

SALEM SENDS A BIG DELEGATION TODAY

Cherry City Special Arrived on Time Bringing Several Hundred Boosters.

MARCHED DOWN TOWN LED BY THEIR SPLENDID BAND

Informal Reception Tendered Them at the Armory this Afternoon at 2 O'clock.

Accompanied by a splendid band, several hundred live residents of the Capital City arrived in Albany at 10:30 o'clock this morning on a special train of five coaches, over the Southern Pacific and were met at the union depot by a large delegation of local business men who welcomed them to Albany and extended to them the freedom of the city.

The Salem delegation contained many ladies, and all wore handsome ribbon badges bearing the inscription, "Salem, the Cherry City." At the top of each badge was a large red apple.

After the Salem and Albany people had exchanged greetings, the entire crowd formed in line behind the band and marched through the business section and back to the Armory where Albany's Sixth Annual Apple Show is being held.

The visitors spent the remainder of the forenoon viewing the great display of apples and vegetables on exhibition at the show. That the visitors were greatly pleased with the show-in was made here was indicated by the many expressions of delight which were made by them as they viewed the tiers of red-checked apples and the marvelous display of garden products.

The Salem crowd was a merry one and during the march down town this morning gave vent to many catchy yells and sang many original booster songs which had been prepared for the occasion.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock an informal reception was tendered the visitors at the Armory when enthusiastic talks were made by prominent Salem and Albany business men.

After the reception the larger portion of the crowd went out to the college field to witness the football game between the eleven of the Albany High school and the second team of Willamette University.

Others spent the afternoon visiting friends in various parts of the city and in walking about the streets on a general sight-seeing trip. The Salemites returned home at 5 o'clock this evening, all happy after a pleasant day here.

LEBANON SCHOOLBOYS HAVE FEATURE EXHIBIT AT SHOW

VEGETABLES GROWN BY ALIS AND FLOYD UEMENHOFFER ATTRACT GREAT ATTENTION AT APPLE FAIR.

The leading feature of the Apple Show exhibit is an exhibit of garden products grown by two boys from Lebanon, Alis Uemenhoffer and Floyd Uemenhoffer, aged 15 and 12 years, respectively. Each of these boys has an exhibit which completely covers a table 42 feet long and four feet wide.

Alis Uemenhoffer's exhibit contains 160 varieties of vegetables, including 11 varieties of radishes, eight varieties of lettuce, 30 varieties of pumpkins and squashes, 14 different kinds of onions, 12 varieties of table beets, 12 kinds of cabbage, spinach, corn, potatoes, watermelons, strawberries, cucumbers, peppers, tomatoes, turnips, rhubarb and in fact almost every kind of vegetable.

The exhibit of Floyd Uemenhoffer is almost a duplicate, so far as variety is concerned, of that entered by his brother. Besides the vegetables the two boys have displayed on the two exhibit tables they have several different kinds of kale and other products, ranged around the wall of the armory back of the tables.

The two boys, who reside on the farm of their step-father, F. M. Sherman, on the South Santiam river, two miles southeast of Lebanon, began growing vegetables this year for prizes in the industrial school fair. They bought a 5 cent package of each variety of vegetable and then divided each package and seeds and kept their gardens separate. Each lad did all of the work in his own garden, from planting to harvesting.

The boys not only succeeded in growing a remarkable variety of vegetables, but the size and quality of their vegetables are first-class. When the Linn County Industrial School Fair was held Alis Uemenhoffer entered his vegetables for the best industrial display and Floyd entered his for the best display of garden products and each took the sweepstakes prize for his class.

Their big display at the apple fair would attract great attention merely for the size and quality of the vegetables, but the fact that two young boys have entered this entire display adds great interest.

ALBANY MOOSE WILL HELP DEDICATE SALEM LODGE HALL

The Albany boys anticipate a big time and will take along a male quartette to contribute a part of the evening's entertainment.

Their quarters are among the best in the city, the upper floor of the Pfeiffer block having been arranged for their use.

THE PURCHASE OF SAUSAGE REUNITES COUPLE

Denver, Col. Nov. 11.—The fact that Louis Stern, a furniture repairer, had a good appetite caused him to be arrested when his bride of less than a year, whom he is said to have deserted in St. Louis a month ago after he had lost $500 which she had given him caught him buying sausages in a Denver shop.

When an explanation had been made by the husband that he was buying the sausages for a friend who had invited him out to dinner, the couple left the police station as happy as if they were on their wedding day.

After Stern had spent the $500, it is said he was afraid to go home.

"I knew my wife would kill me when I told her I had lost the money," he said, "so I ran away."

He first went to Kansas City and then came to Denver. His wife, thinking that he ran away with another woman, left St. Louis, bent on finding her wayward helpmate.

She arrived in Denver a few days ago and saw her husband enter a meat shop on Fifteenth street. She followed him and stood quietly while he was purchasing the sausage.

