You may play your concertinas and your fiddles and your flutes, with your trumpets or your bugles you may fill the air with toots; you may organize a chorus of a thousand voices; sweet, you may charter Mary Gardner (and folks say she can't be beat); you may play the loud piano till your neighbors stand aloof, but there is no music sweeter than the rain upon the roof. When the earth has scorched and shriveled in a dreary, drastic drought, when the grass and leaves have withered in strobos from the south, when the sun for weeks together has been sizzling in its grease, and for weary, roasted mortals there was neither rest nor peace, when the countryside is blistered, and all blistered is the town, then there is no music sweeter than the rain descending down! I can hear splash and patter on the shingles o'er my head, bringing hope to all things living, bringing life to some things dead; like a saint's benediction it is coming in the night, and the world will wake tomorrow in a glow of new delight; though the stars may sing together as they sang o'er Judah's plain, they can give no sweeter music than the falling of the rain.—Walt Mason.

There is something wrong. The new tariff doesn't seem to bring any gloom to the Democrats.

The Pennsylvania miner, who was entombed more than seven days, seems to be a pretty decent sort of fellow. Up to date there is no intimation that he has signed with any chauntiqua or lecture course. In Pennsylvania, recently a poker player got slashed up when he held ace. He must have been new to the game.

There is some satisfaction in being deaf. The deaf may miss a lot of good music, but he dodges a whole lot of hot air.

One of the new catch-as-catch-can is called "the kitchen sink." The next one will probably be the "corner sewer."

It is predicted that mutton will soon replace beef on our tables. Doesn't that put a wooly taste in your mouth?

JUST A MAN

It is a great distinction and a great honor to be a President of the United States; but it is still greater to be a real man. Woodrow Wilson is both. A few days ago an automobile in which the President was riding ran down a bicycle injuring a messenger boy who was riding the wheel. The wheel was demolished and the boy considerably bruised, sent to the hospital. Since the lad has been confined to a cot in the hospital the President has visited his bedside and chatted with him as he would have done with some intimate friend.

Now, someone may say there is nothing remarkable about this, and there isn't. It was nothing more, than the President of the United States ought to have done. We all have been touched by the pretty stories of kings, queens and other dignitaries who are looked upon as something extraordinary, doing the same thing, sometimes even leaving a purse for the man, woman or child hurt by their carriage or automobile. These accidents have often been woven into beautiful stories, and after reading them we may have looked upon the king, queen or good princess as a sort of Divinity to be worshipped. But when the President's automobile hits a messenger boy on a bicycle we expect the President to apologize and do the right thing by the injured party just the same as if the President were a real estate dealer or an insurance agent. And when the President makes a trip to the hospital and sits down and chats with the injured one, nobody has a fit over it or uses the incident for a foundation of a novel. We all look upon our Presidents as public servants, and do not expect any snobbery or unusual "highness" about them. So, in this matter President Wilson did only what he would have done before he became the first man of the Nation—did what any man big enough to be President would have done. The doing of little, simple things shows greatness in men as much as the accomplishment of great things, especially when done as a plain duty free from show and ostentation.—Oregon Messenger.

Oregon has the best agricultural college on the Pacific coast. It should have the best state university, but it can't expect to build up a great institution of learning at Eugene without giving the board of regents proper financial support. It is poor economy to deny the university funds which are necessary to its proper development.

Unless all signs fail, President Huerta of Mexico will fold his tent like the Arabs and silently steal away.

A few years ago the fashionably gowned women had a waist line no larger in circumference than a cigar band. The same woman nowadays looks as if she would encounter no little difficulty in crawling into a buggy tire.

A good many of the local business men would raise no serious objection if the names of Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck could be found on some of the innumerable subscription papers which have been circulated in a business section during the past few months.

If you are looking for a quiet, peaceful and unprofitable business career, don't advertise.

There ought to be thirty days open season for the members of the legislature who passed that fool law requiring hunters to determine the sex of Chinese pheasants before commencing the bombardment.

Well the currency bill wasn't proposed merely for the purpose of pleasing the bankers anyway. The Wilson administration is more interested in pleasing the common every-day citizen, than the big financial interests which have heretofore dominated legislation at the national capital.

