Established in 1865. FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1913. New Conception of Statesmanship.

'The tax payers should not be compelled to pay $25,000 for a monument to any citizen, dead or alive. But if they must be taxed for monuments, let it be for Oregonians who are worthy of it.'

The above is in part a communication received by the Democrat from an anonymous writer who uses the non de plume 'Old Pioneer.'

Now there may be some excellent reasons why a statue should not be erected to the memory of Geo. H. Williams. We are not sufficiently familiar with the early history of the state to give an intelligent opinion on this question.

For no man in the state has the writer a greater admiration than for those who braved the hardships of a desert to make for themselves a home on the Pacific coast.

But on the other hand statesmanship can hardly be measured by the particular means of locomotion used in reaching Oregon.

From our point of view it is wholly immaterial whether Ex-Senator Williams crossed the plains in a Pullman, came by way of the Horn or behind the proverbial ox team.

But in this exceedingly practical twentieth century we care not how a man reaches a given point. What we do observe is the manner in which he conducts himself after he arrives at his destination.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN. The world does honor to Abraham Lincoln on the anniversary of his birth. No character in American history so fires the imagination or so appeals to the sober judgment of posterity as that of the plain, honest and fearless war-time president.

The funeral services of the late Peter R. Hundley, a well known Albany young man who died in this city at St. Mary's hospital early yesterday morning following an operation for appendicitis, were held at the First Christian church this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The services were attended by a large crowd of friends and relatives of the deceased, whose friendship was appreciated by his many friends in this city where he had been employed for many months.

Among those attending the services this afternoon was a large delegation of members of Willamette Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, of this city, of which the deceased was a member. The lodge members contributed a beautiful wreath in which the official color of the order, red, was the prominent feature.

Many other beautiful floral pieces were contributed by friends of the deceased and the grave was banked high with flowers, following interment at the City cemetery.

The funeral sermon which was delivered by Rev. F. W. Emerson of the First Christian church was a most impressive one and a splendid tribute to the deceased.
