"BIG TIM'S" REPLY.

Asked how he liked his new duties as congressman by one of his close personal friends in the east side, the late Timothy Sullivan replied that, "a congressman in Washington is of about as much importance as a wooden Indian standing out in front of a cigar store."

The answer was characteristic of the Tammany leader and more than this, it was the exact truth.

There is but one exception to the rule that "a prophet is not without honor save in his own country," and that is when the prophet is fortunate enough to be elected a member of congress. Few congressmen obtain more than a passing glance from the old residents of Washington. All of them gain in dignity and importance when they cross their own state line. At home they are big men and referred to by their constituents as statesmen. In Washington they are mere members of congress.

"Big Tim" Sullivan was supreme on the east side. He was respected and admired. In Washington he was like scores of other congressmen, just a cog in the wheel of legislation, and a small cog at that.

CLEARING THE DECKS

Warning chauvinism was given a stimulus among "Progressive" leaders as well as followers in Salem this week, owing to the visit of Miss McCarpenter, national organizer of the "Progressive" forces. Miss McCarpenter was well received in Salem City, as are all others, whatever their mission. But to say that enthusiasm for the cause she espouses ran high, would be a misstatement of facts; for, if there was enthusiasm in the breasts of the one-time followers of Teddy, it was of the quiet variety and refused to make itself seen, heard or known. However, a club was organized, with Paul Wallace chairman of the nominating committee—whatever that may be—and Mr. F. J. Rupert as temporary chairman of the club which is scheduled to meet for permanent organization on October 1st. Some of the leading spirits in the movement favor placing a full state and county ticket in the field at the next election. This matter is expected to come up for consideration at the next meeting, or possibly at a later one after permanent organization is effected and the new club stands on solid ground and gets its bearings—Oregon Messenger.

SULLIVAN VS. LORIMER.

It was a splendid tribute which the Bowery yesterday paid to the late Timothy Sullivan of New York. There was genuine sorrow on the east side when the Tammany leader was laid to rest and the roses and chrysanthemums which covered the casket came from the hands of those who necessarily made a financial sacrifice to show this token of respect to the deceased.

The Democrat does not approve of the Sullivan brand of politics. We condemn the methods which have made Tammany Hall a political outlaw in national affairs, and the city of Albany a fine example of corrupt municipal government.

But while we condemn in no uncertain terms the Tammany organization we cannot refrain from making a comparison between "Big Tim" Sullivan, who is physically dead and one Ex-Senator Lorimer who is politically dead.

Sullivan gave a large portion of the spoils to his friends who helped him in his political battles. He clothed the naked, fed the hungry, administered to the sick and buried the dead among his devoted followers. He died a poor man but went to his grave with twenty thousand grateful men and women who expressed genuine sorrow at his untimely end.

Lorimer held a higher position. He was a member of the greatest deliberative body in the world, and served the corporations more effectively than did Sullivan. If he received a hundred thousand dollars for his services, he never gave a cent of it to the poor. He never brightened a home with Christmas cheer, never sent a physician to those who were in need of medical attention, or fed a small army of unemployed men who were crying for bread. Lorimer was a selfish type of politician. He made politics his business and declined to take his friends and supporters into partnership.

To our mind the Sullivan brand of politics was bad. The Lorimer brand was worse. The former was a slave to his personal ambition and the latter to greed. Sullivan displayed one of the rarest of virtues in politics—gratitude to those who made him. Lorimer used his friends to further his own selfish interests and gave nothing in return.

There are thousands of Lorimers in political life today. There are but few Timothy Sullivans outside of New York.

A WRONG CONCEPTION

Many of the papers which are condemning in no uncertain terms, the appearance of Secretary Bryan on the Chautauqua platform, pass over with little comment the startling revelations brought out by the congressional lobby inquiry. That members of the Senate and House have accepted retainers from the big interests, that the National Association of Manufacturers has for years maintained a paid lobby at the National Capital for no other purpose than to throttle legislation designed for the benefit of the common people and that the legislative branch of the government has been conducted in the interest of the tariff-protected trusts, is a matter of little concern to the same editorial writers.

Had Secretary Bryan accepted a retainer from a New York corporation instead of going on the Chautauqua program in order to meet the enormous expense of maintaining the dignity of his office, we presume that these same newspapermen would have little cause for complaint. Consistency has never been the distinguishing virtue of the critics of W. J. Bryan.

