STOP, LOOK, LISTEN!

There was a little flivver
That got stalled upon the track
And the 5:15 came spurting up
And hit the fliv' a crack.

A shooting star, a lot of dust,
And, golly, what a row!
There was a little flivver,
But I cannot find it now.

FINE PATRIOTIC DISCOURSE

REV. MOCHEL DELIVERS SERMON FULL OF STIRRING BEHESTS TO EVERY LOYAL AMERICAN, DISCUSSING THE FOOD PROBLEM IN ITS RELATION TO THE WAR.

A masterly presentation of the food problem was laid before his congregation Sunday at the Presbyterian church by Rev. L. S. Mochel. He impressed upon his hearers that the food shortage is not imaginary, and that failure to conserve food may end in disaster.

Rev. Mochel chose his text from John 6:72—"Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost"—a part of the description of the miracle of the loaves and fishes. The pastor then went on to say, "the purpose (of the Miracle) was undoubtedly to give overwhelming evidence that Jesus was the Son of God. But in the entire narrative there is no phrase more striking than the words, 'gather up the fragments that nothing be lost.'"

God in nature practices perfect frugality. In the burning of a stick of wood not a single atom passes out of existence, but only into another form,—into smoke, vapor, heat, ashes,—so the atom is ever going on in its mission of service and mercy, in one form or another, blessing the creatures whom God has created. Thus the works of nature, as well as the Divine page, proclaim the sacred law that the precious food God has bestowed upon mankind is not to be wasted!

A great national food crisis now confronts us, and Herbert Hoover, the Federal Food Commissioner, in appealing to all the forces of democracy, says that it would be a calamity to the nation and to the churches if their chosen ministers should fail to exercise their leadership in the cause of feeding a world in need, for the world IS in need!

The 1916 wheat crop was short, in 1917 it will be still shorter. The demands of the army, the waste of war, the diminishing supply and the increased consumption all conspire to bring the food supply to the lowest level in modern times. Mr. Hoover declares that every family wastes at least $50 in food and necessities, or $500,000,000 more than the Liberty Loan! He also finds that a daily waste of half an ounce of food means a loss of 500,000,000 lbs. a year; that a waste of one slice of bread daily means a waste of a 1,000,000 loaves; that the total food waste in American families is a billion dollars annually; and that if every family saved two cents worth of food at every meal, it would amount to as much as the two-billion dollar Liberty Loan! Hence the food situation is grave, and calls for sacrifice, personal initiative, and personal willingness to volunteer self-sacrifice. We simply MUST meet the needs of the army and the world by producing generously, giving freely to the allies, by eating only as much as we need—but no more. We must save the waste, if we are to win the war! It would be an overwhelming calamity, if through lack of self-restraint, we should fail to bear our part in the great conflict against that damnable doctrine that "Might makes right."

The ways of thrifty living are not new. In order to practice them, we have to go but little beyond the frugal habits of earlier days. Buy wisely, lose nothing through lack of proper care, prepare no more than will satisfy hunger, serve again the unused portions, save wheat and use corn more freely.

"Thus," says Commissioner Hoover, "we can save the waste and win the war!" This is the great purpose of this "Food Saving Day."

Will you not join in the good work of conserving foods that we may be able to spare more for the starving women and children of Belgium, for the orphans of France, for the soldiers in the trenches who are fighting our battles, and for our own people in the United States who are suffering and will be suffering for want of food? Will you, save the waste? Will you in our time of plenty save for the lean months ahead? That is the whole gist of this discourse.

The women of America have never yet failed to answer such call as this. Food conservation is largely in their hands. It is almost impossible to measure what women can do in bringing about a successful conclusion of this war. The veritable truth is, that the successful outcome of the war lies in their hands, as much as in the hands of men. Let us give our whole-souled co-operation. Let us give ourselves wholeheartedly to the patriotic sacrifice, and adopt as our purpose and motto in every home, "Save the Waste, and Win the War."

FOR ECONOMY'S SAKE BUY
ADVERTISED
GOODS

A moments thought will make it plain why advertised goods of quality are cheapest. Advertising means more sales at a lower cost, which, of course, makes possible a LOWER SELLING PRICE.

Anything which enables a merchant to sell larger quantities of a certain article makes it possible for him to buy in larger quantities at a less cost—it also enables him to cut costs in every process of his business, and he CAN SELL FOR LESS.

It costs a merchant the same amount for light, heat, rent, taxes, insurance, donations, and clerk hire whether his clerks are idle half the day, or if they are busy every minute. His expenses are the same in either case, but if he advertises to bring more people to his store, so he and his clerks are busy more of the time, it is plain that they will sell more goods, be able to buy in larger quantities, his profits will be greater and he can afford to SELL FOR LESS.

In these war times when economy is a patriotic duty, it is safe to assume that your money will go further by buying advertised and branded merchandise from the merchant who also advertises.
