

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

(By Irene Helen Barrett)

Owing to the inclement weather the weeks calendar is void of social functions. The affairs which have taken place were quite informal. A few affairs were planned the first of the week, but the invitations have been recalled. Although society is looking forward to Christmas week as already the social calendar has many notations that predict a busy whirl of gaiety for the after Christmas season.

The girls glee club of the high school enjoyed a coasting party Thursday evening. The hill at the end of Fifth street was the scene of much merriment for about three hours after which they repaired to the home of Mrs. Vernon Reynolds, where the big crab-chowder feed awaited them, there were about twelve girls to enjoy the affair.

The Y. P. A. society of the Evangelical church delightfully entertained with a Christmas party Friday evening of last week. The home of Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Hadley, where the affair was held was beautiful in Christmas decorations. Red and white flowers entwined with fir branches were gracefully arranged about the rooms. Massive branches of holly loaded with the berries completed the Christmas colorings. A tall spreading fir tree beautifully trimmed and lighted with colored electric lamps held the many gifts brought by the Y. P. A. Delightful music and old fashioned games were the diversions. After the distribution of gifts a luncheon of cheese pie, salad and cider was served. Those enjoying the affair were Ethel Gilbert, Venies Holley, Greta Emmette, Mildred Brown, Schmanenburg, Leva Snell, Della Newman, Winnie Hadley, Ruby Miench, Helen Whitman, Mrs. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Hadley, Lowell Schreiber, Howard Schreiber, Dee Simpson, Dow Simpson, Arthur Gilbert, Robert Gile, Eloon Snell, Barclay Newman, Hawley Hughson, Chester Hughson,

Herman Woldridge, and Herman Walruff.

The Sodality girls of the Catholic church met Wednesday evening in the church. About 20 young ladies united with the order. Rev. Father Lane conducted the services. A social hour followed at the Parsonage, music and games were the pleasures. A delightful luncheon prepared by the girls was served by Mrs. Lane, Rev. Father Lane's Aunt, assisted by Mrs. Otto Bender and Miss Lane. About 48 young ladies enjoyed the affair.

The Pythian Sisters combined pleasure and business when they met in K. of P. hall Tuesday evening. The committee for refreshments and entertaining were Mrs. Willard Marks, Mrs. Uericy Kelley, Mrs. Glen Junkins and Mrs. Mary McClain. After a business session a delightful cafeteria luncheon was served, followed by a social hour.

Mr. and Mrs. William Panck were hospitable hosts to the Covered Dish club Monday evening at their home, 223 Ferry street. The table around which the 20 guests were seated was centered with a beautiful floral piece of white chrysanthemums. After the sumptuous dinner five tables of five hundred were played. There were no additional guests.

C. H. Palmer, a popular vocal teacher, was in Albany Friday and Saturday in the interest of his profession. Mr. Palmer has a large class in Salem also.

The Lady Maccabees met in the W. O. W. hall Thursday evening for election of officers. Those honored were Mrs. Amelia Horsky, commander; Mrs. Zella Howard, lieutenant-commander; Mrs. Martha McAlpin, past commander; Mrs. Lydia Van Winkle, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ella Merrill, chaplain; Mrs. Belle Pate, sergeant; Mrs. Clinton sentinel; Saddle Jones, picket; captain of guards, Hester Austin; color bearer No. 1, Daisy Babb; color bearer

A Store of Gift's Worth While

A Christmas Gift is not merely something that one gives to another. It is far more than that; it must express a message of affection or remembrance; it must bear a personal message; it must be of such character as to convey in itself the unspoken idea back of its giving. Our stock is most suggestive.

Notes from all parts of Linn County

Jefferson Items
JEFFERSON, Dec. 13—Among Jeffersonites shopping in Albany the latter part of last week were Mrs. Paul McKee, Mrs. J. L. Blackwell Mrs. John Pratt, Mrs. G. B. Roland, Mrs. Wm. Backman, and Miss Rose Green. The Methodist supper and Bazaar 1st Friday night was a complete success, the ladies taking in 125.00.
Mrs. Robt. Krines spent Friday and Saturday of last week in Portland.
A. C. Libby made a business trip to Salem Saturday.
W. L. Jones was a Salem visitor Sunday and Monday.
Quite a number of Jefferson people attended the funeral of Mrs. John Gill at Scio Monday afternoon.
Clarence Libby was in Albany on business Monday.
Ed. D. Smith has been confined to his home for several days with a severe sore throat.
Wilda Vaughn was an Albany visitor Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gentry were at Salem Monday.

Frank Weddle and T. O. Kester were in Salem on business Monday.
Roy Cates from Wells was in town

Wednesday and Thursday Mr. Cates is visiting Jefferson quite frequently. Evidently some attraction. Orley Epley has been on the sick list this week.

Then He Ached Some More—
The happiest member of the family this morning was the small boy who was just "aching" to get out and wallow in the snow.—Roseburg News.
