Weekly Bulletin

DEVELOPMENT—The face of the Grizzly tunnel is now within 5 feet of a point vertical with shaft on 6-foot ledge. Exceptionally hard rock has been driven through during the past ten days, but water is now being encountered, and a highly mineralized stringer of ore similar to showing in shaft has been crossed, which indicates the close proximity of the ledge, in which a pay streak occurs, and from where in the shaft assay returns exceeding $300 per ton have been obtained.

To meet cost of development, the sales of Treasury Stock will continue at SIX CENTS per share, payable all cash, or on the installment plan.

INSTALLMENT PLAN

Two Thousand Shares at $120.00, payable $10 down and $10 per month until paid. Larger blocks of stock on pro rata scale.

PROSPECTING FOR WATER.Will Bore Artesian Wells in the Grand Ronde Valley.

A movement is on foot to make a thorough test of the artesian water problem in Grand Ronde. The gentlemen who have undertaken the preliminaries of the enterprise are Peter McDonald, E. W. Oliver, W. G. Hunter, L. L. McKennon and M. L. Causey. It is estimated that the sum of $2000 will be required to make the experiment and demonstrate the possibilities of securing an artesian water supply. This amount is to be raised by a public subscription, and each one of the gentlemen above named will undertake to raise his share of the amount.

During the preliminary stages Mr. McDonald will be recognized as the chairman of the association, but after the subscription is complete each subscriber is to have his proportional say in the management of the work, the location where the experiment is to be made, and other affairs pertaining to the undertaking.

The Chronicle is informed that Thomas McConnell has offered to head the subscription list with $500, and he makes the further conditional offer that if the well is sunk on his land and proves to be a success, he will reimburse all the subscribers and stand all the expense himself. It is presumed that other members of the association would probably make the same kind of an offer, because the well would necessarily become his property and would easily be worth the money.

It is the intention to begin with a six inch pipe and diminish the size until the artesian question is thoroughly experimented. It is a great undertaking and should meet with ready and cordial support.—La Grande Chronicle.

Baker City Iron Works Changes Hands.

George F. M. Lynn, who has successfully operated the Baker City Iron works plant for several years, though under the most adverse circumstances, owing to the two fires which totally destroyed his foundry, has sold the business and good will to Frank Malone, of Wyoming, who is now in complete possession and operating the place with a large force of men and his books full of orders, which are being rapidly filled. Mr. Malone comes to this section with the reputation of a thorough machinist and foundryman and is in the field to build all kinds of stamp mills, ore crushers, ore cars, feeders, stationery engines, etc., and also to contract for sawmill machinery for immediate delivery. Of course, the plant has always been and is now equipped thoroughly to do general repair work at short notice. Mr. Malone steps into a well established business built up by Mr. McLynn, who retires from the management, though without the least idea of leaving this section of country.

Poor Star Route Service from Huntington.

During the past two months there have been several complaints that the mail service between Huntington and Dell and Huntington and Malheur City has not been as good as it should be. These complaints reached the postoffice department at Washington and an inspector was sent here to look into the matter. He found that the people along the routes had cause to complain, and his investigation also revealed that Contractor Tague's twelve-year-old son sometimes carries the Huntington-Dell mail. It is contrary to the rules of the department to allow any person under sixteen years of age to handle the mail sack, and, as a result of the inspector's report, Mr. Tague was fined $75. Mr. Tague says the report is not true and he will lay the case before the Washington officials and endeavor to have the fine remitted.—Huntington Herald.
