

NEW PAPER REGULATIONS
HIT THE COUNTRY PRESS

The government's new rules to conserve paper puts a burden on country newspapers that threatens their very existence, yet every loyal paper will make an earnest effort to obey them to the letter, for those that desire to survive will remember that the violation of these rules means the denial of the right to purchase even a single pound of print paper, hence disobedience is equivalent to closing our doors. In the Observer office every one of the following rules will be observed to the letter.

1. No publisher of a weekly, semi-weekly, or triweekly newspaper shall use in its production any paper except newsprint, and of a weight on the basis of not heavier than 50x14-50 lbs. (basis, 24x37-32 lbs.)

All stock now on hand may be used whether newsprint, machine finished, or sized and supercalendered, and regardless of weight.

2. No publisher may continue subscriptions after three months after date of expiration, unless subscriptions are renewed and paid for.

3. No publisher may give free copies of his paper; except for actual service rendered; except to camp libraries and huts or canteens of organizations recognized by the Government, such as the Red Cross, Y, M. C. A., or K. of C.; except to the Library of Congress, and other libraries which will agree to bind for permanent keeping; except to Government departmental libraries which use said publications in their work; and except for similar reasons.

4. No publisher shall give free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

5. No publisher shall accept the return of unsold copies from news dealers.

6. No publisher shall print extra copies, for stimulating advertising or subscriptions, or for any use other than those specified in these regulations, except not to exceed 1 per cent of his circulation with a minimum of 10 copies.

7. No publisher shall send free copies in exchange for other publications, except to such other publications as are printed within the county, or within a radius of 40 miles from his point of publications.

8. No publisher shall sell his publication at an exceedingly low or nominal subscription price.

9. No publisher shall sell his publication to anyone below the published subscription price.

10. No publisher shall offer premiums with his publication unless a price is put upon the premium for sale separately, and the combined price is at least 75 per cent of the sum of the individual prices.

11. No publisher shall conduct voting or other contests for the purpose of obtaining subscriptions; subscriptions obtained in this way will not be considered bona fide subscriptions.

12. No publisher may issue holiday, industrial or other special editions.

13. Publishers shall, so far as possible, procure paper and all other materials from the nearest available source of supply, provided it is consistent with price, quality and service.

14. Publishers of papers of more than 8 pages in size will reduce the pages in excess of 8 pages 25 per cent. This reduction shall be an average reduction over one month's period.

15. Any publisher of a 4 or 8 page paper will be considered to have fulfilled the requirements of this order if he immediately puts into effect paragraphs numbered 1 to 13 inclusive, and in addition thereto reduces to the lowest possible point all press room waste.

No newspaper may be established during the period of the war, except those for which arrangements had been made and plants purchased previous to the issuing of this order, or unless it can be shown that a new newspaper is a necessity.

A sworn statement will be required from each publisher on November 1 as to how many of these rules have been put into effect by him, and what results in the matter of reducing paper consumption have been obtained.

Yours very truly,
THOMAS E. DONNELLEY,
Chief Pulp and Paper Section.

MOTORS SPEED THEM TO FRONT

Motor trucks by the tens of thousands have made the great war different from any other in adding mobility to the opposing armies. Where preparation for battles in previous years required days, hours are now necessary. Since taxicabs won the first battle of the Marne, gasoline and rubber have been increasing factors.

Some of the American troops in recent battles, perhaps those shown above in a momentary halt in a French village, have traveled thirty hours with hardly a stop for rest.

Your subscription to the Fourth Liberty Loan will add to the certainty that some day troops will not reach a fight too late to win it.

God Almighty's Gentlemen

Not the least important of the results of this war will be the new understanding we shall have on the character of the French people. Before the first battle of the Marne we had become accustomed to picture in our minds a French people given to frivolity—effeminate men, pleasure-seeking women—in short, a decadent nation. The part France has played in this war shows that our conception of the mental and moral and physical fiber of the people of that country was wholly wrong. With a courage, a military skill and a patriotic zeal never excelled anywhere, France sprang to arms and met successfully the assaults of an enemy that excelled in equipment, numbers and training. Had the French line failed, and had the kaiser partaken of his Christmas dinner in Paris, all continental Europe would today be paying tribute to Berlin and the United States would be fortunate if she had Great Britain left as an ally in the contest against the Hun. To the heroic Belgians first, and to the French second, we are indebted for the staying of the flood of barbarism that was about to sweep the civilized world. As we did France an injustice by looking upon her as a nation whose chief service was in furnishing styles in clothing and in providing opportunity for pleasure-seeking by the idle rich, we shall endeavor to balance the account by according her due honor for the part she has taken in defending the world against the scourge of the Hun.
