

M. A. MILLER WAS HERE LAST NIGHT

Linn County Senator Talks of Duties of His New Federal Office.

COULD HAVE BEEN MEMBER OF DIPLOMATIC CORPS

When Income Tax Becomes Effective, Most Important Office
In State Says Appointee.

Arriving in Albany last night for the purpose of attending a meeting of the Masonic lodge, Senator M. A. Miller received congratulations from his Albany friends upon his confirmation as collector of internal revenue for Oregon, the appointment having yesterday been formally approved by the United States senate.

"I will leave for Portland next week," said Senator Miller to a Democrat representative, "and will assume my duties as soon as my bond is approved. I expect to discharge the duties of the office strictly in accordance with the law and will give the work my personal attention at all times. When the tariff bill passes and the income tax becomes effective, it will materially increase the duties of my new office. In fact it will be the most important federal office in the state. I much prefer this appointment to a position on the diplomatic corps for I can better keep in touch with the affairs of Oregon."

Senator Miller is a native of Linn county and has served for fourteen years as a member of the Oregon legislature. For eight years he held the office of national committeeman and was a delegate to three national conventions. In each convention he was a strong supporter of the candidacy of W. J. Bryan. He now holds a position as member of the board of regents of the State University and has always been interested in educational matters. For thirty years he has resided at Lebanon and has always been active in the political, business and social life of that city as well as in the politics of the entire state.

MOOSE HAS GREAT TIME AT ARNOLD'S CARNIVAL

Hundreds Were Arrested, Convicted and Fined for Various Offences.

"Howdy Pap" and then you were "cloughed in" as the term may be given, for last night was "Moose Night" at Arnold's Carnival and the Moose were everywhere and yet nowhere, that is if you can call jailed by that name, for just as soon as one of these gentlemen would come across with the accredited salute of "Howdy Pap," he was spotted and "cloughed in" until the jail, just a play one temporarily erected on the grounds, for the occasion, was brimming full of all kinds of Moose. Then the court was opened and in turn each of the prisoners were given a hearing and each one was convicted and fined on various charges. Here are some of the charges preferred against the prisoners: for being too fat, being a single man, being married, too small, low legged, having a smile that won't wear off, chewing tobacco, walking down the street with a lady, and one man was convicted and fined because he couldn't dress within five seconds. All of the offenders were fined from 50 cents to $5 which they gladly paid to be released. Over $150 was collected in fines.

The carnival will give its last performance here tonight. All the big free open air attractions will be given at the usual time.

SHEDD IS A TOWN OF MANY BACHELORS SAYS REPORT

The Shedd reporter's attention was called recently to an article in the Oregon Journal which stated that there are 35 widows in Halsey. This is a slight mistake as there are 39 widows in Halsey and we figure that there are about that many bachelors in Shedd. Would it not be expedient for Shedd and Halsey to hold a get-together meeting?—Halsey Enterprise.

COUNTY SUES TO ENJOIN ELECTION

Marion County Intervened Today by Suit to Suppress Olcott's Call.

GALLOWAY HELD ELEC- TION UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Estimated That It Would Cost
Linn County $4000; Will Save Counties $150,000.

Salem, Or., July 12.—(Special to Democrat).—Marion county today intervened in the suit brought by A. C. Libby to enjoin Secretary of State Olcott from calling the special election which the legislature ordered to be held this Fall to pass on the measures on which the referendum has been invoked. The county court and county clerk of Marion county filed the petition for intervention alleging that it will cost Marion county $10,000 to hold this election and that there is no authority of law for it.

It is claimed that even if the bill for the election should be held constitutional there is no provision whatever for Marion county or any other county of the state paying the judges and clerks of election. Judge Galloway granted the county's petition to intervene so this question as well as the question of the constitutionality of the law which was raised in Libby's suit, will go up to the supreme court for decision.

The case will probably come up in the supreme court next week and a decision as to whether or not the election will be held will probably be rendered soon. In passing on the case in the circuit court here Judge Galloway held the election unconstitutional and if the supreme court upholds his decision it will not be necessary to hold the election.

Linn county officers estimate that this proposed special election, if held, will cost Linn county at least $4000 and probably more in the direct expenses of the election to say nothing of the interruption of other county work and extra help in the county offices preparing for the election. Figuring the expenses here as the average for the counties of the state it will be seen that the counties of the state will save approximately $150,000 of Judge Galloway's decision is upheld in the supreme court and the special election avoided. Linn county has a larger population than the average county but many of the others are much larger in territory so their expenses would probably be as great so this is believed to be a conservative estimate of the expenses of the election.
