PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE
MENTIONED IN BIBLE

"I commend unto you Phoebe, our sister, who is a servant of the Church which is at Cenchræa," wrote St. Paul to the Romans, "that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you, for she hath been a succorer of many and of myself also."

Phoebe, explains Biblical history, was a woman who went about nursing the sick and teaching them better methods of living. Phoebe was the first public health nurse.

Public health nursing, which is one of the most important enterprises in the peace program of the American Red Cross, is not a new movement, but it is one which heretofore has never received its just meed of attention as a factor in maintaining the health of the nation.

Phoebe's sister in the twentieth century is the community nurse who teaches better, cleaner living. Because the betterment of public health is now definitely accepted as an individual and a community responsibility, the Red Cross will make a definite effort to raise the standards of living in the United States by urging the employment of public health nurses in all cities, towns and rural districts, particularly in those where there are no organized public health activities. A healthier, happier America—that is what the Red Cross is striving toward in its Roll Call the first weeks in November.

Mending With Alum.

An excellent way to mend china and glass is to melt alum in an old iron spoon over the fire and apply to the broken parts. When dry these articles can be washed in hot water and the cement will hold rigidly.

Perhaps They're Still Digging.

There is a legend among the negroes of South Carolina that back in the old pirate days Captain Kidd and Captain Morgan and the others used to sail up the Savannah river and bury their stolen doubloons and pieces of eight in the sands of the cypress swamps. A fortune teller once came through and for a consideration of $25 each agreed to tell the negroes just where the gold was buried. He collected several hundred dollars, and then with a great deal of ceremony staked out as many locations in the sand as he had customers. He then told them very solemnly to come to that spot in the light of the moon, stand directly over the stake and dig at the end of their shadow. Then he sailed away on a river steamer. And he never came back.

MOTHERS MUST NOT DIE, SAYS THE RED CROSS

Sixteen thousand mothers die in childbirth every year in the United States of America, more than are thus sacrificed in any other country of importance in the civilized world. The American Red Cross has announced its belief that these mothers, the very flower of the womanhood of America and heroines every one, shall no longer die through ignorance or neglect, if the public health nursing resources of the country can possibly be extended to give them the necessary care. This is one of the reasons for the Third Red Cross Roll Call which begins Sunday, November 2.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters and a son. Ex-Governor T. T. Geer is a cousin.—Woodburn Independent.

Capt. A. J. Geer, who died last week at Portland, was a brother of Mrs. Al. McCully of Butteville. Capt. Geer was born in 1859 at that place. He began his career as a steamboat man on the Willamette 40 years ago. He was engaged in steam boating in Alaskan waters also. Just a couple of years ago he brought a river steamer over the rapids at Cascade Locks, with 125 passengers, as high water had closed the locks. Two miles of rapids were covered in three minutes.

MERCY WOMEN PRODUCE FORTUNE IN GARMENTS

More than 8,000,000 women and girls participated in the sewing and knitting of the American Red Cross during the war. Most of these workers will be active in soliciting members for the Red Cross for 1920, during the ten days ending Armistice Day. When it is remembered that these women and girls in two years' time produced nearly $100,000,000 worth of surgical articles and garments, including more than 375,000,000 surgical dressings, the fact that they are to assist in the Roll Call is a practical assurance that universal membership will be achieved.
