

Always the Best Values

THIS STORE clings tenaciously to the small-profit idea. By it and through it we can turn stocks more quickly and replenish the various departments with fresh, new merchandise right straight along. When stocks accumulate there's less new stock to choose from and a "skimped" variety—undesirable features from both the customer's viewpoint and our own.

Operating on small profits means that we must depend upon the customer's satisfaction with values and coming back—therefore values must always be pleasing or the store does not thrive.

cousin shower in honor of Miss Eva May at her home on the Tanager road. Miss May is a bride-elect of October. The evening was spent in interesting games and singing. The guests present were the Misses Ethel and Marion Sloof, Marylee Jenks, Hedging Florence and Jessie Jenks, Hedging Anderson, Irene Speer, Ethel Tharf Miss Jones, a cousin of the Misses Jenks and Miss Hazel Sharpnack of Fowler, Colo., a guest of the Misses Ashton.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary Jane Hall and Mr. Lloyd L. Wilson, both of Portland, was made last week. Miss Hall is an extremely popular young lady, and until recently had made her home in Albany for a number of years where she has a large circle of friends. Mr. Wilson is a civil engineer in Portland where the young couple intend to make their home. The marriage will take place about the first of September.

Miss Alameda Geer, a well known Albany young lady and graduate of Albany high school, and Mr. Wilbur Long were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Geer, at 8 o'clock this morning, Rev. G. H. Young officiating. The bride was attired in the same beautiful white silk dress which her mother wore some 20 years ago. Miss Vera Smith acted as bridesmaid and wore a lovely silk dress of robin-egg blue. Only the immediate families were present and following the ceremony a lovely wedding breakfast was served. The young couple left by auto for the mountains near Diston and expect to spend their honeymoon camping there. They will make their home in Albany where Mr. Long has a position with Hauser Brothers.

Miss Alma Branshagen was hostess to a few intimate friends last Tuesday evening when she entertained at the St. Francis Hotel with a charming little dinner party. Those to enjoy this were Miss Hattie Hamilton, Mrs. Pearl Cameron, Mrs. W. A. Cox and the hostess.

Tuesday evening Bryant Park was the scene of a happy gathering when the members of the Christian Sunday school met to enjoy a jolly picnic. A sumptuous supper was served and a good time was enjoyed by all who attended.

Dr. and Mrs. B. R. Wallace are entertaining as their house guests Dr. and Mrs. Pettit, of Chehalis, Washington. They made the trip to Albany.

RED CROSS STARTS FIGHT ON PLAGUE

The fight on tuberculosis was taken up by the Red Cross at a meeting held in the public library auditorium Wednesday evening. Mrs. Sadie Orr-Dunbar, of Portland, executive secretary of the Anti-Tuberculosis association of Oregon, was present and outlined the work of the association and told of their plans for putting nurses in every county of the state. Seven counties already have nurses, which are to be employed by the Red Cross the first year.

Miss Mary E. Cronin, who is making a special survey for soldiers with tuberculosis, was also present as was Miss Jane C. Allen, state advisory nurse. Miss Allen was head of the open-air school in Portland last year and attracted wide attention by her work. She told about the conduct and development of the children under her care. Her visit here is in the interest of establishing a public health nurse in the county in cooperation with the Red Cross.

Dr. G. H. Young, president of the Lincoln County Red Cross, presided. There was a large attendance and interest in the work was keen. A temporary vote was taken, which resulted unanimously in favor of employing a nurse.

FIJIAN'S DAY OVER

Picturesque South Sea Islander Is Disappearing.

Advent of the White Man, With His Civilization and His Business Ideas Too Much for Once-Dreaded Savage.

The Fiji Islander, whose cannibalistic practices long made him a favorite with writers of fiction and humor, is following the Malaysian pirates and the roving pearl thief of the South seas into the realm of memory. A turbulent half-caste Hindoo is replacing the once bloodthirsty and always picturesque native of the Fiji.

It is the white man's civilization, along with the white man's views, and the Fijian's utter disinclination to work that are blotting out the race. The Fijian of today is no longer warlike, no longer a hunter and a fisherman. Instead he is a lazy smoker of the white man's tobacco, a lover of the white man's enervating drinks and a patron of the white man's moving picture shows.

Time was when the war canoes of the Fijians pilled the Southern seas; when the Fijian warrior was a dreaded person who displayed no fear in battle and who enjoyed eating his slain enemies once the conflict ended. The Fijians, according to the early travelers who came in contact with them, were superlatively bad. The very name Fijian became a synonym for whatever was barbarous, inhuman and cannibalistic. It seems that the eating of human flesh was both a matter of religious rite and of enjoyment with the Fijian. Great feasts of this sort were prepared, especially after a successful battle.

The bad reputation of the Fijians kept traders and missionaries away from the islands till long after other peoples of that section of the seas were Christianized. Finally the white man got a foothold in the islands. Trade of various sorts sprang up, for the islands are wonderfully rich in commercial possibilities. The Fijian is a child who cannot grow up. He has no sense of commercial values and no liking for toil. The white man found him a wretched worker and almost unuseful on the plantations that were laid out in the islands.

That is the reason why the Hindoo coolie has been imported into Fiji and why the Fijian is disappearing. The native cannot stand the double strain of softened ways of living and of competing with the work-hardened native of India.

One notes as a significant phase of the European's attitude toward the changing conditions in Fiji, the recommendations adopted at a recent meeting of the district synod, Methodist mission of Fiji. These recommendations approved the further colonization of the islands by Hindoos and suggested a number of regulations which would better the situation of these imported orientals. The importation of women from India was recommended, as it was stated that women were disproportionately few in the Fiji islands.

There has been some intermarriage between the Fijians and the Hindoos. That, too, has helped bring about the passing of the Fijian. Samoans also have gone to Fiji in considerable numbers and have thrived there.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body. It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

The Cry, Not the Need

The cry of today is for a socializing of the Work of the Churches, making them better agencies for higher wages for labor, and mightier influences for the reformation of many evils of society. The Church has but one mission, the personal salvation of every individual person who can get in touch with, and he who will yield to God, from every nation, kindred tribe and people. This is the need. Come help us promote it.
