Among the Turks bath-money forms an item in every marriage contract, the husband engaging to allow his wife a certain sum for bathing purposes. If it be withheld, she has only to go before the Cadi and turn her slipper upside down. If the complaint be not then redressed, it is sufficient ground for divorce.

The American College for Girls at Constantinople will celebrate its semi-centennial next year, having been founded in 1871 as a high school for girls of every nationality. In 1890 it was incorporated as a college. The student enrollment of the institution this year numbers upward of 600 in both departments, collegiate and preparatory.

The legal position of a married woman in Spain is today so low that her husband has absolute control over her person and property, as in the Middle Ages. The wife cannot enter business without her husband's consent. He has the legal right to shut her up in a convent if she does wrong, and it is left to him to decide what constitutes wrong.

It is to the Japanese woman that the Japanese language owes much of the progress it has made during the past century. She was of old forbidden to study the Chinese language, which was considered the exclusive monopoly of men. The Japanese women took hold of their native tongue, and were soon at the head of the literary movement of their country.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett was earning a small wage as a school teacher in Tennessee, when she began to write. It is said that the stamps with which her first story was sent to the magazines were earned by picking blackberries. Years later, when the author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" was at the zenith of her popularity as author and playwright, her annual income was estimated to be from $50,000 to $75,000.

girlhood in Washington. She was a brilliant actress when she first met the distinguished Irish journalist and politician, and after marriage she attained considerable reputation as a playwright. As a hostess she also is celebrated, and it is said that those who

SIBERIA NOT ALL SQUALOR

For Six Months of the Year Flowers Bloom in Profusion in Otherwise Desolate Country.

Amidst the filth, squalor and poverty of Siberia it is good to find something which seems devoid of all these, and which speaks to this desolate country of a better day. After months of snow and ice, and within a week from the time the snow has disappeared, spring begins, and with it come the flowers. Spring and summer and autumn are all one in Siberia—there is no time for them all; a brief six months is the most which nature allows, and so they have to cram into that space everything they can. The Christian Science Monitor says.

The chief flowers are anemones, lilies and lilies-of-the-valley. All of them, especially the latter, grow wild in great profusion, and the whole world seems to smell of lilies for a brief two or three weeks.

Traveling between Vladivostok and Harbin little semi-Chinese-Russian boys bring great bunches of lilies-of-the-valley to the trains, which can be bought for a few cents. They start perhaps by asking four rubles for a basket. This you refuse, and pass on to the next boy. Then the whistle blows, and the boys rush up to you shouting: "Three rubles! two rubles!" Still you take no notice; then you clamber on the train, which very slowly crawls out of the station, and you eventually buy as many lilies as you can carry for one ruble, the boy being perfectly content, and you, thinking of the prices in Fifth avenue, are also happy in the thought of your possession.