CHAMBERS & McCUNE STORE HELD BIG FASHION SHOW

Hundreds of matrons and misses, accompanied by husbands and beans, attended the "fall opening fashion show" at Chambers & McCune's big daylight ladies clothing store last night from 7 until 10 o'clock.

It was an auspicious and elaborate event. The interior of the big store was artistically decorated in various designs. Music during the evening was furnished by the Wilson orchestra.

An admirable array of every authoritative style of garment for fall and winter of 1913, selected only a week ago by Mr. Kragen, the New York buyer for Chambers & McCune, greeted the vast throngs and the management of the store is elated over the unprecedented success of the event.

WEAVER GETS CONTRACT TO CONSTRUCT SEWERS

Cluster Light Lamp Post Proposition Again Exploited Before Council.

Meeting last night, the city council opened bids for the construction of sewer and considered plans and specifications as presented by a Corvallis man for cement cluster light lamp posts.

The cluster light lamp post proposition came up some time ago. The Corvallis Concrete Co. submitted a proposition to the council at that time for the "city fathers" to go to Corvallis in a body and inspect the posts. This some of the councilmen did and it was to further exploit the proposition that the conference was held during the meetings last night. No definite action was taken.

In the matter of the construction of lateral sewers in blocks 54 and 43 in Hackelman's second addition, two bids were opened. One was from M. M. Bohm, at $481.76 and the second was from W. S. Weaver at $450. The latter was accepted.

W. A. Clement of Salem, is a business visitor in the city today.

Attorney J. Fred Yates, of Corvallis, is in the city today transacting business.

"DOG ORDINANCE" IS NOW AMENDED

"Fail to Restrain" Instead of "Knowingly Permit" Is Amendment Clause.

OWNERS ARE LIABLE AT ALL TIMES FOR DOG

Whether They "Know of Their Own Knowledge" Does Not Enter into Question.

Any person who shall "fail to restrain" instead of "knowingly permit" a dog to run at large within the city limits, is an amendment clause adopted by the council last night for the "dog ordinance," which makes it a misdemeanor for the running at large of dogs and places the owners liable to a fine of $10 to $25.

In other words, if the owner of a dog is arrested because his dog is running at large, he will have to suffer the consequences upon conviction in the police court, whether he knew of his own knowledge that the dog was at large but upon the fact that the dog belonging to him was at large and by the fact that he "failed to restrain."

This action on the part of the council is the result of the case the city recently lost to P. C. Anderson, when Police Judge Van Tassel ruled that the defendant was not guilty because he did not know of his own knowledge that the dog was running at large.

The title of the amendment to the ordinance as passed sometime ago by the council is as follows:

An ordinance to amend section 7, of ordinance No. 640, entitled "an ordinance prohibiting dogs from running at large within the city limits and providing for catching, impounding and killing such dogs as shall be found running at large contrary to this ordinance and providing a punishment for owners of dogs who permit dogs to run at large within the city," passed by the council May 14, 1913.

The amendment is as follows: Sec. 7. Any person who shall fail to restrain a dog owned by him or under his control from running at large within the city shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction before the recorder's court shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

The old ordinance reads as follows: Sec. 7. Any person who shall knowingly permit a dog owned by him or under his control to run at large within the city limits, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction before the recorder's court shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten nor more than twenty-five dollars.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed by the County Court of Linn County, Oregon, executor of the last will and testament of F. M. Furnish, deceased. All persons having claims against said estate are hereby required to present the same to me properly verified at the office of C. C. Bryant in Albany, Oregon, within six months from the date hereof.

Dated September 10, 1913.

CHAS. SMITH IS NOT CLEARED UP IN EUGENE

Sale of Automobile Squares Him Here But It Takes $1000 for Other Bills.

Eugene, Or., Sep. 16.—The Guard says:

But while the sale of this automobile clears up in Albany so far as his financial record is concerned, it does not straighten out his affairs in Eugene, for the check which he deposited here was not honored in California, so the checks he issued here for the purchase of the automobile and others aggregating it is said, close to $1000, have not been made good.

So shrewd was Smith in his preparations to avoid arrest that he almost bluffed his way to liberty when arrested at Woodburn. When arrested he gave a false name and told the officers to look at the license tag on his automobile and call up the secretary of state's office and verify it. This was done, and the name tallied. How he secured the tag is not known. This almost convinced the Woodburn officials they had the wrong man, but for the fact that just before he reached Woodburn his automobile scared the horses of a farmer who met him, resulting in a runaway, which demolished the wagon and injured the driver, causing the Woodburn officers to hold him on that ground.

