

DEATH IN A TUNNEL.

One Miner Killed and Another Severely Injured.

At about 9 o'clock on last Wednesday night, an unavoidable and distressing accident happened in the crosscut tunnel of the Oregon-Monarch mine near the Red Boy, which caused the almost instant death of Frank Marsh and broke the right arm of Al Lake in three places above the elbow.

These men were engaged in timbering the tunnel when a huge mass of rock fell from the roof pinioning Mr. Marsh so that he was unable to extricate himself. Other workmen in the tunnel rushed to his assistance when a second cave occurred which caused the injury to Mr. Lake.

Medical aid was immediately summoned. Dr. Anderson, of Sumpter, being one who responded to the summons, but Frank Marsh was beyond human aid. Al Lake was brought to the Sumpter hospital where he died Sunday afternoon. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist church, Rev. Heppie officiating.

The remains of Frank Marsh were brought to Sumpter in a fine casket and from this place shipped to Weston, Oregon, on Friday last for burial. The deceased was a member of the Knight of Pythias. The local members of that order turned out in their uniforms and full regalia, escorting the body to the depot from whence a guard of honor attended the deceased to his final resting place.

Nothing was left undone that could be performed by the Killen, Warner, Stewart company, fiscal agents of the Oregon-Monarch company, to care for the unfortunate man who was killed or the one injured. Everyone exonerates the company from all blame.
