upon separation between matters of church and state. We cannot hope for it from our great state universities, equally handicapped when it comes to the distinct emphasis of Christian nurture, though they are doing a magnificent work along so many lines of training specialists for leadership in the manifold callings of our time. Nor can we look for it to those institutions which have forgotten the first purpose of true education, namely the making of character, rather than the emphasis upon intellectual attainment. There are all too many of these which call themselves Christian, but which have wrecked the faith of more than one earnest student, by allowing a teacher in some one field of study to criticize or ignore the fundamental essentials of Evangelical Christian faith, while nowhere else in the program of the institution is there any provision to balance such teaching with the necessary emphasis of Christian truth, so that the student shall be guarded against the destructive teaching by the well-established constructive training, without which we shall never have that culture in victorious manhood and womanhood which will make the individual life a

Old Age Postponed

The appearance of old age can be postponed by having your teeth properly looked after. Registered Dentists using the E. R. Parker System are especially capable of doing this by making fine crowns, bridges and artificial teeth.

Some men and women look ten years younger after these dentists have done the necessary work. So much depends upon making artificial teeth look natural that you should be glad to know where to go for the right kind of work.

Another thing about E. R. Parker System Dentists: They make a specialty of saving time for out-of-town patients, so these patients won't have to come in so often. You will be surprised to learn how reasonable the prices are, too, and also to find out that you need have no fear of pain.

real contribution to the welfare of the nation.

The only voice that can sound the needed message for America and the world is that of the truly Christian College. By a truly Christian college I mean one that recognizes the failure of secular education, as already indicated, to meet the needs of a nation in the building of worthy character. A college that will guard with fidelity against destructive criticism. A college that goes further in a constructive program of giving to its students that knowledge of Jesus Christ that will bear fruit in a positive influence for the cause of Christianity wherever its graduates touch the life of men. A college which teaches that winsome knowledge of God which saturates all true conviction and inspires all sincere endeavor. Therefore, a college that gives first place in its curriculum to the Christian Scriptures, as being the only infallible rule of faith and life, and which emphasizes those Scriptures to be the supreme and final authority in all matters of faith and conduct. Moreover, on the throne of that authority it crowns the Lord Jesus Christ, as having been tested from every point of challenge, as the greatest religious teacher the world has ever known. No program for any phase of worthy living can be adequate apart from Him and His leadership. It follows that the truly Christian College must, in these days of reconstruction, be true enough and brave enough to champion His leadership as absolutely essential to the solution of the perplexing problems that crowd the pathway of our progress.

In a grave crisis during the recent war, the President summoned a council of the greatest specialists and experts in the land to study the problem of the people of Marion county and Polk of financial gain, eagerly making actual sacrifices of time and personal interests, in order to give of their best to the end that light might shine in upon the questions they sought to answer. It was a big order, but the whole nation approved the idea and the endeavor. Is it not just something like this that should now be done by the outstanding educators throughout the land who are known to represent genuine Evangelical Christianity?

Let them assemble the facts, everywhere confessed, that prove the utility of anything short of thorough Christian education. Let them stress the findings recently reported by Dr. R. L. Kelley, who has charge of the survey of the educational institutions throughout the land for the Inter-

Church World Movement, showing that from eighty to ninety-five per cent of the Christian Ministers of the country are produced by the denominational colleges, which more nearly maintain reliable Christian standards than any others. Let them emphasize the unquestioned place of the Christian church in its dominant influence in every community in the land, and the fact that its wholesome atmosphere can only be maintained as the truly Christian colleges continue to furnish the necessary leadership. Let them capitalize public opinion at this crisis, when it is recognizing the poverty of other inadequate methods of education, and the vital need of trained Christian leadership. Let this be done as the Challenge of the Christian Colleges of America to the thinking men who must determine the character of our citizenship.

