

PEACOCK INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

Local Liveryman Found Guilty of Offering Bribe to Chief of Police Daughtry.

SOBS ALOUD IN COURTROOM WHEN INDICTMENT IS READ

Is Now Confined in County Jail Awaiting Trial, the Date of Which Is Not Yet Set.

When the indictment charging him with an attempt to bribe an officer was read to him at the courthouse in this city yesterday afternoon, Al Peacock, proprietor of a livery stable in this city, which has been the scene of many raids by the police during the past few months, broke down and sobbed, his huge form quivering with emotion.

The grand jury returned the indictment Saturday evening charging Peacock with an attempt to bribe Chief of Police Daughtry and Peacock was arrested and brought into court yesterday afternoon by Sheriff Smith. Owing to the fact that Judge P. R. Kelly had formerly acted as an attorney for Peacock, the arraignment was made before Judge William Galloway of McMinnville, who came to Albany on the afternoon train for the purpose.

Peacock plead not guilty to the indictment and his bonds were fixed at $500, which he was unable to furnish and he was taken to the county jail by Sheriff Smith where he will be compelled to remain until his case comes up for trial. The date of the trial has not yet been set but it is probable that it will be heard in the near future.

It is alleged that Peacock offered Chief of Police Daughtry the sum of $25 if he would cease to further arrest and prosecute him for violation of the local option law. The bribe is said to have been offered to Daughtry by Peacock at the latter's livery barn on Lyon street on the 25th of September and that the offer was made in the presence of Policemen McClung and Webb who were concealed in the barn and overheard the conversation which included the alleged offer of money to the police official.

The livery barn conducted by Peacock has been the object of nearly a dozen raids by the police of this city during the past three or four months and various amounts of liquor were seized and smashed on each occasion by the raiding officers.

Peacock broke down completely in the court room yesterday afternoon and sobbed aloud when the indictment charging him with attempting to bribe the police chief was read to him and loudly protested his innocence of the crime of which he was accused.

On the evening of the 22nd the many friends of S. P. Williamson assembled in his handsome parlor to celebrate his 70th anniversary of his birth. Mrs. Patterson and daughter Eda and Mrs. Barton of Albany attended the celebration. He was completely surprised when he stepped into the hall and met so many friends. After the musical program the many guests were seated in the large dining hall and refreshments were served by the family. Although Mr. W. has passed his three score and ten years he would pass for a man much younger and his memory is good.

Mr. Stillman spoke for almost two hours to an interested audience. He is a talented speaker and deals in facts. He does not resort to personalities, but speaks plainly and in terms that can be understood.

The Oregon Electric cars are patronized by some of our people but as yet they are not running on schedule time. This makes it inconvenient, but it will be different after the road is ballasted.

FIRE HORSE RUNS AWAY DELAYING THE APPARATUS

Alarm Sounded Last Evening Caused by Burning Out of a Chimney.

While the firemen were hitching the big horses to the engine last evening in response to an alarm turned in from box 72 at the corner of Fourth and Madison streets, one of the horses bolted out through the door, and ran away, disappearing in the darkness before they were able to stop him.

This left the firemen in a predicament, there being but one horse left to take the engine out and it was finally necessary to secure a team from an express wagon which was passing, before the engine could be taken out, which was fully fifteen minutes from the time the alarm was sounded at 5:40 o'clock. The hose wagons were also delayed several minutes in leaving the house last night.

The fire alarm was turned in by the burning out of a plug at the residence of R. Rogaway at Second and Thurston streets which was extinguished before any damage was done. The runaway horse was captured near Calapooia street on Third by Sanford Archibald who returned the steed to the stable in the rear of the engine house on Lyon street.

The meeting at the club rooms was called to order by President J. S. Van Winkle, who in a few well chosen words, welcomed the visitors to Albany and presented Carl Gray.

Mr. Gray spoke of the royal reception he had received by the people of Albany at a beef steak dinner which was tendered to him about a year ago and congratulated himself on being unlike Jeffries in one particular at least. "I can, and have come back," said the railroad president, "and am glad I am here."

He spoke of the friendly feeling which existed among the officials of the Oregon Electric and the citizens of Albany and congratulated the people upon the unlimited opportunities for growth and development of this section of the state.

"Compare our service with the Southern Pacific as it was before we came," was the way Mr. Gray sized up the railway situation in Albany.

At the conclusion of his remarks Mr. Gray received an ovation from the business men and was followed by President Young of the Oregon Electric.

"Our business in Albany," said President Young, "is very satisfactory. It is gaining every day and each week shows a net gain in the traffic handled over our line. We believe we are safe in claiming that we have more business now than the Southern Pacific ever had in the past and expect it to increase more rapidly in the future than it has in the past. The Working Shoe Worth Double Its Price

"The working man puts more faith in me than in any other part of his wearing apparel. Men who have worn me say I'm the best working-shoe on earth—that I'm worth double my price. They have found that I'll wear longer than any other shoe, no matter what its price. That's what my makers expect of me—that's why they make me of the costliest leather, put full double soles on me, double stitch and reinforced. I'm a Chrome Blucher, with 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18 inch imported veal tops. Big, broad, handsome, tough, and mighty easy on the feet.
