PLAIN TRUTH FOR RADICALS

There has been much complaint from American Reds, particularly those of the "parlor" variety, on account of the severe measures lately taken to rid the country of disturbers. There have been some outbursts of foolish sentimentality, too, and some misapplied arguments regarding "free speech" and a "free press", from people who are at heart good Americans but a bit weak in the heart or head. It is good, therefore, to find Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, with his usual directness and simplicity, going straight to the heart of the matter and putting the whole case in a nutshell.

"The foreigners who come to our shores," he says, "are given every opportunity to earn an honest living. Their environments here are much better than they had at home, and the authorities give them every assistance possible to make them useful citizens of this grand country. The laws here are not as hard to obey as those they had to contend with in their former countries; but the foreigners must remember that they must obey the laws of this country as our own people have to obey them."

He concludes: "If the members of the Red organizations don't like this country, let them go home. If they do not go, then we shall have to send them."

That is exactly what we are doing now, after long tolerance of their insolent and pernicious activity.

Some fault-finders perhaps will challenge the Cardinal's statement that the authorities have given these malcontents "every assistance possible to make them useful citizens." There have, indeed, been omissions along this line in the past, though they are now being reminded. It should not be forgotten, however, that even when official America seemed most indifferent to the welfare of immigrants, she was infinitely more kind to them than their own governments at home had been.

THE TREASURY CREED

It is a good creed suggested by the United States Treasury Department for the new year. The chief items are:
 "I believe in the United States of America.
 "I believe that her stability and progress rest on the thrift and industry of her people.
 "Therefore I will work hard and live simply.
 "I will spend less than I earn.
 "I will save consistently.
 "To increase the financial strength of my country and myself, I will buy government securities."

It need not be objected that this creed is "purely materialistic." There is more than materialism in work and thrift, particularly when they are meant for national advancement as well as personal advancement. With hard work, plain living and high purpose, there will be far more chance for spiritual uplift than there has been with the shiftlessness, thriftlessness and purposelessness of the past year.

The income tax blanks will soon be sent out. Then 4,000,000 families will have solved for them the problem of how to spend the long winter evenings.

Comment of the State Press

Snappy Gleanings from the Press of the Valley

Both Right—

Cottage Grove Sentinel
 The way it appears to us is that the commission had all the grounds necessary upon which to fire Mr. Finley and that the governor has all the grounds necessary for dispensing with the services of the fish and game commissioners and all he has to do to find good and sufficient cause is to hold up to public view the extravagant conduct of the business of the office.

Third Time is Charm—

The voters of Oregon have twice voted legalized murder out of the State, and there are enough sane and sensible people to do it again, in spite of the social reds who seek to destroy the good name of the state, at least, Lend-a-Hand, of the Penitentiary, Salem, thinks so.

No Confidence in Commission—

The affairs of the fish and game commission have been in more or less turmoil for years—with quarrels, dissension and near-scandals that have lost it what little respect the people of the state ever had for it. If Governor Olcott can purge this body of its malodorous repute he will accomplish a real reform, declares the Aurora Observer. If "it can't be done," some one will come along one of these days with an initiative bill that will blow up the whole mess.

Penitentiary for 15-Year-Old Girl—

Portland Spectator
 A 15-year-old girl stole an automobile in Vancouver, Wash., drove 40 miles, and was arrested. District Attorney Yates of Clark county swore to a complaint against her and appeared as her prosecutor; she pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to ten years. Does anyone in this wide world, including the district attorney who prosecuted her and the judge who sentenced her, think that this 15-year-old child will be benefited by serving ten years amid such surroundings as a state penitentiary offers? What sort of people are we who permit our orphan girls to stray from the straight path, and then, when they show the inevitable result of our indifference, carelessness, and neglect, railroad them off to a ten years' term?

We Call It Queer—

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. A. Billie of Portland, after living as man and wife for over a half century, died within a few hours of each other. Some people will call it coincidence and others will call it Providence.—Astoria Budget.

Get a small package of Hamburg Breat Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.
