THE MUCH LIBELED DOG.

These lines are dedicated to the dog, faithful in his devotion to the human animal, a friend who never betrays and never forgets a kindness. In sickness and health, in prosperity and adversity his affection is the same. When others forsake the master, when he becomes a social and financial outcast, when misfortune frowns upon him and the human hypocrits who once called themselves his friends have turned their backs upon his poverty, the dog remains faithful to the end and his loyalty is only measured by his ability to serve.

He who has never known the boyhood joy of a dog's companionship, who has never turned to his canine playmate in hours of childhood distress and found both sympathy and comfort, has missed something in life which is really worth while. But he who has really enjoyed this privilege and who therefore knows, and can appreciate the pleasure it brings to the little folks must necessarily be a friend of dumb animals.

Ingratitude, lack of loyalty and false friendships are numbered among the unforgivable vices of the human family. They have caused more heartaches and sorrows than a hundred wars; yet the poor, maligned and much libeled dog has none of the frailties. He is more human than many of those who have been endowed by their creator with the shape and form of man.

If the Democrat were to rewrite a quotation from a well known author and make it applicable to present day conditions, it would read, "Man's inhumanity to animals should make a stronger and more lasting impression upon those who believe in dealing out exact justice to dumb brutes as well as to the human species."

SAVING SOULS IN NEW HAVEN

In the September Woman's Home Companion Ralph Waldo Trine writes an article on the "Value of a College Education" in which he says that the average college student has little or no sympathy for the unreal, the tedious of the questionable, and goes on to say:

"Things have got to be made vital. They must have the ring of the genuine. Many are familiar with the story that is often told at New Haven. A preacher was to address the student body in the chapel. Shortly before the appointed time he asked the president of the university whether the time for his address would be limited. 'Oh, no,' was the president's reply, 'speak as long as you like, but there is a tradition here at Yale chapel that no souls are saved after twenty minutes.'"

A GRUESOME CRAFT.

Strange craft have from time to time cast anchor in the calm waters of San Diego Harbor, California, says a writer in the September Wide World Magazine, but the strangest of all came to anchor when the Chinese ex-patriate, smuggler, slaver, and rebel junk, Ning Po (Peaceful Wave), after a long voyage across the Pacific, finally swung the tide on her cables. This ancient craft, with a dark and sanguinary record, and enveloped in the mystery of the Orient, is a hundred and sixty years old, having been built in the year 1753. It is constructed of oak, iron-wood, ebony, and other Oriental woods. At present it is a floating historical museum, and contains a gruesome collection of Chinese torture instruments, weapons, and devices as could be wished for such as starving cages, scolding-swords, bone-hooks, and the like. This ancient vessel was used in oppression at first, smuggler and slaver. She is equipped with several small cannons, mounted on tripods, that can be carried to any point on the ship. These curious pieces of ordnance are said to be two hundred years old. The masts of the vessel are of iron-wood, and local carpenters and mechanics were invited to come on board and try to penetrate them with augers and gimlets. The vessel's record is given as follows: 1753, built at Fu Chau, China; 1796, used in a revolt against Emperor Kea King (during this event over one hundred and fifty prisoners were beheaded at one time on the deck); 1836, seized for piracy and smuggling; 1814, set on fire; 1823, confiscated by Lord Napier for acting as a slaver and smuggler, and was later captured by "Chinese Gordon" in the Taiping Rebellion and driven ashore in a typhoon in 1861; 1864, took part in the Battle of Nanking; 1911, captured by the rebels at the Battle of Hankow, and in 1912 was once more wrecked by a typhoon. In the latter part of 1912 it was once more about and headed for the United States, where it arrived in the early part of 1913. It is difficult to say whether there is anywhere on the seven seas another craft afloat with so long and varied a record as that possessed by the junk now lying in San Diego Harbor.

CITY'S COMPLAINT IS HARD PRESSED

Gas People Attack Amended Complaint and Deny All Allegations.

ANSWER WAS FILED IN COURT THIS MORNING

Franchise Was Alleged Illegal Because It Was Passed at Same Session.

Filing an answer to an amended complaint instituted against them by the city of Albany, W. H. Goldrick and the Title Guaranty & Surety company, admit, deny and allege various allegations but pray that the amended complaint be dismissed and that they recover from the plaintiff, their costs and disbursements.

The case arose over the granting of gas franchise September 27, 1911, for which the defendants gave bond, which was declared forfeited after the alleged specified time, when the defendants failed to fulfill the obligations set up.

