GUGGENHEIM'S
MINING STOCK.Capital Invested From Six to Twenty Million Dollars.

An associated Press dispatch from New York, of recent date, says: Not the least important of the many transactions on foot which lead to large development in the metal productive industry of the United States is the proposed increase of the capital of the Guggenheim Exploration company from $6,500,000 to $20,000,000.

This company was originally operated in conjunction with the firm of M. Guggenheim's Sons, whose business was afterwards merged with the American Smelting and Refining company. It acquired semi-developed gold, silver and lead mines in Mexico and the United States, which were thoroughly exploited and developed and either disposed of to separate syndicates or operated for the benefit of the smelting interests. As originally constituted, it was a "close corporation," the control of which was divided between the Rothschilds in Europe, H. H. Rogers, W. C. Whitney, Thomas F. Ryan and the Guggenheims.

The Guggenheim Exploration company has recently extended its business extensively. It has bought up large mining properties in Colorado, Arizona and other western states, and especially in Mexico, and is now negotiating for all or nearly all the silver lead mining properties in the Coeur d'Alene district in Idaho. It is due to this extension of its business that it proposes the enlargement of its capital.

It was recently announced that John Hays Hammond, probably the best known mining engineer in the world, had been appointed general manager of the company. It is also announced that Chester A. Beatty of Colorado, and almost as well known as Mr. Hammond, had been appointed assistant general manager. The appointment of these expert mining engineers, together with the proposed increase in stock, indicates that the company will extend its enterprises even more aggressively than it has in the past, and that its field of operations will be confined to no restricted location, but will be carried all over the world, wherever the prospect of successful mining is favorable.

REDUCED RATES FROM THE EAST

Commencing February 15 and continuing until April 30, there will be low rates from the east via the Illinois Central railroad to all Washington, Oregon and Idaho points. If any of your friends or relatives in the east are coming west while these rates are in effect, give us their name and address, and we will make it our business to see that they are given the best possible service. We operate through personally conducted excursion cars, and in fact give you the benefit of the latest conveniences known to modern railroading. We have fifteen different routes between the east and the west, and are in position to give you the benefit of the best combinations. Write us and we will give you full particulars.

Fabulous Prospects in Mining.

Everybody knows the story of Miller and his 520 per cent profit. Such profit is looked upon as bordering on the fake. But all depends upon the business. In mining it not only "happens," but it is not at all unexpected. Every mining man can cite dozens of cases where stocks have jumped in months from a few cents to many dollars. Only the other day a case occurred in eastern Oregon. A property was bought for $6,000 and developed a little. A few days ago a strike was made and the owner turned down a $110,000 cash offer for his property. Figure that out, allowing for every dollar of subsequent cost after the mine was bought, and see what per cent it would net on the investment. Even the famous "corner" in Northern Pacific stock, which shot the price up nearly 1,000 per cent in a day, cannot compare to the colossal advance often recorded in mining stock by reason of a big gold strike. There is this difference, too: that same northern Pacific corner was purely artificial. It represented nothing but giant manipulation; it caused the wreck and bankruptcy of thousands, and shook the whole financial center of New York. The gold mine advance makes the fortunate stockholder or owner rich and incidentally helps all mankind, while nobody suffers the loss of a penny.—North American Miner.

Help Build Up The West.

The low rates from the east to the west and the northwest, February 15 to April 30, will undoubtedly bring out thousands of settlers. Where they will go is largely a question of inducement. If you are interested in securing any eastern people for your section of the west, send their names and addresses to the undersigned. All the facts and figures about the trip will be promptly sent them. H. S. Rowe, General Agent, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, 134 Third Street, Portland, Ore.
