FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1912.

The "Angel" of 1912.

If the sworn testimony of Edmund D. Randolph, treasurer of the New York Life Insurance company, is to be believed, Mr. George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the so-called progressive party, is a liability rather than an asset.

The treasurer of the New York Life has testified under oath that Perkins reimbursed himself from the treasury of the New York Life in the sum of $48,702.50 for money contributed to the Roosevelt campaign in 1904.

If Randolph told the truth, whom did Perkins represent? Did he not represent his former partner, Mr. J. P. Morgan, and the powerful New York Life Insurance company and its allied interests? Did not the large financial interests believe Mr. Roosevelt an ideal candidate in 1904 and does not the activity of this self-same Perkins indicate that the same interests are supporting the Colonel in this year of our Lord 1912?

Has Mr. Roosevelt forgotten that Mr. Perkins formerly served as chairman of the finance committee of the Harvester Trust? Has he forgotten those Perkins indictments? Has he forgotten his former close business relations with Morgan and the other high financiers of Wall Street?

If Roosevelt is a genuine progressive; if he is sincere in his opposition to monopoly; if he is a real friend of the plain people, would he not be in a better position had he repudiated Perkins, instead of selecting him as chairman of the most important committee in the gift of the new party?

The Dean of Progressive Republicanism.

There lives in the state of Wisconsin a man of whom the citizens of any state might feel justly proud; a man whose honesty has never been questioned and whose loyalty to the progressive cause has never been successfully disputed; a man who has never accepted a dollar of tainted money from a corporation and never turned a crooked trick in order to further his own political interests; a man who has not only preached against special privilege but who has put his ideas into practical operation; a man who has never surrendered a principle above party and the MAN above the dollar.

We refer to Senator Robert M. LaFollette, the dean of progressive republicanism.

The Party Death Warrant.

Drafted in the interest of monopoly and passed over the protest of every well posted consumer in America, the Payne-Aldrich tariff is a monument to organized greed and a reflection upon every member of congress who recorded his vote in the affirmative. It is a corporation bill from genesis to revelations and its provisions could hardly be more objectionable had they been dictated by Rockefeller and Morgan.

Every section of the new tariff law is reeking in discriminations against the poor and favoritism to the rich.

The cheap woolen blankets which are used by the poor, bear a duty of 165.42 per cent while the more expensive blankets which are used by the rich, bear a duty of 104.55 per cent.

Hats and bonnets worth not over $5.00 per dozen bear a duty of 62 per cent, while the same articles of wearing apparel which are worth $20.00 per dozen only carry a duty of 35 per cent.

Cheap matting carries a duty of 43 per cent while the high priced matting enters the American ports with a duty of only 24 per cent.

We have given but a few illustrations of the injustice which is done to the man of moderate means by this new tariff law, which President Taft has characterized as "the best law ever enacted by an American Congress."

Is it any wonder that trusts have flourished? Is it any wonder that the rich are growing steadily richer and the poor are growing steadily poorer? Is it any wonder that millions of consumers who have heretofore affiliated with the republican party are turning this year to Governor Wilson and democracy?

When a republican congress and a republican president put the seal of approval on the Payne-Aldrich tariff they signed the death-warrant of their party; they lighted the fuse of popular disapproval and the explosion is due on November 4th, 1912.

A New Oregon Office.

The proposed constitutional amendment providing for the creation of the office of Lieutenant Governor should, in our judgment, meet with the approval of the majority of the qualified electors.

The proposed amendment defines the duties and powers of the Lieutenant-Governor and provides an orderly and businesslike succession to the governorship in the event of death, removal or resignation of the Chief Executive, and this is done at an additional cost of only two hundred dollars biennially.

The present system of succession to the Governorship is without precedent and is far too cumbersome for a great state like Oregon.

That Halsey is rapidly coming to the front as a progressive and wide-awake community was made apparent by the announcement yesterday that the Halsey Enterprise, the first newspaper ever published in that city, will be issued next week.

D. E. Dean, the editor and publisher of the new paper, is a well known newspaper man who formerly edited the Cottage Grove Leader and the Cottage Grove Herald and given the support he deserves to the recipients of Halsey will no doubt be an important factor in the commercial and social life of that thriving Linn county town.

The new press to be used by the Enterprise arrived in Halsey a few days ago and the first issue will probably appear on Friday of next week.

We Decline With Thanks.

The editor of the Democrat begs to acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to act as a member of the Roosevelt reception committee at the Progressive Republican meeting which will be held in Portland on September 11th. The invitation comes from Dr. H. W. Coe, chairman of the committee on arrangements, and carries with it the reservation of a seat on the platform.

While appreciating the high and unsolicited honor which the chairman of this committee would confer upon us, we are forced to decline the invitation with thanks.