CITY NEWS.

Scio Resident Here.—William Wilson, a prominent resident of near Scio, transacted business here today. While in the city he made declaration of intention to become an American citizen before Deputy County Clerk R. M. Russell.

Case Is Continued.—Bert Gainer, a Lebanon lad, who was arrested on a charge of violating the automobile cut-out ordinance, was arraigned in the police court this morning and Judge Van Tassel continued the case indefinitely. Gainer was not speeding his auto prior to his arrest by the officers and was ignorant of the ordinance which prohibits the running of automobiles with cut-outs open.

Remains Shipped to Corvallis.—The remains of the late Jessie B. Irvine, one of the best known residents of Corvallis, passed through the city this morning en route to Corvallis. Mr. Irvine died Sunday morning at Ashland. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, Dr. J. R. N. Bell officiating. Interment is to be in the Crystal Lake cemetery, the Masonic orders conducting the services.

Griggs, of Portland, arrived in the city from Albany on the early morning train and left for the J. H. Hammett farm west of town where they will spend the day hunting pheasants.—Corvallis Republican.

Is Guest at Reception.—Mrs. Frank Brown and son Keith and Mrs. Edward Tillingshast, were over Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. J. H. Robnett at Albany, returning to Salem Monday evening. During her stop at Albany Mrs. Tillingshast was a guest at a reception given by Mrs. Robnett honoring Mrs. Frank Down also of Salem, who left Albany Monday for her winter home in California. Mrs. Down had been the guest of Mrs. Robnett for several days.—Salem Statesman.

Enters Oregon Agricultural College.—Harold Archibald, a graduate of Albany high school and who has quite a reputation both as tackle and back field man, entered college last week and will try for a place on the Varsity squad. He is heavier than any man on the squad except Laythe of the first team and Graham of the second team. If he lands with the squad Linn county will be represented by four men who have good prospects for making their monogram this year. Abraham and Anderson are already fixtures, and Most of Lebanon, although he has not been in uniform for some time on account of a sprained arm, seems to be of Varsity caliber.—Corvallis Republican.

ALBANY WOULD STAGE BIG GAME

Commercial Club Willing to Pay All Expenses for 5 Per Cent of Gate Receipts.

PROPOSITION IS TO BE SUBMITTED IMMEDIATELY

Merchants Will Say When Excursion Trains Are to Arrive and Depart.

Whether the big football game between the U. of O. and O. A. C. will be played here on November 8, will be decided by tomorrow or next day.

Here for the purpose of sizing up the situation, Graduate Manager Dean Walker, of Oregon and Dr. E. J. Stewart, director of athletics at the college, yesterday afternoon surveyed the grounds and met informally with Billy Eagles, who successfully arranged the details for staging the game here last year, to discuss the proposition. The result was that the football men want Albany to place the football field in first class order, construct and guarantee bleachers for a seating capacity of 8000, exclusive of cost to either school, but they will grant to the business men of the city the right to say what time the excursion trains should arrive and depart from the city. Thirdly it is probable that the city will be called upon to stand the expense of about $300 for renting the field, aside from placing it in the desired order.

The matter taken up at the meeting of the Commercial club last night, resulted in the appointment of a committee to present the proposition of the city. It is for five per cent of the gate receipts, and an agreement to make up the balance of the expense, through soliciting funds from the business men. This proposition is to be made to the football managers without delay.

In the event the proposition is not accepted, the probabilities are that an effort will be made to stage the game in Portland. Manager Walker is strong for Eugene and Dr. Stewart wants the game played in the Rose City. There is a question, it is said, whether the game will be played at all unless at Albany.

The committee in charge of the matter here is William Eagles, chairman, Dr. H. J. Kavanaugh and C. H. Stewart. It is the plan of this committee to proceed at once to ascertain the attitude of the business men towards donating funds for the carrying out of the proposition as outlined.

Born.—To Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Duddall, last night, twin boys. Mother and sons doing nicely.

E. A. Johnson went to Tangent this noon to attend business matters.
