Arrested this morning at the Southern Pacific depot charged with drunk-enness, Al McBride, a laborer, who halfs from Portland, was taken in cus-tody by Chief of Police King and lodged in the city jail.

McBride, who is a big raw bound fellow stoutly resisted the officer. When approached by Chief King be threw his large arms into the air, rear-threw his large arms into the air, rearing back in a drunken stagger, exclaiming: "You can't take me. I am —hic—some fellow" Just as the chief placed his hand on the giant's shoulder, one of the drunk's husky hands fell squarely on the officer's hat, causing a long crack in the brim. McBride had to be overpowered before he submitted to arrest.

McBride had purchased a ticket for Mill City and held a Portland employment agency certificate for work in that city. Despite his persistent efforts, the conductor of the Mill City train refused to allow McBride to board the train, resulting in Chief of Police King being called to the scene. When the prisoner sobers sufficiently to appear in the police court he will be arraigned before Police Judge Van Tassel. Van Tassel.

TRAVELING SCHOOL VISITS MANY CITIES

Extension Work of General Welfare and Agricultural Departments of O. A. C.

FIELD TAKES IN WIDE SCOPE OF TERRITORY

Two Schools Now on the Road; Sixteen O. A. C. Professors Conduct Them.

Corvallis, Or., Aug. 11.—The two traveling schools, general welfare and agricultural, now being conducted in the Willamette Valley by the exten-sion division of the Oregon Agricultural College, left Albany today on a six week's educational campaign throughout Oregon. The instructional force in these schools is composed of 16 O. A. C. professors, assisted by members of the state dairy and food commission, state grange and the Oregon Social Hygiene society, equipped with portable laboratories, demonstration and illustrative apparatus and material, the schools are carrying to the people of Oregon a valuable store of knowledge of the most approved methods of home and farm management. The state library commission, represented by its secretary, has also joined in the movement. And the Federated Women's clubs, through their president, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, have fully indersed the movement and are lending assistance to it.

The itinerary of the general welfare schools includes 18 cities and towns. There will be six programs in the two days' session in each place visited, made up of lectures— many of them illustrated—demonstrations and classroom discussions on the subject of home economics: lecture on hygiene by Secretary Cummins of the Oregon Social Hygiene society, and display of the exhibit which was a feature of the world conference in Portland; the exhibit of a model traveling library by Miss Marvin, including lists of books for home study courses: a series of lectures on the bacteriological features of household sanitation, disinfection and impurities in milk and water, by Prof. T. D. Beckwith; and tural College, left Albany today on a six week's educational campaign gical features of household sanitation, disinfection and impurities milk and water, by Prof. T. D. Beckwith; and illustrated evening lectures on land-scape gardening by Professor A. L. Peck. The work in home economics is of the most practical kind and its various phases will be discussed by Mrs. Lulie W. Robbins and Miss Edna Groves, of the O. A. C. domestic science staff, assisted by Professors Tartar, Brodie and Daughters. The schedule is as follows:

Ashland, August 11-12; Medford, 13-14; Grants Pass, 15-16; Roseburg, 18-19; Cottage Grove, 20-21; Eugene, 22-23; Indenendence, 25-26; Dallas, 77-28; McMinnville, 29-30; Newberg, Sentember, 1-2; Hilsboro, 3-4; The Dalles, 10-11; Pendleton, 12-13; La Grande, 15-16; Baker, 17-18; Huntington, 19-20.