MENNONITES AFTER THE WORLD'S BIGGEST FARM

Colony from Sect in Pennsylvania Negotiating for a Tract of 25,000 Acres.

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 11.—The largest farm in the world located in Cass county, near Casselton, will probably pass within a week or two into the possession of a committee representing a colony of Mennonites from Pennsylvania. Arrangements are being made for the sale of the farm, which consists of more than 25,000 acres, to a committee which is here and empowered to make the deal.

According to James Walker, who is at the head of the Mennonite colony, if the purchase is made, the colony now located in Western Pennsylvania will be moved to North Dakota. The great Dalrymple estate will be split up into small farms and a family will be placed on each 100 acres.

The committee representing the religious sect arrived in Fargo week before last and has been negotiating since. It is understood the owners have been offered $65 an acre for the entire tract.

The Dalrymple is the largest farm in North Dakota and is declared to be the largest in one stretch of land in the world.

The sect was offered inducements by the Russian government to colonize in Russia, but, abhorring strife, refused to go to the land of the Czar.

Mrs. J. R. Shaw of Mill City, came down last evening for a visit at the home of John A. Shaw, of this city.

ALBANY APPLE SHOW ENDS LAST NIGHT

Two Hundred Residents of the Strawberry City Arrived By Special Train at 5 P. M.

J. S. VAN WINKLE WELCOMED VISITORS TO THE HUB CITY

Brownsville Fruit Assn. Wins Louis W. Hill Cup; Other Fine Prizes Were Awarded.

Albany's Sixth Annual Apple Show came to a close last evening, one of the most successful ones that has yet been held in this city.

The Armory was crowded all day yesterday with hundreds of visitors from outside cities, including Salem, Lebanon, Brownsville, Harrisburg, Halsey, Corvallis, and other points in the Willamette Valley. The Salem people arrived by special train at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning and spent the day here, returning at 5 o'clock. Shortly after 5 o'clock last evening a delegation of over two hundred Lebanon people arrived in Albany, headed by Mayor Wennersten and Senator M. A. Miller. The Lebanon contingent was accompanied by their fine band and after the arrival of the "Strawberry City Special" the visitors from that city marched through the streets and back to the Armory where the evening was spent in viewing the exhibits at the fair.

J. S. Van Winkle welcomed the Lebanon people assured them of Albany's appreciation of the honor paid the fair by the people of Linn's second city and Senator Miller responded for the visitors. Special music was furnished at the show last evening by the Lebanon band and the Chautauqua Orchestra of this city.

Both the Salem and Lebanon visitors wore badges appropriate of the occasion and a large delegation of Harrisburg people, who spent the day at the fair, wore badges extending the greetings from the potato to the apple. A large number of people from Brownsville, Halsey and other Linn county cities also visited the fair yesterday.

Professor V. R. Gardner, of the Oregon Agricultural College spoke at the fair on "Loganberry Growing in the Willamette Valley" and Professor C. I. Lewis, of the same institution, talked on "Pear Culture in the Willamette Valley." Special music was furnished last night by the Lebanon band and the Albany orchestra.

While the large and splendid display of vegetables was the principal feature of this year's fair, the variety of the apple exhibit was a noteworthy feature. Though there were not so many apples on exhibition as at many of the former fairs there was a larger variety than ever before. All of the old standard varieties were represented and there were splendid boxes of many varieties which are just beginning to come into season as commercial apples in this part of the state. The fact that many young commercial orchards set out in the past few years are now coming into bearing is said to account for the large variety of this year's display.

The quality of the fruit exhibited this year was also better than usual, indicating that orchards are receiving more systematic and more scientific care than heretofore.

Though there were many splendid apples from young orchards, there was also considerable fruit displayed from orchards which have been producing good fruit for many years. Some of the oldest orchards in the county were represented. W. H. Halbert, who resides near this city, exhibited a splendid box of Baldwin apples from a tree which has been bearing for 50 years.

That yams and sweet potatoes will grow in Oregon is proved by the exhibit of R. L. Winniford, of Halsey, which includes several yams and sweet potatoes and also some splendid "dry land" celery.

The Brownsville Fruit Association won the grand prize of the fair, the Louis W. Hill $50 cup and $25 in cash, for the best community exhibit of five or more boxes of three or more varieties of apples grown in Linn county. This exhibit was prepared by C. C. Cate of Brownsville, and consisted of three boxes of Baldwins, one box of Ben Davis and one excellent box of Winter Banana apples. The second prize in this class was awarded to Henry Struckmeier, of Thomas.

Other prizes for the best displays of apples were awarded as follows: Best five-box exhibit, three or more varieties—J. Beebe, of Eugene, first; H. G. Rumbaugh, of North Albany, second.

CRAWFORDSVILLE PASTOR DROPS DEAD IN HIS PULPIT

Rev. Bound of Methodist Church Succumbs to Heart Failure While Preaching.

