"EATS WELL, SLEEPS WELL."

"Olympia, Wash., June 14, 1900.
"Dr. A. T. Sanden—I have been using the Belt regularly since about April one, and I am improving right along, in fact, I am feeling better now than I have for many years. I suppose the time will soon come now when it will be unnecessary for me to continue its use. And what I want to ask you is: how shall I know when I have had enough? I suppose, of course, that the thing can be overdone.

"I am using a very light charge, one spoonful for the battery, and only wear the belt for about one hour daily. I eat well, sleep well and my bowels are all right.

"Hoping to hear from you soon, I am, yours truly G. H. LEWIS."

A SPECIFIC FOR LAME BACK.

"Pendleton, Ore., June 1, 1900.
"Dr. A. T. Sanden—I am well satisfied with the results obtained from the use of your Belt, and consider it a positive specific for lame back, which was my principal trouble.

"CHARLES HOOPES."

NO "JAYS" IN THE NORTHWEST

Miners and Stockmen and Their Women Folks Wear Good Clothes.

If dress makes the man or woman, the visitors to Spokane during exposition time are well made and have none of that provincial cut of clothing that the funny papers use in illustrating stock jokes about visitors from the country. It seems that fashion has made as rapid progress in the northwest as improvements in manufactures, transportation, and communication. If the smaller towns lack dressmakers who are in touch with the latest modes, the fashion magazines show the dressmakers' weakness and the larger city gets the business of making the gowns. The merchant in the small town is compelled to carry goods on his shelves that are fairly new, hence the young man who buys store clothes is certain of being neatly clad and not afraid of being a mark when he reaches the city. In fact, it is difficult to pick out in the crowds of exposition time the home people and the visitors, so general has become the habit of neat dressing in the latest mode.

In men from the mining districts this trait is particularly noticeable. The miner is a cosmopolitan. In the mountains he accommodates himself in all circumstances; in the city he is fastidious in an epicurean way, while he follows the latest fashions in his wearing apparel.

The farmer and stockraiser no longer are marks for the gaze of the city loungers. Traces of the farm and range vanish when they come into the city limits. One finds that the women of the prosperous districts, and all are prosperous this year, are owners of neatly fitting gowns of the fashion today. Even the children fall into the ways of the city in a few hours. No doubt a part of this acquaintance with the roads and customs of the city comes because of frequent visits to the centers of population, but more generally it comes through the reading of the daily newspaper and the following of fashions there suggested. In a section so well supplied with good dailies it is not safe for a merchant to work off old-style fabrics on his customers, nor is it wise to attempt to deceive the purchaser from the country when he comes to the city. That method of business has long since passed out.

The broadening influence of a superior school system, the education unconsciously acquired by contact with well-informed neighbors, the daily acquaintance with the modern newspaper, having given the suburban visitor most of the polish of his city friend.—Spokesman-Review.

U. S. Senatorial Candidate in Sumpter.

Hon. C. W. Fulton, of Astoria, conceded to be one of the best spellbinders in the republican party, addressed a large audience in the Ellis opera house Monday evening. He advanced the same old stock arguments of the party, but dressed them in plausible, attractive language. Mr. Fulton has many ardent admirers and personal friends who claim that he is the intellectual peer of any man in public life on the Pacific coast today, and they long to see him in the United States senate, where he would reflect honor on his state. In fact, this question is already being agitated and it is said to be very probable that he will lead the anti-Simon-Oregonian faction in the next senatorial contest, backed by the Mitchell wing of the republican party.

Medium.

In case of doubt or if in trouble and you want advice in regard to business, mining, speculation or otherwise, consult the medium, Mrs. H. J. Jory. She may be found at the office of H. J. Jory, the civil engineer, on Cracker street, near City Hall. Satisfaction guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

GOOD PROSPECTS ON ALDER.

Wide, Strong Ledge Shows Values of $35.80
Across the Face.

That there are values in the large ledges on Alder creek seems to be evident from what has been found in the Golden Monarch group this summer, situated seven miles east of Sumpter.

In May of this year, W. E. Runner, J. M. McPhee, of Sumpter, A. C. Little, of Tacoma, located this group of twelve claims, on all of which some surface work has been done. One of the open cuts at 10 feet in depth is said to have uncovered a good vein, now twenty-one feet wide, without having the hanging wall in sight and from which a certificate, signed by a reliable assayer, showed $35.80, the samples being taken across a 10½-foot breast.

On the same chute of ore, but on claims higher up the mountain and adjoining the Monarch group, greater values have been found, running sometimes up into the hundreds.

Work on this group will probably be continued this winter, as indications warrant the expenditure of considerable money in trying to make it productive.

Rich Copper Strike at Mineral.

From parties who arrived in the city last evening we learn that a phenomenally rich strike of copper ore was made in one of the properties owned by Captain Wing at Mineral a few days ago. Captain Wing has been an operator in the camp at Mineral for a number of years and has lately been running a tunnel to tap the vein at great depth. This was accomplished a few days ago when instead of the lead and silver ore which predominates in that district, a large body of almost pure copper was encountered. Mr. Dinsmore, of Boise, had a fine sample of the ore which he intended to take to Lewiston's fair with him.—Democrat.
