THE CANADIAN MARKET

Canada is said to be growing bitter against the United States. Part of the bitterness is due to the attitude assumed by this country toward the peace treaty, especially the American opposition to Canada having a separate vote in the assembly of the League of Nations. The Canadians consider themselves a sovereign people in almost the same sense that we do, and their pride has been hurt by our regarding them as a mere appendage to Great Britain. Most of their resentment, however, is based on the present rate of exchange, by which they are forced to pay an extra 15 to 20 cents for every dollar's worth of goods they buy in this country. The result is that they are buying as little as possible in the American market, and are preparing to make heavier purchases in Europe hereafter—particularly in England.

This rate of exchange, so unfavorable to Canada, is not necessarily the fault of the United States. It is due, at least mainly, to natural economic causes. It is likely, nevertheless, that the United States could do a good deal more than it has done to remedy the matter, and it is certainly a short-sighted policy to encourage such a condition for the sake of present benefit to the American exporter, at the risk of future retaliation and loss of trade.

There does not seem ever to have been, among Americans generally, a proper appreciation of the value of the Canadian market. Canada has long been our third or fourth best customer among the nations of the world. Last year she came third, after Great Britain and France. This market, so near our doors, has been and should continue to be far more important than the Latin-American market. Last year, despite our record-breaking Latin exports, we sold Canada twice as much as all of South America together.

It is strange that, while such great efforts are put forth in behalf of the Latin-American market, so little is done to hold the much richer Canadian market that is already ours.

THE BUSY AIRPLANE

In Arizona new uses for aircraft are being discovered almost daily. In one locality a progressive mine owner entices prospective investors out to look over the mines by providing an airplane for the 20-mile trip.

In Yuma county it is said that an airplane is being used for examining lands bought or leased from the state.

A plane with a carrying capacity of one ton is to be used to haul asbestos from mines located far back in a rugged mountain region. The expense of wagon hauling, which necessitates good wagon roads, is very heavy, and the road-building is very difficult. It is thought that the airplane can make a number of complete trips every day, depositing its load of asbestos at the nearest railroad at comparatively small cost.

At present this must require a safe landing place both at the mines and at the railway depot. When an airplane has been perfected which can start from and land in a small restricted area with comfort and safety to machine and driver, still further commercial uses for aircraft in rugged, dangerous regions will be found. The possibilities seem to be unlimited.

If there is a special Hades for senators and representatives, will they not be obliged to listen to legislative debates for a thousand years?

Comments of the State Press

Time to Close Shop—

When the man who can only earn $2.50 a day will be paid $5 a day by reason of the operation of minimum wage law, it will be time to close up shop and join the millennium chorus.—Oregon Grange Bulletin.

Faith in Education—

"Never before in the history of America has there been such a renaissance of faith in the power of education to eliminate the great gulf that yawns between the mahogany desk and the work bench," says Lewis A. Wilson, director of agricultural and industrial education of the New York State Department of Education, who contributes an article on "The New Generation"—Eugene Guard.

New Law Needed—

A new law is needed in Oregon. It is needed to protect the public against a wrong use of the initiative. Four years ago an initiative bill hostile to the Columbia river fishing interests was prepared and signatures were obtained for placing it on the ballot. But it was not put on the ballot.—Oregon Journal.

Is it Labors Verdict—

A self-constituted jury of six men representing organized labor has returned a verdict of "acquittal" in the Centralia murder case. Their verdict has no legal status but by it they mean to serve notice upon the labor world that the I. W. W. defendants were justified in ambushing and shooting down ex-convicts. Will the labor world agree?—Astoria Budget.

The Fraud on Hiram—

Hiram Johnson gets all hot up and raises his stentorian voice in an anguished cry of fraud over the Minnesota primary. It was to be expected. Any primary or convention or election which goes against Hiram is a fraudulent and wicked conspiracy to deprive the people of their right and duty of making Hiram governor or senator or president or something.—Oregonian.

University of Oregon Co-eds say they will not marry a man with less than $250 a month income. The profession then will have to worry along without these fair damsels who seem bent on annexing only some of these eight hour a day men with a union card.—Gazette Times.

TODAY'S EVENTS

Birthday greetings to William Jennings Bryan, 60 years old today.

Moorfield Storey, of Boston, one of the foremost leaders of the American bar, celebrates his 75th birthday today.

A South Dakota State association of co-operative livestock shipping associations is to be organized at a meeting today at Sioux Falls.

"Free Speech" is to be the subject of the annual triangular debate tonight between student teams of Yale, Harvard and Princeton universities.

ENCAMPMENT TO BE STAGED JULY

SALEM, Ore., March 17—Annual encampment of members of the Oregon infantry, engineers and coast artillery will be held from July 6 to July 20, according to announcement made here today by Adjutant-General Staffin. The infantrymen and engineers will hold their practice and maneuvers at Camp Lewis, while the coast artillery has been assigned to Fort Stevens. Target practice and field firing will be featured at the year's encampment.

The state allows $1 a day for each enlisted man attending the encampment, while the remainder of the expense will be defrayed by the government. Until the federalization of the Oregon military units a few months ago it was necessary for the state to pay the entire expense connected with these encampments.

Murder Trial Set

Eugene, Ore., March 17—The second trial of Martin A. Clark charged with the murder of Charles L. Taylor near McKenzie bridge last July will be held early in April. The trial was to have been early this month, but court was adjourned on account of influenza.

Pioneer is Dead

Eugene, Ore., March 17—George Kintzley, one of the early residents of Springfield died there yesterday at the age of 80 years. Death was due to influenza and heart trouble. He was for many years prominent in the affairs of that town.

Candidate is Out

EUGENE, Ore., March 17—Seward D. Allen, a Eugene attorney has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for representative in the state legislature from Lane county. Mr. Allen says he is in favor of the education millage bill, but will work against many things that have come up during the past year or so that are tending to boost taxes. He declares that taxes are going so high that they promise soon to become ruinous.

Portland Man Arrested

LONDON, March 17—A dispatch to the London Times from Aho Finland, says that at a preliminary hearing and under cross-examination the man arrested in a coal bunker of a Finnish steamer bound for Sweden recently asserted that his name was John Reed, and declared that he was the editor of two news papers in Oregon.

Plumb Plan Attacked

HOOD RIVER, Ore., March 18—The Hood River Commercial club has adopted a resolution in condemnation of the Plumb bill and national ownership of railways. In their resolution the local club members praised Representatives McArthur of Portland for his energetic stand taken in opposition to the Plumb movement. Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to Oregon's congressional delegation.

Coroner Out Again

BAKER, Ore., March 18—Earl West has filed his petition as a candidate for nomination and re-election to the office of county coroner on the democratic ticket.

Crow Too Soon—

The senators so love the league covenant that they want to embrace it if they are first allowed to black its eyes and cut its heart out.

But President Wilson objects. Therefore, according to the Morning Oregonian, he prevents ratification. He becomes the villain in the plot. By standing on his head a man might believe that were it not for the fact authorities differ so widely—East Oregonian.

Women employed in the paper mills in Japan are paid from 15 to 27 cents a day.

TO DARKEN HAIR
APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