HITCHING RACKS WERE INSTALLED ON LOT TODAY

F. M. Mitchell Was the First Farmer to Tie His Team to New Tying Post.

After clearing the lot at the corner of Second and Broadalbin street yesterday, Street Superintendent Glen M. Junkin, and the street department crew today installed a hitching rack row, consisting of several posts strung across the east side of the lot, connected by a long galvanized pipe.

This is the result of a desire on the part of the city council to secure a centrally located place to install hitching racks and drinking fountains for horses. Inasmuch as it will be sometime before the federal building is to be constructed on the lot, the matter of using the lot for this purpose was taken up with the local post office authorities, with the result that permission for its use was granted.

The first farmer who had the honor of tying his team to the rack this morning was F. M. Mitchell, a leading Linn county farmer and granger residing a few miles east of here.

FARM NEAR TALLMAN BRINGS $65 PER ACRE

Closing a deal yesterday, the Teahart Real Estate Co., sold to Tom Hayes, of Kelson, Washington, 137 acres belonging to C. A. Taylor, near Tallman, for $65 per acre, a consideration of $8900.

Mr. Hayes will immediately move his family here to make their home on the place. He will erect a handsome new house and improve the place generally. The new owner is a prominent man of Kelson. He will engage in farming on his purchase on a modern basis.

Mr. Taylor who has owned the place for many years, has had it rented out, while he engaged in the lumber business. He will continue in this business pursuit.

Miss Vera Axelrod visited friends at Independence over the week end. C. H. Ralston, of Lebanon, transacted business here yesterday afternoon.

W. C. T. U. HOLD BIG CONVENTION

Large Attendance of Linn County Women Attend Important Meeting at Plainview.

STATE WIDE PROHIBITION GETS VOTE OF MAJORITY

Interesting Papers Read and Questions of Interest to Temperance Movement Discussed.

The annual county convention of the W. C. T. U. was held at Plainview on September 11-12. Mrs. Madge J. Mears, county president was in charge. The attendance was large and the open-hearted hospitality of the Plainview people was taxed to the utmost to house the swarm of delegates.

The sessions were full of good things. On the first afternoon when the preliminary business was disposed of came a symposium on the topic: The W. C. T. U., (a) As a Moral Force; (b) As a Political Force; (c) As an Educational Force.

These phases of the organization were presented in a very able manner by Mrs. Peranoquin, Mrs. Todd and Miss Sutherland. Each speaker showed thoughtful preparation and each presented practical, helpful facts which were to the point and showed progressive alertness.

A paper by Mrs. Forbes on "Our Future Citizens" was fine. She outlined in a forceful way what our future citizens should be and what they might be if the parents and teachers did their whole duty in preparing the young for citizenship.

"Our Temperance Laws" were presented by Mrs. Henrietta Brown. Discussion followed and questions asked showed marked intelligence and an eagerness to become acquainted with both state and municipal laws, and also indicated that our women will not only use the right of suffrage but vote intelligently.

The evening was given over to a gold medal contest. Special music had been prepared and the orations were unusually well presented. Miss Morganson of Sheild won the medal with Miss Gibson of North Albany a close second, there being only a fraction in favor of the winner. The forenoon of the second day was taken up with business. Reports were made showing that the work is progressing. Harrisburg won the banner for the largest per cent of gain in membership. The officers elected for the coming year were: Mrs. Madge J. Mears, president; Mrs. Dora Davis, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alice Fletcher, recording secretary; Mrs. Otter Stratton, treasurer. All these are the old officers excepting Mrs. Stratton. They are efficient, true and tried and will lead the organization to new attainments.

In the afternoon "The Cigarette" was discussed by a representative from the Brownsville union, in an able manner and as a result of this discussion, something will be doing in the near future.

A paper by Mrs. Hammer on "The Bible in the Public Schools" was a splendid argument and plea for retaining the old Book in the schools of our land. A symposium on civics was interesting. Turbidity in the home, purity in the schools. Special stress was laid upon instilling into the minds of the children in the home, moral principles, also the kind and quality of the literature placed in the hands of the young as a means of safeguarding them against temptation.

A general discussion upon the question, "Are we ready for a state campaign against the liquor traffic in 1914?" followed. After a lively discussion, a majority favored launching the campaign. REPORTER.

Mrs. Fred Newton has returned to her home in Portland after visiting with her parents here.

Edward Schunke and wife, of Sallet, were in the city yesterday.
