- Batteries—Philadelphia, Plank and Lapp; New York, Mathewson and McLean.
- Snodgrass plays first base for Giants in place of Merkle.
- Baker given ovation by thousands of fans.
- Drizzling mist, stubbornly hung over Philadelphia during game.
- Estimated attendance is believed not to exceed thirty thousand.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—The New York Giants won the second game of the World's series by a score of three to nothing. Neither side scored up to the tenth inning. In this inning by timely hitting and an error by Philadelphia, three Giants scored.

By Hal Sheridan.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Despite a misty drizzle which soaked through to the skin, four thousand waited all night, outside of Shibe Park, indicating that another crowd of forty thousand would witness the second game of the World's series here today. At eight o'clock five thousand were in line.

At 11 o'clock the drizzle set in again. The prediction of the weather bureau, says that it will continue but it probably wouldn't rain enough to prevent the game.

First baseman Merkle, who twisted his ankle in yesterday's game, was unable to stand on his foot this morning and will be out of the game today, and probably for the remainder of the series.

At 11 o'clock the gates of Shibe park were still closed, with eight thousand awaiting in line on the outside.

At noon the mist again appeared. A light breeze eliminated the chilly air.

At twelve twenty o'clock the gates were opened and thousands of fans filed in. The field is heavy and the base lines appeared muddy.

Hundreds are perched on the bleachers overlooking the grounds.

The Athletics appeared on the grounds at one o'clock and the Giants followed a few minutes later. Baker, who made the home run in yesterday's game at New York, for Philadelphia, was loudly cheered. Johnson, the Washington twirler, was presented with an automobile before the game for being the most valuable player of the American league.

At 1:30 o'clock the stands were filling rapidly and the bleachers are packed. It is not believed that the crowd will exceed thirty thousand.

Snodgrass played first base for New York, because of Merkle's inability. The batteries were Plank and Lapp, for the Athletics and Mathewson and McLean for the Giants.

Score by innings: R H E
New York 0000000003-0 8 2
Phila 0000000000-3 7 2

Both pitchers worked throughout the game, and their work was of high order.

BANKERS IN CONVENTION OPPOSE CURRENCY BILL

By Alfred C. Schmitt.
Boston, Mass., Oct. 8.—(Special to Democrat)—With four thousand delegates present, the American Bankers' association met here Monday and yesterday in sections.

Interest in the pending currency bill is keen. One thousand country bankers in special session protested against the bill. A delegation of one banker from each state is to appear before the senate committee for the purpose of asking the modification. Yesterday the federal director of the postal savings system addressed the convention interestingly.

Boston is a delightful place and is a generous host.

Dever's Memorandum of Lebanon is in the city today.

Mrs. Jane Miller and daughter, Mrs. Bilson came in this morning from Lebanon to do some shopping and renew her subscription to the Democrat.

RUSSIAN PLACED ON TRIAL FOR RITUAL MURDER

Big Case Opened Today With Every Seat in Large Court Room Occupied.

Kieff, Oct. 8.—After lying in jail for two years and a half, Mendel Bellis was placed on trial today in the criminal section of the Kieff District court for "ritual murder." On account of the extraordinary interest the case has attracted throughout Europe, the courtroom was packed by a cosmopolitan throng when Judge Boldyreff and his associates mounted the bench and began the empanelling of a jury. The regular venire for the court term from which the jury was chosen consisted of four men with a university education, fourteen with an intermediate or elementary education, fifteen who have not attended any school, but who have received some domestic education, and three who are quite illiterate. More than 200 newspapermen, from various countries, had previously applied for seats, but so great was the demand made by the friends of both local and St. Petersburg officials that many of the correspondents had to stand in the back room, and some, although holding tickets, failed altogether of admission. Conspicuous among the reporters was a personal representative of M. Stehlovitoff, minister of justice, who had been instructed to wire a running detail account of the proceedings to his chief in St. Petersburg. From the inception of the case the ministry of justice had carefully directed the activities of the local prosecutors, Brandorf and Chapinsky, and it was with the full approval of the central government that the charge of "ritual murder" was made in the original indictment.

Ever since the morning of April 1, 1911, when the mutilated body of Andrei Muschinsky, a 12-year-old Christian boy, was found in an abandoned brick yard just outside Kieff the prosecution has been endeavoring to establish the theory that he was slain in accordance with an alleged Jewish rite prescribed by the Talmud, so that his blood might be used in making passover bread. For centuries the rumor and superstitions of Jew-haters of Russia have clung to the belief that this "rite" is regularly practiced by the Jewish race, and the government has apparently done all that it could to foster this idea. M. Krasovsky, chief of the Kieff detective department, was actually instructed to proceed on the theory that the crime was the work of Jews, although the only possible pretext for the "ritual" charge was that the boy's body bore 47 stab wounds. According to current superstition, the "ritual murder" is accomplished by 45 wounds. He could obtain absolute proof of evidence along the required line, but on the contrary believed he had traced the murder to a gang of thieves to which neighbors of the boy's family belonged and who were known to be fearful that Muschinsky would betray them to the authorities. He secured evidence that one of the thieves was seen with a child shortly before the murder and that this individual, covered with blood, was found by two boys near the brick-kiln afterwards. The boys, upon orders of the thief, threw it into a sewer.

LINN COUNTY COUNCIL HELD MEETING SATURDAY

(Communicated)
The Linn County Council, Patron of Husbandry met last Saturday with Grand Prairie grange No. 10 and held a very interesting session.

Hon. J. H. Scott, president of the Council filled the chair. C. H. Wilcox acted as secretary pro tem.

