Absolute Security.....

is the consideration in ANY financial contract, especially when the contract may run for twenty years—or more (into the future). There are other things to be considered, but the first and greatest—is SECURITY.

This security, rigidly demanded in any ordinary financial transaction, should be still more rigorously insisted upon in a contract of life assurance, on which the whole future of your family may depend.

What questions would you ask about a bank, a business, or any enterprise in which you may think of investing? (1) What is its financial strength? (2) What are its surplus earnings? (3) What dividends does it pay? Carry the same business sagacity into life assurance and the Equitable will answer your questions as follows:

1. FINANCIAL STRENGTH—The Equitable is the strongest life company in the world. Its surplus is larger by many millions than that of any other company. And surplus not only means strength, but is also the funds from which dividends to policy holders are paid.
2. SURPLUS EARNINGS—During the past twenty years the Equitable's earnings have been larger than those of any other company. And dividends to policy holders cannot legitimately be paid until they are earned.
3. DIVIDENDS PAID—Since 1800 the Equitable has paid a larger amount in dividends to policy holders than any other company. Moreover, during the past seven years the Equitable has paid each year, in dividends to policy holders, more than $2,000,000. No other company can point to such a record.

During the forty years of the Equitable's history it has achieved results which have not only been paralleled, but HAVE NEVER BEEN APPROACHED by any other company during a similar period.

Equitable Policies are to the assurer what Government Bonds are to the investor—the safest that can be obtained. Yet they cost no more than any other good assurance.
