SUMPTER SMELTER RUNS FULL BLAST

Tightening the big reduction plant of the Oregon Smelting and Refining Company, held the minerless, Sumpter smelter—will put on a night shift and be operated hereafter—continuously, day and night, at fullest capacity.

Since the blowing in of the smelter last summer under new management, a day shift has been employed. At the recent annual meeting of the smelting company in New York,常务副经理s were taken to operate the plant night and day. Ore concentrates in extraordinary number were signed with eastern Oregon and the southern Idaho mines, and a sufficient tonnage was secured to warrant operation of the smelter at fullest capacity for an indefinite period.

The employment of a night shift was delayed from time to time, owing to the fact that at the time the current capacity of the smelting department was 600 tons a day, the facility of 750 tons a day is achieved.

The employment of a night shift will be delayed from time to time, owing to the fact that at the time the current capacity of the smelting department was 600 tons a day, the facility of 750 tons a day is achieved.
