Several localities in a Mormon county are planting mint. Ankenny Bottom will harvest 56 acres this year. A still for the extraction of the oil has been set up by a local company, and it is predicted that larger tracts will be planted there next season. The Aurora soil along the river bottom has been pronounced especially adapted to mint culture, as it grows here naturally and luxuriantly. There is a good market for the product, and some one ought to give the crop a trial here.

We would rather be known as "particular" printers than as cheap printers. We have noticed that the so-called "cheap" printers never get very far, and their customers do not seem to get very far either. No business has ever reached and held the position of permanent success by the use of cheap printing. The printing of an eminently successful business is distinguished by its high quality, however, and the inference is so plain that every one who reads may easily apply the inference to his own business.
