named

A committee was appointed, consisting of F. J. Miller, president of the Chamber of Commerce; A. M. Hamner and C. H. Stewart, to call upon representatives of the road and explain the advantages of the new route.

Albany is not interested for herself in the line, but for the general development of Linn county. The road would not come within 20 miles of this city, but more taxable property in Linn county would be created. Herbert S. Huson, of the engineering firm of Huson & Fortner of Portland, in charge of the construction of the road, was here last week securing data, and the new plans will be laid before him. It is believed that the point will be seen and that he new route can be changed. Surveyors are now at Hog Pass looking for the best route out.
