

E. W. LANGDON DIES AT HOSPITAL

Deceased Had Been in Poor Health for Months; Suffered from Heart Trouble.

RESCUED FROM RIVER BUT DIED FROM SHOCK

Former President of the First National Bank Had Large Circle of Friends Here.

In poor health and his mind temporarily unbalanced, E. W. Langdon, former president and cashier of the first national bank of this city, was rescued from the dock at the foot of Broadalbin street and attempted to drown himself in the Willamette river.

Gar Blyen, who was fishing on the dock when Langdon pulled off his coat and vest, ran up Broadalbin street and informed Waldo Anderson and E. P. Slate of Tangent that a man was attempting to drown himself. Anderson secured a rope and Slate jumped into the river, caught Langdon securely around the shoulders, and with the aid of the rope which had been thrown out by Anderson made the shore in safety. A quick call brought Dr. W. H. Davis and Dr. Russell Wallace to the scene, and the man was hurried to St. Mary's hospital. There the physicians worked over him for more than a half hour before the water was extracted from his lungs.

He finally regained the power of speech and was able to answer the few questions put to him by his attending physicians. For a time it was believed that he would recover but the shock was too much for his weakened system and he died of heart trouble this afternoon at 1:30 p. m.

Gar Blyen who was fishing on the dock at the time Mr. Langdon made his appearance, stated that the latter remarked, "This is a cold day to take a swim" and as he concluded the sentence proceeded to take off his coat and vest.

Waldo Anderson who talked with him on the way to the dock noticed that he was suffering either from mental excitement or physical pain.

It was at first reported that the deceased took a dose of poison while on the dock, but this was found upon examination of physicians to be erroneous.

The deceased had been failing in health for several months and recently returned from Newport where he went to regain his health. The news of his death came as a distinct shock to his large circle of friends in Albany. A more complete account of his life will appear in a later issue of the Democrat.

LOGANBERRY HARVEST IS NOW IN FULL BLAST

A Large Amount of Lucious Berries Are Being Handled Here; Driers Taxed.

Loganberry harvest is now in earnest and the driers are busy handling the large crop produced by the growers in this section. Although the price this year is not quite as high as it was last year it is good and the growers are quite optimistic over the chances for remuneration for their output.

According to an authoritative statement there will be several thousand pounds of dried berries to dispose of this year. Next year it is expected two times as much owing to the large amount which will come into bearing at that time.

G. H. Robinson Arrested Yesterday Charged with Pursuing 11 Year Old Girl.

HE MAKES EXPLANATION IN THE POLICE COURT

Judge Van Tassel Dismissed Matter After Hearing Statements.

Although he was arrested yesterday, charged with willfully pursuing and following one Kate Hastings, J. H. Robinson, after appearing before Police Judge Van Tassel, and giving reasons for his actions, was dismissed without having the charge filed against him.

Robinson was arrested yesterday afternoon near Lemke's store on West Ninth street, by Acting Chief of Police King, while in pursuit of the girl, whose age is given as 11 years, after a long chase through the city streets.

According to statements made in the police court by Robinson, it appears that he has been acting as guardian of the girl, while she was residing at his home. Robinson stated that he feared the girl has been careless in the care of herself and that she had disregarded the advice from him with regard to the company she should keep. He said that on several occasions she had falsely told him of going to care for a sick friend but that he later found out she was consorting with men. He said he was accountable to her mother for following her, that he was afraid she was running away.

As no complaint was registered by the girl and from statements made by Robinson in court, Police Judge Van Tassel decided to dismiss the matter and Robinson was released from custody.

Rev. E. G. O. Groat, the Baptist minister at Cottage Grove, who with his wife has been attending Chautauqua, left today for home. He expressed himself as being highly pleased with the program at Chautauqua and will do what he can to further the interests of the association in his locality.

Leonard Gross, baggagemaster at the Southern Pacific depot, went to Newport Sunday and after a day's stay with his family, who have been there for a couple of weeks, brought them home with him yesterday. They are delighted with the place and would like a permanent home there. They could have stayed longer this time but for the fact that Prentice Gross, stayed in the sea water too long and was so severely poisoned that his body and limbs swelled clear out of proportion.

NEW METHOD OF HANDLING DISOBEDIENT WIVES

Sheriff Gellately of Benton county passed through on the noon train with Mrs. Lulu Smith of Corvallis, who was committed to the Oregon training school for incorrigible girls, this morning at Corvallis.

Mrs. R. B. Richardson and Miss Anne Belle Richardson who have been guests for several weeks at the home of Attorney Elmer Richardson of this city, left today for Ontario, California, where the latter will accept a position in the public schools. The Crown Silo

One of the Best on the Market, Has All the Advantages a Silo Can Have

The Stave as Shown in the Cut is Superior to Any Other

Simplest, strongest, most perfect door and ladder. The door opens in the least space of any swing door. Constructed so that swelling or shrinking cannot cause the door to bind or admit the air. And is guaranteed not to fall or collapse.

The cost of this silo is small, compared with others, and gives the farmer and dairyman the cheapest and best feed to be had. It makes winter feeding more profitable than summer.

Prices are better in winter, cows give as much as summer, when fed silage, stock fatten without grain, saves grain or feed bills. Better and cheaper feed than kale, always ready to feed, no hauling in wet weather and cutting up your farm.
