ELECTRICITY IS A HELP TO FARMER IN SAVING TIME

What is a farmer's time worth? What is he worth an hour? Does he charge his business—the business of farming—with the value of the time he gives to it? And does he know how much time he is giving to executive work and productive labor and how much to non-productive labor? The farmer who is not giving these things a little thought is not in the front rank of those who are making of farming what it really should be—a business on a business basis.

The small electric light and power plants now in use on so many farms accomplish a lot of labor saving. Instead of spending hours pumping and carrying water for stock and for all household purposes the modern farm family has an electric pumping system installed, which keeps water at a pressure of fifty pounds wherever it is needed in the house or barns. Grindstones, fanning mills and many other light power appliances in the barn which used to require the time of two men are now turned by electricity. In the house the pumping, churning, separating, sweeping, washing and ironing are all done by electricity, relieving the farmer's wife of a great part of the burdens which have made her life a hard one. And of course electric light itself makes the farm home a bright and cheerful place to live.

Mill City Items

MILL CITY, Mar., 16—Special—Duncan McLean had a miraculous escape from death last week when he was crushed in the machinery of the big mill where he is head sawyer. Only the presence of mind of one of his fellow workmen saved McLean's life. He had gone below the flooring of the mill to adjust some machinery thinking that the power was shut off. His clothing caught in the moving wheels and he would have been crushed under the floor had not one of the mill men seen his danger and shut off the power. McLean was seriously but not dangerously hurt.