If this should be done with statesmanlike grasp of the situation, with such massing of facts and figures as will make denial impossible, with wise reassertion of the statements of the leaders of the republic, from Washington to Wilson, urging that only as religion is maintained may we hope for morality in the nation's life, with such wide-spread publicity of the message as would secure a hearing everywhere; it is reasonably certain that it could not fail to arrest attention to the unescapable truth, and deepen concern regarding the vital need just at this critical juncture, and quicken such purpose to meet that need as would start a wave of public opinion sweeping across the country, making its greatest impression upon thinking men in our churches who have already professed their personal allegiance to Jesus Christ as their Lord and Master, and to the advancement of His cause in the earth.

Following in the wake of this pronouncement, it would seem inevitable that Christian stewards of our various communions would immediately respond to the legitimate challenge of the colleges to enter upon whatever campaign of sacrificial giving may be necessary to equip them adequately.

It should also follow that many of the flower of our young manhood and womanhood would be successfully encouraged to choose such institutions for their college training, as they catch a vision of what is most worth while in higher education, and of the equipment they most need to enable them to make their finest contribution to the life of the world.

It is quite fitting that such an appeal as this should be made today on this occasion and in this presence. We stand at an auspicious opening of a new era in the life of Albany College. For it is not only true that the institution has always stood for this ideal of a truly Christian College; but it is also true that the man who now assumes its important leadership is in fullest sympathy with that ideal.

President Williams, I am sure that I bespeak the prayerful hope of everyone within the sound of my voice when I say that we trust you are entering upon a veritable epoch in the history of Albany College, an epoch during which this institution shall be enlarged and enriched, first of all by the deepening atmosphere of a genuine Christian education, and then by such an increasing host of friends as shall make it possible for each passing year to invite an ever-growing student body and teaching force, such as will make the Synod of Oregon proud and thankful for such a seat of learning within its borders, and will make the world richer because of the contribution which the College shall make to the Christian leadership of its unfolding life, bearing blessed fruit in carrying the Gospel of God's blessed salvation to all the mankind.

Albany Bakers May Advance the Price of Bread

Several of the leading Albany bakeries are seriously considering making a change in the price of bread the first of the month caused by the increase of flour which has been on the advance for many months. Last week another advance was placed on the standard flours used by these bakers and according to reports Albany is the only town in the valley making the high grade bread that is made here that is not selling at eleven cents a loaf, and some places as high as twelve cents a loaf.

NEWBERRY TRIAL

ments were returned Nov. 30, last. United States District Judge C. W. Sessions, who assembled the jury, indicated that evidence obtained by the inquisitors disclosed the between $500,000 and $1,000,000 had been expended fraudulently in connection with the election.

The indicted men included every member of the committee that conducted the Newberry campaign and state, county and municipal officials in virtually every county from Lake Superior to the Ohio border.

The conclusions of the grand jury were embodied in two blanket indictments. They charged violation of both federal and state laws by use of sums of money for in excess of legitimate expenses in the campaign, and violation of the federal corrupt practice act, which penalizes payment of money to voters. Use of the mails "to defraud all the people of Michigan," was further charged against the campaign committee.

The maximum penalty for the offenses charged, is a fine of $10,000 and two years imprisonment.

NEWSPAPERS DON'T TELL ALL

As a Matter of Fact, World Must Not Be Judged by What One May See in Print.

Through all civilized countries folks spend a lot of their time just reading the papers. And it is all right, too. Everybody reads the papers.

But one must be careful to keep one's equilibrium at the same time. We must not make the mistake of supposing that there is nothing else going on in the world except that which the papers print.

The papers publish only the news that is startling or sensational. Naturally, that's all they publish. Whatever is unusual, out of the ordinary, something that astonishes one—these things are what the papers print.

If you were to go into a newspaper office with an item, say, about a man who had reared his family carefully, sent them to school and had paid the mortgage on his home, the editor wouldn't put that piece in the paper because there is nothing unusual about it.

But if the item were about a man who refused to work to support his family, and who beat his wife over the head with a club, and who chased them all out in the middle of the night in the rain, then the editor would say it was "news."

So, you see, it is mostly the troubles of the world, its seamy side, its crime and suffering and squalor that get into the papers.

Yet, there is the world's other side, thank God—its bright side, its love and gladness and charity and the help that one man gives another.

Read the papers, of course. But when you read them do not get the idea into your head that the world is plunging headlong to perdition, because such is not the case.—Utica Globe.