In their answer the defendants deny generally each and every allegation contained in the plaintiff's amended complaint but admit that the Title Guaranty & Surety Co. is a corporation under the laws of Pennsylvania.

It is alleged that the ordinance passed by the council granting the franchise is void, invalid and of no legal effect whatever, because it was passed at the same session of the council, which were held contrary to the statutes of the state of Oregon. It is further alleged that any acceptance of the ordinance or any bond given guaranteeing the performance of its provisions was an attempted acceptance and promise of an illegal paper. It is also alleged that various provisions of the franchise are in direct violation of the laws of the state which further makes it void, invalid and illegal.

Attorneys Chickering and Gregory and L. M. Curl represent the defendants.

Deputy County Clerk Russell was first rounded up and then County Judge McKnight was detained. The doctor was later intercepted and with the necessary certificate, Smith rushed up to the county court house where the license was issued at 7:30 o'clock. Then the couple went into Judge McKnight's office shortly afterwards where the nuptial knot was tied. G. W. Hawk, father of the bride made the affidavit for the couple.

HOTEL AT BELKNAP HOT SPRINGS SOON

Owner of Great Mountain Resort Announces Extensive Improvements.

EIGHTEEN NEW BATH ROOMS ARE TO BE BUILT

Lumber on Ground for Some of These Buildings to Be Erected Soon.

A new two-story hotel, a dancing pavilion, twenty cottages for the accommodation of campers and a new bath house containing eighteen rooms are the improvements planned at Belknop Springs, 61 miles east of Eugene on the upper McKenzie river, says the Eugene Guard.

Howard Hawk, of Portland, one of the owners of the resort, visited the springs last week and announced that these improvements will be made, the work to begin at once. Lumber for the buildings is now being sawed at a mill on the Yale place a mile from the springs.

A hotel is the one thing lacking at this resort to make it one of the most popular watering places on the Pacific Coast. Belknop Springs could easily rival Hot Springs, Ark., and other famous resorts of the country with the expenditure of a considerable sum of money in improvements and with the building of a railroad from Eugene. The camping grounds there are ideally situated. Nature seems to have had in mind a summer resort when it caused boiling hot water to gush forth from the mountain rocks at this place. It provided a level tract of several acres in extent just across the river from the springs, and it is on this flat that the camps and bath houses are situated and where the new hotel will be erected. A rustic bridge spans the river and connects the camping grounds with the springs. The hot water is also conveyed in troughs on this bridge from the springs to the bath house and the swimming pool.

Lumber is on the ground at the present time for the erection of the 20 cottages. Work on these structures will begin at once and they will be completed by the time the season opens next year. Another big improvement to be commenced this fall after the pleasure-seekers shall have left will be the erection of the new bath house to take the place of the old one which has been in use for many years. The new house will contain 18 rooms, all fitted with up-to-date sanitary tubs and other fixtures. This will be a great improvement over the present arrangement.

Manager Ernest Sloan also announces the immediate erection of a commodious dancing pavilion.

WANTS COURT TO MAKE AN ACCOUNTING OF PARTNERSHIP

A. B. Williams Files Charges Against Former Partner Charles McGougan.

Alleging that Charles McGougan has appropriated $5700, for his own personal use, belonging to a partnership between them, A. B. Williams has filed suit in the circuit court for an accounting.

According to the complaint, the two men entered into a partnership July 1, 1908, for the purpose of purchasing lands to plant orchards and other agricultural products. Each was the owner of an undivided one-half interest, both advancing money and performing services for the concern until April 13, 1912, when the partnership was dissolved. The concern was located at Medford.

The plaintiff asserts in the complaint that by an agreement between himself and the defendant, the latter was to collect in all money due the concern at the time of its dissolution. This it is claimed was done to the extent of approximately the above amount but it is charged that the defendant has failed to turn over the amount due the plaintiff. Attorneys Weatherford and Weatherford represent the plaintiff.

ADMINISTRATOR APPOINTED BY COUNTY COURT

County Judge McKnight this morning granted the petition of Seth Raistrick as administrator of the $350 estate of the late John R. Lee, who died in Portland about Aug. 12, 1913. At the time of his death, the home of the bereaved was in England but while here made his home with Raistrick at Brownsville. The only heir at law of the estate is William Lee, father of deceased, who is a resident of Bradford, England. The deceased is a nephew of the administrator's wife.

Clayton Cameron and wife have returned from an outing at Foley Springs.
