W.S. HART
ARTCRAFT PICTURES

In "The Poppy Girl's Husband" which appears at the Globe Theatre tomorrow night William S. Hart dons his chaps and sombrero to play the role of a convict and denizen of the underworld. The tragic life of the notorious Barbary coast of the Bay City is depicted in the film with startling fidelity. The story is by the writer of the famous Boston Blackie stories and this character appears in the picture. It is a photoplay that will not soon be erased from the memory when once seen.
