

MAYOR P. D. GILBERT SCORES THE COURTS

Delivers Warm Address to the Council Condemning Slow Methods in Vogue.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE AND CITY COUNCIL DISCUSS "PIGS"

Public Dancing in Albany Also Given Severe Grilling by City Fathers.

"Our courts are a frost and I don't think much of them," said Mayor Gilbert...

"The system here is rotten," said Mayor Gilbert. "We arrest blind piggers..."

"It is no encouragement to the local police to arrest the same man over and over..."

"These slow and dilatory methods of the courts are an injustice to the city of Albany..."

"There are some men who have been indicted five times and still nothing has been so far accomplished..."

Councilman Lyons stated that he also condemned the methods of the courts and said: "I believe that a public protest should be sent..."

Councilman John H. Simpson, who first broached the subject of increased traffic in liquor here, said: "I have been informed that the liquor traffic is on the increase in this city..."

Chief of Police Daugherty, who was present at the meeting of the council, arose and said: "Yes, there are plenty of 'blind pigs' in the city..."

"If I raid the joints and confiscate the booze I find there, the 'boot-leggers' start legal proceedings against me..."

The offense for carrying a revolver should be so severe as to make man scratch his head a dozen times before doing it.

After having the picnics rained on Albany is certainly entitled to a good day on the 4th.

Being chairman of the Chautauqua grounds committee might be worse. A great many little picnic parties are held on the grounds...

The coming Chautauqua play ground for children will have the merit of being an entirely made-in-Albany affair.

Councilman Hulbert arose and addressed the council concerning public dances in this city, and said: "I have been informed that public dances are being held at Bussard's hall..."

BRYAN FORCES RECORD VOTE AGAINST SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

(Special to Evening Democrat.) Baltimore, June 28.—Declaring that the year 1912 is a crisis in the career of the democratic party...

The ten votes of the Oregon delegation were cast for Wilson. The eight votes from Washington, ten from Montana and eight from Idaho were cast for Champ Clark.

Close political observers here are of the opinion that the convention fight will be long drawn out, with little prospect of selecting the nominee today.

At 7:20 this morning the convention adjourned until 4 p. m. at which time another ballot will be taken.

A 11 o'clock last night Oscar Underwood of Alabama was placed in nomination by Senator Bankhead and at the conclusion of the nominating speech the Underwood delegates started a demonstration for their favorite.

Senator Reed was then recognized by the chair and placed in nomination Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri. The mention of Speaker Clark's name brought forth a tremendous ovation which lasted sixty minutes.

Henry Wade Rogers of New Haven took the platform and placed in nomination Governor Baldwin of Connecticut.

The nomination of Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was the signal for another wild demonstration in favor of the New Jersey governor.

Marshall and Harmon were duly placed in nomination and the convention proceeded to ballot.

The vote by states: Alabama—Underwood 4. Arizona—Clark 6.

Let everybody boost the Chautauqua, whose assembly is Albany's red letter annual event. The program this year is not surpassed in the Northwest.

All the children should buy Chautauqua tickets also. It is an educator, as well as a place of amusement.

The Chautauqua is fortunate in securing Dr. Hinson, of the White Temple, Portland, as the Bible instructor. He is an able man, clean and conscientious, one who does not fly off on every tangent.

You are helping the world when you help some one to be good.

After having the picnics rained on Albany is certainly entitled to a good day on the 4th.

CAPTAIN FRANK C. STELLMACHER WRITES ABOUT SPANISH WAR VETS

In view of the approaching encampment of the Department of Oregon which convenes in Albany tomorrow, it may not be amiss to state a few facts in regard to the order and what the organization has accomplished and what the membership of that organization stands for in a public and civil capacity in the state and nation.

Shortly after the close of the Spanish-American war and after the muster out of the soldiers enlisted for that war, there seemed to be a necessity that those who had gone through the trials of service in the tropics and in other places where the authority of the government determined they could best be used. Form an organization for their own mutual comradeship and for the relief and benefit of those who might be in need and in organization the better to promote the interests of those who had been enlisted during the days when the country was face to face with the actual need of more fighting men than the standing army of the nation afforded.

The order has ideals and they center around the idea that there are greater opportunities for real service during the times of peace than in the charge of troops on the battlefield or in the silent vigils of the night. The soldier's work was not done when he stacked arms. For instance those who clung to the firing line or suffered in the fever camps of the tropics, the times are richer for service than when war's alarms shook the Antilles or the Orient.

Today a close inspection of what the veterans of the Spanish-American war are doing will reveal that they are today occupying the foremost positions in the work of bettering the citizenship of the land and in endeavoring to give to the rising generation a keener appreciation of what patriotism is and how the country can best be served in the quiet walks of everyday life. There are sixteen veterans in Congress serving the nation and they have stood for the rank and file of the citizenship of the nation.

The real motto of the United Spanish War Veterans' organization is "to encourage honor and purity in public affairs."

In regard to war many are inclined to the belief that the service of the days of '98 and '02 were mere picnic days and contained none of the hardships of service. This can easily be dissipated when statistics prove that four hundred thousand of the youth and manhood of the nation saw service in their fever-stricken camps of the South, the islands of the tropical seas, or in the Oriental archipelago. Almost 100,000 followed the colors in the Philippines. That conflict was marked by 826 skirmishes and battles. The mortality of all the campaigns was 12,000 lives. For the first time in history the American soldier fought in the tropics and in the Orient.

The write of the above is indebted to an article written by Past Commander Maurice Simmons of New York for much of the information contained in the above article.