While delivering a sermon at a prayer-meeting which was being held in the Methodist church at Crawfordville last evening, Rev. Bound, the pastor, dropped dead in his pulpit, death being caused by heart failure. Coroner Fortmiller was notified of the death last evening about 8:30 o'clock and instructed Dr. Howard of Brownsville to make an investigation and report.

When the minister dropped to the floor of the church, members of the congregation immediately rushed to his assistance and carried him to his residence, calling a physician on the way. The man had passed away, however, and was beyond medical assistance when the physician arrived.

WOMEN GET POCKETS BY ADOPTING MEN'S VESTS

Association of Ladies' Tailors Decides for Men's Waistcoats with Stripes and Braids.

Pittsburg, Nov. 14.—The edict has gone forth. The National Association of Ladies' Tailors of America has decreed that the mannish note in feminine raiment must be emphasized this winter by the donning of vests with cravat effects, waistcoat braiding and stripes. That the additional garment may have proper display the modistes recommend an adaptation of the afternoon cutaway coat affected by the men. Those who heard the glad tidings at the banquet of the association in the Fort Pitt hotel last night say that women will take up the new wrinkle with enthusiasm.

No more will the pocketless woman bemoan her pocketless fate. Whether the false shirt front and ready-made tie will tag along on the trail of the vest is a question that troubles the curious.

Wm. Duncan of the Albany Floral company went to Portland to be a judge at the Flower Show.

ALBANY COLLEGE WANTS $250,000

Members of the Faculty Discuss Plans for the Local Institution of Learning.

CITIZENS ASKED TO ASSIST IN RAISING THE MONEY

About $50,000 Is Expected from City of Portland; Funds Also Coming from the East.

The following was written by a member of the faculty of the Albany College:

"In a previous article I discussed the sources of the income of Albany College. I stated that tuition funds are not sufficient (nor are they in any of the private or state colleges in America); that increase cannot be expected from annual gifts; that endowment is essential. I stated that a minimum of $200,000 must be secured if a college would be a 'standard college.'"

"Now Albany College is asking $250,000 endowment. We will then need more for buildings. Where are we to get it?"

"First, where do other western colleges generally secure their endowments? Stanford and the new Reed are notable instances of a great gift from a single family to a college to bear their names. But most western colleges secure their endowment funds from (1) the community in which they are located; (2) the alumni; (3) the larger community (probably the state) served; (4) large gifts whose philanthropies reach the ends of the country—these givers are likely to be in the East. If the college is emphatically Christian and is denominational there are givers to be found in the particular church interested, both East and West.

"For example, a Dakota college recently secured a fund of $500,000. Of this fund Mr. Hill gave $50,000, the General Education Board (Rockefeller) $100,000; the town (a town of 6000 people) about $80,000; the state about as much as the town; the remainder came from friends made by the president in constant work for ten years in New Jersey, New York, Chicago and Pittsburg.

"The College of Idaho, at Caldwell, a town of 3000 or 4000 population, gave $88,000 to a fund of $175,000; large part of the remainder coming from Chicago and New York.

"For our fund of a quarter million Albany has pledged $25,000; the remainder of Oregon has pledged $39,000; the remainder of $155,000 comes from the East, including Mr. Hill's $50,000.

"Hardly to secure the sum desired $95,000 more will be required. To allow for a shrinkage, unavoidable always in the experience of colleges in such campaigns, $25,000 more should be secured.

"After Albany has given her share of this sum, whatever that share may be, money secured for buildings must come from friends living outside Albany. So whatever Albany shall give now is her contribution given to secure not only $250,000 endowment but a building fund also—of not less than $125,000.

"What is Albany's share? I have asked this question of various business men in Albany. Some say $35,000—no one suggests a smaller amount. Some say one dollar in every five, or $50,000; some say one dollar in every four or $62,500. Some of our business men have said that if the new college as planned can be realized Albany would be shrewd in investment if she should give even a larger sum, for, say they, the city of Albany will be a chief, if not THE chief, beneficiary from the college.

"Suppose Albany should give $25,000 more, where is the balance to be secured?"

"We hope for $50,000 more from Portland; from the state outside of Portland a sum not less than $10,000 more, not more than $25,000. How much more can be secured from the East no one can prophesy; we hope for not less than $25,000 more, we might secure $40,000.

"Our alumni have responded liberally and yet more will come from them. The College Board of New York (Presbyterian) has pledged $10,000; has sent us $8,000; has helped to secure $5,000 in cash; and a member of the Board, the secretary aiding me to influence the giver, has pledged $10,000. An additional $8,000 has been pledged by Eastern givers, who probably were influenced by this Board to some extent.

"I do not now venture to set an amount for Albany. But this general observation is correct: Liberal support in the home town is of greatest possible influence elsewhere in the state and even to the farthest East; liberality in the state influences tremendously every eastern giver. Almost always in such movements local support begins the movement and furnishes the enthusiasm.

"When Albany College appeals this fall to Albany it is appealing for help in the largest project ever yet dared for Albany College and with greater hope of large success than ever before."