It is no small honor to occupy a seat on the same platform with an ex-president of the United States, or to serve as a member of a committee entrusted with the work of tendering a reception in keeping with the dignity of the office which he once occupied, and were it not for certain well defined ideas which we both privately and publicly entertain as to Mr. Roosevelt's qualifications for the office to which he now aspires, we should be very glad indeed to accept the kind invitation of the learned Portland doctor.

In publicly declining an honor, which has doubtless been conferred upon hundreds of other Oregonians, we desire to assure the committee that the meeting will be none the less enthusiastic or the reception none the less cordial because of the absence of the writer. We could not join in the cheering or wave the now famous bandana without first entering a plea of guilty to the charge of being a hypocrite, and that is one vice which the editor of this publication has never acquired.

If the Colonel is to receive a

SOCIETY.

The W. C. T. U. held a rally day on Tuesday of this week which was a very pleasant affair. Mrs. O. A. Archibald presented "Purity in Literature and Art." She discussed the literature of the day, the moving picture schools and the post-card system. Much of good was found in each, she thought, but unfortunately there is much that is evil. The growing demand for sensational stories and pictures was deplored as they were considered detrimental to the morals of the young especially. A discussion followed, participated in by a number of ladies, making the meeting one of profit. A watermelon feast closed an enjoyable afternoon.

Miss Hazel Kader of Medford is the house guest of Miss Elsie Bain and Gertrude Taylor for the week. After the conclusion of her visit here, she will leave for Eugene where she will attend the university.

On Sept. 1, 1912, at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tyler, East Kirk avenue, Brownsville, Oregon, occurred the marriage of Mr. W. C. Elmore and Miss Benlah E. Tyler. Promptly at 8:30, intimate friends and relatives having assembled, the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. P. Elmore, father of the bridegroom. Miss Adela Volstead of Lebanon, Oregon, acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. L. D. Tyler as best man, while the wedding march was ably rendered by Miss Ethel Carlin. Master Burl Tyler was ring bearer, and little Altha Jean was flower maid.

The bride was charmingly attired in a beautiful gown of crepe de chine, shadow lace and silk chiffon. The veil and crown were adorned with tiny roses and baby's breath. She carried a bouquet of pink La France roses to match. For this occasion the home was beautifully decorated with ferns, climatis, and flowers, the green and white color scheme being used. The arch, under which the couple stood, was of Oregon grape, and hung with numerous white hearts. After the ceremony, all enjoyed the delicious refreshments served. Miss Tyler is a popular young lady of high accomplishments, having attended college at Corvallis for the past two years, where she has been studying music, and art as her major. Mr. Elmore is a well known young man of this city. He attended college at McMinnville where he graduated in 1906, and has since been employed by the bank of Brownsville. The young couple left Monday morning on an extended tour through Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Among the various places at which they will stop are Portland, Spokane, Coeur d'Alene and Lake St. Joe, then returning via O. R. & N. to Pendleton for the new home in Brownsville. Mr. and Mrs. Elmore are wished a happy and successful future by their many friends as well as relatives in Brownsville and all other communities where they are known.

MISFITS.

Contributed by F. P. Nutting.

Those who think we have had some fierce weather in Oregon during the summer will be interested in the fact that it has been general all over the U. S. A letter received by the Misfit from his old home in N. Y. state tells of eight inches of rain during August, twice that of this valley. There were twenty rainy days out of 31, and there had been a frost every month of the year.

A proposition from Sacramento offers a chance to make $200 a year for fifteen or twenty years on an investment of $100. That's quite a bait, but the hook is plain enough.

The fall styles are quite stunning, as well as striking.

It will take a train 173 miles long to get the fruit crop out of Calif., a fact being duly and vigorously advertised.

Some one declares emphatically that when an old maid says she doesn't envy any married woman in the world it is simply a bluff.

Some people spend their short lives throwing away their time, money and health.

Many an unwise thing is done in this world just to be called progressive.

Life is full of patches, including the pavement.

If it clears up and we have two weeks of good weather it will be in order to get the band out.

A real funny item is about a woman who was so kind to her children that she chloroformed them before spanking them.

A few people have been heard of who learned from experience.

Worse weather in other places may create a fellow feeling, but it doesn't fill the bin.

There will be no chimneys in the houses of the future.

Figures may be mighty truthful, but in the hands of a sharper they will tell the boy or girl of twenty can't be told anything, and there are others.

The principal province of white shoes for awhile will be weddings.

A farmer, accompanied by his wife, was asked how he liked the weather, one rainy day last week.

"Impossible to tell you in the presence of my wife," he remarked.

Even Calif. was soaked to the limit. It is said that Detroit has only one bath tub.

FORMER ALBANY MAN SEES MANY CHANGES IN THE HUB

John Geisentrainer arrived last night from his home near Knoxville, Tenn., after a visit with his brother in Seattle. He formerly resided for eight years on a farm near Tangent road, going back to Tennessee twenty-two years ago. He sees a wonderful change in Albany, a transformation. Lyon street particularly strikes him, the business there being a great surprise to him. Mr. Geisentrainer would like to be here again if he can sell out in Tennessee.