Owing to the continued press of farm work the attendance was not up to expectations, but the session was marked with much enthusiasm. Cooperation among farmers in buying and selling was earnestly advocated by a number of speakers, among them R. Palmer and wife of Woodlawn grange, Multnomah county.

The time was considered propitious for some radical action looking to organization among farmers to act in self defense and protect themselves from the organized interests that are exploiting themselves at the farmers' expense.

There is something radically wrong when the farmer receives less than one-half the price the consumer has to pay for his products. The grange doctrine is for the producer to receive a good return for his labor and the consumer to purchase his products at the lowest possible cost after it leaves the farmer's hands.

The grange as the leading farmers' organization and the only one of a national character is willing to abide by the motto "live and let live."

The next meeting of the Council will be Saturday, November 1st, at 10 a. m. with Harmony grange in its new hall near Crahbree.

From the generous praise given the council by several of the older members for its grand work during the past 40 years, a large attendance is expected should the weather be favorable. The "stand-patners" say the Council has not outlived its usefulness and having faith with the Linn county Farmers there will be some thing doing to place Linn county in the front rank of organized effort among the farmers of Oregon and perhaps accomplish a united Northwest for the benefit of the hardy tillers of the soil.

TO VOTE ONLY 172 HAVE REGISTERED

Yesterday Was Largest Day for Registration When 54 Became Qualified.

ONLY SIXTEEN SIGNED UP THIS FORENOON

Not Coming in Fast Enough Says Van Tassel; Ought to Be Average of 75 a Day.

One hundred and seventy-two have registered for the coming city election up until noon today.

Yesterday fifty-four registered and this afternoon, Registration Clerk Washburn stated that only sixteen had registered.

Up until yesterday morning only one hundred and two had registered and since then there has been an increase in the registration of seventy.

"They are not coming fast enough," said Recorder Van Tassel this morning. "We should have an average of 75 registrations a day to have a representative vote in the coming city election."

That interest has increased is indicated by the registration yesterday the number being the largest of any day since the books were opened on the second day of the month.

Several women were among those who registered this morning and it also appears that the women are beginning to register faster.

The books will close on November 22 and Recorder Van Tassel estimates that with an average registration of 75 per day from this date until the close, that practically all of the eligible voters will have registered. This will make the number something over 300.

It must be borne in mind that to vote, means that an elector must be registered. Under the new order of things, they cannot be sworn in at the polls, unless the supreme court should hold compulsory registration invalid.

CITY NEWS

A Mistake Corrected.—It was the Brass and Brown Musical Comedy company which has been showing at the Rolfe and not the Frank Rich Company. The latter will show at the High on October 9th, 10th and 11th.

Gets Account of Game.—The Home Telephone Co. receives the score of the World's series baseball game over the wire from Portland by innings and the dope is sent to the Whitaker cigar store, where it is posted on a big score card. This system of reporting the game will continue throughout the series.

Weather Fair.—The range of temperature for 24 hours ending at 8 o'clock this morning was 45 to 58 degrees. The river is at 3.4 feet this morning. The rainfall for 24 hours past has been .05 inches. The weather report says fair for today and tomorrow.

Delivery Team Bolted.—Yesterday afternoon one of the delivery teams of Scott & Conn, of East Albany, broke and ran down Main south to Fourth, scattering packages along the way. At one place a man waived his arms in front of them causing them to stop; he lowered his arms whereupon they again bolted. The driver ran after and succeeded in climbing into the back of the wagon and stopping them.

Erects New Residence.—F. M. Arnold of the J. W. Cusick & Co. bank yesterday purchased a lot from Sam Worrell on Eighth street and has already commenced the erection of a new bungalow on his property.

Applies to Finley for Opinion.—When a bid of 18 applied to County Clerk Marks this afternoon for a little license, the clerk deferred the issuance of the license until he could get an opinion from State Game Warden Finley, upon the grounds that the young fellow's father was an alien, although holding papers of declaration of intention. Under the game law an alien cannot be issued a game license unless he had applied for a $25 state and license or unless he has declared his intention to become a citizen. The question that arose was whether the license could be issued to the boy, in view of the fact that he will be naturalized before becoming of age when his father is granted second naturalization in the near future.

CLAIMS HUSBAND THREW CLOTHES OUT OF WINDOW

Bertha Hale Brings Suit for Divorce Against Lawson C. Hale.

Charging that her husband is a habitual drunkard and that as such he has abused her and threw her clothes out of a window, Bertha M. Hale has filed suit for divorce against Lawson C. Hale. The couple were married on October 6, 1901. According to the complaint the defendant has been and ill treated the plaintiff in various ways and she claims her husband has often falsely accused her of being intimate with other men. The plaintiff claims that on a night in August, 1912, the defendant dragged her out of bed by the hair and threw her clothes out of the window. She claims she then deserted him. W. R. Olven represents the plaintiff.

WOMANS CLUB HAS STOCK IN CHAUTAUQUA ASSOCIATION

That the Shakespeare, one of Albany's leading literary organizations, is the first and only similar club in the city to acquire stock in the Albany Chautauqua association, was the statement of Mrs. F. G. Franklin, yesterday evening.

Mrs. Franklin is the leader of the club. She said that the club purchased one share of the Chautauqua association stock some time ago. The Shakespeare club is strictly a literary organization and is composed of leading matrons of the city. Although a club of study, the Shakespeare club nurses civic pride to some extent and its members are never reluctant to assist in any way possible towards civic betterment.

H. F. Swartout and wife of Lyons, were in the city yesterday afternoon. Olven represents the plaintiff.
